

UNIVERSAL
LIBRARY

133 446

UNIVERSAL
LIBRARY

CROWN THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY

VOL. X.

PFLEIDERER'S THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CONCEPTION OF CHRIST

Crown Theological Library

WORKS ALREADY PUBLISHED

Vol I.—BABEL AND BIBLE. By Dr
FRIEDRICH DELITZSCH 5s

Vol. II —THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF CHRIST.
An Historical and Critical Essay By PAUL LOBSTEIN.
3s

Vol III.—MY STRUGGLE FOR LIGHT.
Confessions of a Preacher. By R WIMMER 3s 6d

Vol. IV —LIBERAL CHRISTIANITY. Its Origin, Nature, and Mission By JEAN RÉVILLE. 4s.

Vol. V.—WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY? By ADOLF HARNACK 5s.

Vol. VI.—FAITH AND MORALS. By W.
HERRMANN 5s

Vol. VII —EARLY HEBREW STORY. A Study of the Origin, the Value, and the Historical Background of the Legends of Israel By JOHN P
PETER, D.D 5s.

Vol VIII —BIBLE PROBLEMS AND THE NEW MATERIAL FOR THEIR SOLUTION
By Prof T K. CHEYNE, D Litt, D D. 5s

Vol IX —THE DOCTRINE OF THE ATONEMENT AND ITS HISTORICAL EVOLU-TION AND RELIGION AND MODERN CUL-TURE By the late AUGUSTUS SABATIER. 4s. 6d

THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CONCEPTION OF CHRIST

ITS SIGNIFICANCE AND VALUE
IN THE HISTORY OF RELIGION

EXPANDED FROM A LECTURE DELIVERED BEFORE THE INTERNATIONAL THEOLOGICAL CONGRESS AT AMSTERDAM,
SEPTEMBER 1903

BY

OTTO PFLEIDERER

PROFESSOR OF THEOLOGY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF BERLIN

WILLIAMS & NORGATE
14 HENRIETTA STREET, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON
NEW YORK: G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS

1905

CONTENTS

	PAGE
INTRODUCTION . . . . .	7
I. CHRIST AS SON OF GOD . . . . .	16
II. CHRIST AS CONQUEROR OF SATAN . . . . .	49
III. CHRIST AS A WONDER-WORKER . . . . .	63
IV. CHRIST AS THE CONQUEROR OF DEATH AND THE LIFE-GIVER . . . . .	84
V. CHRIST AS THE KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS . . . . .	134
CONCLUSION . . . . .	152

THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CONCEPTION OF CHRIST

INTRODUCTION

It is to the great and abiding credit of the scientific theology of the nineteenth century that it has learned to distinguish between the Christ of Faith and the man Jesus of history, two entities which have been identified by ecclesiastical dogma. By means of careful and toilsome critical investigation it has been shown how the dogma of the God-man gradually took form, precipitated as it were from the intermingling of religious ideas of various origin with the reminiscences of the early Church concerning the life of her Master. An attempt has then been made, by means of separating away later accretions and by falling back upon the oldest historic sources, to approach as nearly as possible to the historic truth concerning the Founder of our religion, and to present His form, in its simple human grandeur and stripped of all mythical accessories, as the ideal of a lofty and noble religious hero worthy of the veneration of the mind and heart of the modern world.

The value of this attempt is incontestable, even though, upon calm reflection, one must confess that many illusions are current as to the significance of the results that have been thus obtained. In glancing at the numerous Lives of Christ, it is impossible to suppress the question whether these attempts to reach the basis of historical truth can ever result in other than hypothetical conjecture—whether it is not true that the sharper the definition we attempt to give to our portrait of the Founder, the more we lose firm foothold upon historical testimony and are carried aloft into the region of ideal fiction. One can scarcely avoid answering this question in the affirmative when one glances at the vital differences in the so-called historical results obtained by the different authors of Lives of Christ. Can we indeed expect that it should be otherwise, when we reflect that the earliest records betray the most evident tokens that in them history is interwoven with ideal motives, whether of legend or of apologetics or of dogmatic speculation? Jewish prophecy, Rabbinic teaching, Oriental gnosis, and Greek philosophy had already mingled their colours upon the palette from which the portrait of Christ in the New Testament Scriptures was painted. And so all that can be determined with certainty from these writings is only that conception of Christ which was the object of the faith of the early Christian communities and their teachers. It is true that the reminiscences of the first disciples concerning the life and death of their Master have contributed a most important element to this conception, which was from the first very complicated and many-sided, an element indeed which, although it formed the nucleus round which all crystallised, was nevertheless only one element among many others. But the question as to how much of the New Testament conception of Christ is due to genuine historical reminiscence, and how much is derived from other sources, is a problem which can never be solved with absolute certainty.

How then does it come about that the eyes of so many are blind to the recognition of a fact so indisputable as this? Without doubt it is because of the supposition, which in these days seems to be regarded as an axiom, that intimate knowledge of Christianity stands and falls with exact historical knowledge of the personality of its Founder. But is not this supposition again only an illusion? It is evident that the Christian religion and the Christian Church are based upon that early belief in Christ to which the New Testament and contemporary Christian literature bear witness. This alone is the established fact, which is in no way affected however the answer to the question concerning the origin of this belief may fall. It makes no difference whether historical tradition concerning Jesus of Nazareth has contributed more or less to this belief, or whether this contribution has been direct or indirect, or even—which is of course most improbable—if it has contributed nothing at all; the content of that belief, and consequently the essential character of Christianity, abide the same.

It follows therefore that scientific theology cannot remain true to her function—the investigation of the nature of Christianity—if, instead of inquiring into the whole content of the New Testament idea of Christ, she emphasises only the phases of that conception which are acceptable to the thought of to-day; if she overlooks all other phases and adds much of her own invention in order to construct an ideal of Christ in accord with modern taste. Such procedure is in these days most common and in great favour—who is there that does not know the long succession of romances commencing with Renan's Life of Jesus? who does not commend Harnack's What is Christianity? It is true that these works may claim a certain practical merit in that they have been able to awaken interest in religion and enthusiasm for moral ideals among many of the indifferent. Only let us guard ourselves from the great mistake of imagining that the portraits of Christ drawn in these works—each differing in accordance with the differing disposition of the author, each besides more or less affected by modern ideals—represent the result of genuine historical research, and bear to the ancient portrait the relation of truth to falsehood. We must, in all modesty and honour, allow that both the modern and the ancient are alike creations of the common religious spirit of their times; that they have sprung from the natural craving of faith to fix and to illustrate the principle of its life in a typical form. The distinction in both corresponds to the difference of the times; in one case we have the simple epic of myth, in the other the romance of sentiment and reflection. To ask which of the two is the more true were as useless as to ask the same question concerning Homer's Odyssey or Milton's Paradise Lost and Klopstock's Messiah. To the men of old the Christ of modern thought would have been incomprehensible and therefore untrue; while to the mind of to-day simple faith in the antique mythical epic is no longer possible. But because we can no longer share in the simple belief of ancient days and accept myth as historical reality, are we therefore to regard it as mere delusion and superstition? That indeed would be an error, which, though it was pardonable in the times of rationalism, ought to be quite impossible for minds trained in the historic method of the science of to-day. Surely myths and the corresponding rites and ceremonies in which the mythical idea finds dramatic, free, living, and continuous presentation are by far the most original and forcible form of expression of the peculiar genius of every religion, and are therefore of the greatest significance for the investigator of the history of religion; they are in fact his ultimate source of information.

But of course, if the import and significance of the early Christian myths is to be understood, these must be considered not simply in the isolation of Christian tradition, but in relationship with and in dependence upon the myths and legends of universal religious history. The sphere of comparative religion, I am convinced, offers to the theology of the twentieth century a rich field of labour, whose culture will result in the clearing up of many problems to which Biblical exegesis and criticism have so far found no satisfactory solution. By this means we shall come to a clearer comprehension of the character of those realistic conceptions and expressions of ancient thought, which are so foreign to us moderns that we always tend to refine them away to mere symbolism; and our eye for the psychological motives and the historical background of legend will become keener. Of course we stand to-day still in the very beginnings of a science whose sphere is of such wide extent. If in spite of this I venture to lay before you a tentative experiment in its method in the following investigation of the primitive conception of Christ in the light of the history of religion, I do so in hope of your kind forbearance, and with the intention of paying a tribute of gratitude to the learned scholars of Holland, who in this very science of comparative religion stand pre-eminent in merit—in place of all others I mention only our friend Tiele, whose name can never be forgotten.

I

CHRIST AS THE SON OF GOD

FROM the very beginning it was the belief of the Christian community that Jesus was the Son of God, but as to the degree and the significance of this Divine Sonship opinion was at first very divided. We can distinguish at least three meanings of the phrase "Son of God," each of which has its parallels partly in Jewish, partly in Gentile religious history.

1. According to the most ancient opinion, the man Jesus Christ was raised to be the Son of God by a divine act of adoption which was at first connected with the Resurrection from the dead and the Ascension to Heaven, and afterwards with the voice from Heaven at the Baptism, when by the descent of the Spirit

He was endowed with miraculous Messianic power. Accordingly "Son of God" did not yet imply that His nature was supernatural, but only that to Him had been given the office and power of the Messiah, that is, of the divinely appointed king of the people of God.

2. But parallel with this view which prevailed in the primitive Church there ran another conception which already obtained a footing in the Gentile Churches at a very early date. It derived its origin from the Apostle St Paul, who taught that Jesus was the Son of God because a spiritual personality, pre-existing in Heaven, had become incarnate in Him. This Christ-Spirit St Paul had not yet of course thought of as God, but as the peculiar first-born son and express image of God, and moreover as the archetype of mankind, the heavenly ideal man (the second man from Heaven of 1 Cor. xv. 47) who was destined from the beginning to appear in earthly form that He might redeem mankind from the curse of sin, of the law, of death. But the mediator of redemption must have been already from the beginning the mediator of creation; hence He is called in the Epistle to the Hebrews "the very image of the substance of God, upholding all things by the word of his power" (i. 3), and in the Epistle to the Colossians, "the first-begotten of all creation, in whom, and through whom, and to whom all things have been created, in whom all things consist" (i. 15 f.). St John's Gospel however closes and completes this cycle of thought with the teaching that "the Logos, which in the beginning was with God, and was God, by whom all things were created, in whom was the life and light of men," became flesh in Jesus (i. 1 ff.). Accordingly, Christ is the Son of God no longer simply because of the adoption and apotheosis of the man Jesus, but because in Him has been perfected the incarnation of that divine nature, which as the Logos, that is as the personal Word, had been from the beginning of the world the mediator of all divine revelation.

Finally these two conceptions of the incarnation of a God and of the apotheosis of a man were combined in a third view, that Christ was the Son of God because He was supernaturally conceived by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary, and so, although human because of His mother, He was yet Son of God in the most complete physical sense of the word. This view arose in the second century among Christians of Gentile origin, and soon became the most popular tradition.<sup>1</sup>

To these separate ideas concerning the Divine Sonship of Christ Jesus<sup>2</sup> close parallels <sup>1</sup> St Matt. i. 18-25 and St Luke i. 34 f. Only in these two passages of the New Testament, the latter of which does not probably belong to the original text, is this tradition mentioned. It belongs therefore to the latest elements of the New Testament conception of Christ.

<sup>2</sup> For a more complete discussion and development of the sketches of the New Testament conception of Christ, both here and in the following pages, I refer once for all to my book, Das Urchristentum, seine Schriften und Lehren, 2nd edit., 1902.

are found partly in Judaism, partly and still more completely in Gentile religious history.

The adoptionist theocratic idea of the Divine Sonship of the Messiah can be clearly traced back to the old Israelitish belief in the intimate connection of the Davidic kingship with Jahweh the nation's God. The prophetic author of the Books of Samuel makes God say to David, "To thy seed I will establish the kingdom for ever. I will be his father, and he shall be my son, so that if he commit iniquity I will chasten him with the stripes of the children of men. But my mercy shall not depart from him, as I withdrew it from him that went before thee ; rather thine house shall be made sure for ever before me" (2 Sam. vii. 13 ff.). Trusting in this covenant of Jahweh with the royal house of David, the pious king of the second Psalm, amid the hostile plottings of the rulers of the world against Jahweh and His anointed, finds consolation in the certainty that God has set His king upon Sion, and has said to him, "Thou art my son, today have I begotten thee [i.e. established thee as king]. Ask of me, and I will give thee the nations for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a sceptre of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel" (Ps. ii. 6 ff.). In this sense the Jews hoped for the anointed king of the happy future, the Messiah, who, as Son of David, would be therefore Son of God—that is, His chosen and beloved client and vassal. But besides this adoptionist conception, which still prevails in the Psalms of Solomon of the era of Pompey, another conception makes its appearance in the apocalyptic literature of later Judaism. According to this conception, the Messiah is no mere man, a son of David, but a mysterious spirit-nature proceeding from the secret places of the Heavens. In the Similitudes of the Book of Enoch (the first century B.C.) the Messiah is described as "the Chosen One," "the Son of Man," who was hidden with God before the world was, whose dominion endureth from eternity to eternity, whose power abideth from generation to generation, in whom dwelleth the spirit of wisdom and might, who will judge the secret things, and will execute vengeance on kings and mighty men, but will deliver the Saints and the righteous.—Enoch (chap. xlv–li.). Also in the Apocalypse of Ezra (chap. xiii.) the seer perceives as it were a man rise out of the sea and fly upon the clouds of Heaven; he sees him destroy the armies of the enemy with fire proceeding from his mouth, while he releases the scattered Israelites from captivity and leads them back to their native land. This vision is then interpreted to the seer:—“This man rising from the midst of the sea is he whom the Most High hath kept a great season, by whom He will deliver His creation. Like as one can neither seek out nor know what is in the deep of the sea, even so can no man upon earth see my Son, or those that be with him, but until the time of his day” (i.e. of his revelation as the world’s Judge and Saviour).

Accordingly the “deep of the sea,” out of which the Saviour the Son of God rises, seems to be only a type of the mysterious secret place where he is hidden from the beginning ; we are not indeed told expressly that the place is Heaven, but we may conclude this from the words which tell of his “flying upon the clouds of Heaven” (xiii. 3), and of “those that be with him” (xiii. 52) at his coming, which companions must be understood to be either angels or righteous men of old days who had been translated into Heaven to dwell with the Son of God until the fulness of time (xiv. 9). It is evident, therefore, that the Apocalypse of Ezra, like the Parables of Enoch, regards the coming Saviour as this Son of God and Son of Man pre-existent in Heaven until the time of His appearing. It is no doubt difficult to reconcile this view with the words of chap. xii. 32, where it is said that the Christ will spring from the seed of David, and of chap. vii. 29, “After these years [a rule of four hundred years] shall my Son Christ die, and all that have the breath of life." It is difficult to reconcile this discrepancy of statement; it can indeed only be explained by supposing that the author of this Apocalypse hesitated between the later conception of Messiah as heavenly and pre-existent, and the older view in which he was regarded as the earth-born Son of David. The idea of an incarnation of the heavenly Son of God and Son of Man in the body of an earth-born son of David, which would have united these two conceptions which existed side by side in later Judaistic thought, was never adopted in the circles of Judaism; but it suggested itself so naturally that it is no matter of wonder that in Christianity such a belief made its appearance at a very early date, indeed with St Paul.

The same significance which the heavenly Son of God and Man has in the Apocalypses of later Judaism is ascribed in the philosophy of Alexandrian Judaism to a Mediating Being, who is sometimes called "Wisdom," sometimes "Logos" (Reason and Word). In the Book of the Wisdom of Solomon (whose author was a Jew of Alexandria of the first century B.C.) Wisdom is described as a Spirit with God, yet distinct from Him, mediating His revelation in the creation, preservation, and government of the world, partly person, partly subtile matter which divisible as the air permeates the universe; like the World-Spirit of Heraclitus and the Stoics which was partly Universal Reason, partly first material principle of existence (Urstoff, Urfeuer), but related also to the Archangel Vohu-mano (Good Thought) of Zarathustrism, who stands by the side of Ahura as the chief minister of his will.<sup>1</sup> This Hellenistic hypostasis of the Divine Wisdom is partly the metaphysic principle of the creation and ordered existence of the universe, partly the agent and mediating instrument of the historical revelation of God in the religion of Israel, and above all in those pious souls which she makes friends and children of God and raises to eternal life in fellowship with Him (Wisdom, iii. 1 ff., v. 16 ff., vi. 12 ff.). Thus in this conception the Judæo-Hellenistic author has endeavoured to combine the monistic speculations of Greek philosophy with the positive faith in Revelation which is the characteristic of Jewish theism. The Alexandrian philosopher Philo<sup>1</sup> followed in his footsteps. He bridged over the gulf that yawned between the world of sense and the infinitely lofty, unknowable, unnameable God by means of "Powers," which he also calls "Ideas" and "Angels," among which he distinguishes six as chief, who, like the six Amshaspands of the Zarathustrian religion, guard the throne of God and act as His ministers in the government of the universe. First among these mediatory "Powers" stands the "Logos," who also appears as the essential source of the others, and accordingly as the central mediator of all divine action and revelation. Philo calls him "the eldest, the first-born son of God, the oldest angel, the beginning, the word and the name of God, His image and the archetype of mankind." As mediator of the divine revelation, he is already concerned with the creation of the world, partly as the idea of ideas after whose pattern the universe is formed, partly as the creative power by which all things are called into existence. He is thus like the Platonic idea the metaphysic principle of form, and also the principle of existence like the Logos of the Stoics; but in distinction from these philosophic principles the Logos of Philo is also a self-existent, half-personal mediator, the oldest creature of God, very nearly allied to the archangels of the Jewish and Persian religions. It is in this latter character that he is the instrument of the whole historical revelation of God in Israel, the active agent in all the theophanies of the Old Testament—those, for instance, of the patriarchal history—and more especially in the giving of the Law by Moses, to whom the Logos is brought into such close relationship that the conception of incarnation is almost suggested though it is never really taught. But also the Manna the heavenly bread of the wilderness, the water from the cloven rock, the flame of fire in the cloud that accompanied the camp of Israel, according to Philo, were all manifestations of the Logos; and herein it is betrayed that the original source of the conception lies in the animistic ideas of early popular thought. As the World-Reason of the Stoics was personified in Hermes the messenger of the gods, and as in the Egyptian god Thot<sup>1</sup> the magical creative word of Ammon-Ra, in Vohu-mano the creative wisdom of Ahura, and in the Babylonian Nabu the word of destiny of Marduk took the form of divine mediating personalities, so in like manner Philo's Logos had its origin in the identification of the personified creative wisdom and revealing word of Jahweh with the World-Reason of the Stoics ; thus it combined within itself the attributes of the principle of existence and thought, of the personal mediator of revelation, and of the ideal man ; as son, image, and ambassador of God, the Logos is also the high-priest, intercessor for, and advocate (paraclete) of mankind.

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Stave, Einfluss des Parsismus auf das Judentum, pp. 205 ff.

<sup>1</sup> I refer here to my discussion of Philo in Urchristentum, 2nd edit., ii. 25-54, where will be found quoted the passages of Philo upon which this sketch is based.

<sup>1</sup> Thot was identified by the Greeks with Hermes, and the latter was, in Stoic theology, made the manifestation of the divine wisdom. The relationship of this Logos-Hermes with the Logos-Christ was already noticed by the old apologists. Cf. Justin, Apol., i. 21.

Among Gentile peoples the idea of divine sonship was common and widespread, and that not simply in the case of mythical characters, but also in the case of historical personages of eminence, more especially of rulers and sages. In Egypt, from the earliest days up to the time of the last Pharaohs, the king was regarded as an incarnation of the deity ;<sup>1</sup> he was addressed by the name of the great and merciful god

<sup>1</sup> Wiedermann, Die ägyptische Religion, pp. 92 f.

Horus, sacrifices were offered to him, prayer was directed to him, and it was believed that he himself fulfilled the prayer, or that he at least presented it before the heavenly gods, his fathers and mothers, with whom he lived in unbroken intercourse; indeed the Egyptian kings actually offered prayer to themselves, or rather to the divine genius (Ka) incarnate within themselves. For example we find a prayer addressed to King Menephtah which runs as follows:—"Thou, O king, art the perfect image of thy father the sun which rises in the heavens. Thy beams pierce even into the earth's secret recesses. Every place is full of thy goodness. The words of thy lips are law in every land. As thou retest in thy palace thou hearest what is said in every country. Thou hast millions of ears. Thine eye is bright above all the stars of heaven, it sees what is done in secret,—O merciful lord, creator of the breath of life!" Also in Babylon,<sup>1</sup> from the time of Sargon I., the founder of the empire, the kings were accounted emanations of the Godhead ; Sargon's son Naramsin called himself " God of Agade, lord of the orb of heaven." Afterwards for some time titles of this description seem to have dropped out of use. They return, however, with the kings of the fourth dynasty of Ur, who all prefixed to their names the sign for god (Dingir), built temples to their own honour, set up their statues in different sanctuaries, suffered sacrifice to be offered to their genius, and established the first and fifteenth days of every month as festival days holy to themselves.

<sup>1</sup> Radau, Early History of Babylon, pp. 308 ff.

This belief in the divine descent of kings was so firmly rooted in the Eastern mind that it was transferred even to foreign conquerors and rulers. When Alexander the Great had conquered the Persian and Egyptian Empires, he permitted himself to be styled the son of the Egyptian god Ammon-Ra ; and among the inheritors of his empire his example was followed by the kings of Egypt and partly also by the kings of Syria. It was therefore natural that in later days the Eastern portion of the Roman Empire should have preceded the West in paying divine honours to the emperors. In the East there was no hesitation in worshipping with public rites the living emperor as god, i.e. as an incarnation of the Godhead, while in the West there was greater reserve in this matter.<sup>1</sup> It is true that in Rome since the time of Augustus divine honour was ascribed to the "genius" of the emperor; but most of the emperors of the first century did not dare to assign to themselves the title of god. Only after their death were they elevated to the throne of the gods and received the title divus. Nor did the honour fall to all without discrimination, but only to those whom the Senate accounted worthy of this apotheosis, this consecratio. And thus in the West the divinity of the emperor signified an apotheosis or elevation of the deceased to divine honour because of his own personal merit, while in the East it signified a real incarnation of the deity in each living emperor as such.

<sup>1</sup> Beurlier, Le culte impérial, p. 52; Boissier, La religion romaine, i. 163. Cf. below (Section V.) the hymns to Augustus.

Most striking parallels to the account of the virgin-birth of Christ are found in pagan legend. Pythagoras was regarded by his disciples as an incarnation of Apollo, or as the son of that god.<sup>1</sup> Even in the lifetime of Plato, as we learn from the funeral oration pronounced by his nephew Speusippus, it was commonly reported among the Athenians that Perictione, the philosopher's mother, had conceived him from the god Apollo before her marriage with her husband. Hence the Academy was wont to celebrate the memory of its founder on the birthday of Apollo. It was believed concerning Alexander the Great that he was the son of Zeus, who had visited his mother Olympias in the form of a serpent before King Philip had consummated his marriage with her. Among the Romans Scipio Africanus and Augustus were regarded as sons of Apollo. The Pythagorean teacher and miracle-worker Apollonius of Tyana was accounted by his countrymen a son of Zeus. Simon Magus proclaimed himself to be more than human, and to have been born from a virgin mother. The common motive of legends of this kind, many of which were current in the Græco-Roman world, has been quite correctly discerned by Origen (Contra Celsum, i. 37). It was believed that a man endowed with wisdom and power beyond the measure of ordinary men must also have derived the principle of bodily existence from a higher and diviner seed. In an age which had as yet no conception of natural laws, and whose phantasy was nourished upon manifold tales concerning demi-gods and sons of the gods, it was most natural to explain a personality of uncommon greatness by tracing back its origin to a miraculous birth and divine fatherhood.

<sup>1</sup> Jamblichus (De Vita Pythagorica, chap. 11.) recounts as an ancient legend that Pythagoras was the son of Apollo by Parthenis, the wife of Mnesarchus; but he adds that this story is not to be credited; that rather the soul of Pythagoras in a prior state of existence stood in the closest relationship to Apollo, and by him had been sent to mankind. But in chapter xix. we are told that Pythagoras regarded himself as the human manifestation of the god Apollo, who took human form in order that men might not be so amazed and terrified by the divine glory as to be unable to receive his teaching (cf. St John i. 14, and Barnabas v. 10).

But the most noteworthy parallel to the Christian legend is afforded in the similar legend of Buddhism, for here also the idea of the incarnation of a heavenly pre-existent Being in the historic founder is combined with the idea of his virgin-birth. The legendary biography of Buddha, Lalita Vistara—which was translated into Chinese in 65 A.D., and is therefore certainly pre-Christian,<sup>1</sup> — begins with the former life of the Buddha in heaven. Here he appears in the assembly of the gods and instructs them concerning “the law,” i.e. the saving and eternal truth. He then announces his purpose to descend into the womb of an earthly woman and to be born as man, that he may bring salvation to the world. The sons of the gods embrace his feet, weeping as they cry, "O noble man, if thou abidest not here this dwelling-place of heaven will lose its glory and brightness." He, however, appoints them a successor, and formally consecrates him as a future candidate for the office of Buddha by removing his own tiara and placing it upon his head, saying, "O noble Man, it is thou that after me wilt be clothed with the perfect intelligence of a Buddha" (chap. v. ; Foucaux's Trans., I. 40). Thus the technical term for the heavenly nature of the Buddha, which presupposes the individual incarnations, is "Man" (Purusha) or "Great Man" (Mahapurusha), also "Victorious Lord" (Cakravartin). Whether these expressions imply some connection with the god Vishnu, as Senart thinks,<sup>1</sup> may be left undecided; what interests us is the relationship of this conception with the

<sup>1</sup> Foucaux, Le Lalita Vistara, translated into French from the Sanscrit, I. VIII My sketch and quotations are taken from this translation, which is acknowledged to be the best.

<sup>1</sup> Senart, Essai sur la légende du Buddha, chaps. i and ii.

Judæo-apocalyptic term for the heavenly pre-existent Messiah, "Son of Man" or "Man" (Daniel vii. 13, Enoch and Ezra); with the Pauline "second man from Heaven"; with the Gospel name for Messiah, "Son of Man"; with the teaching of the Ophite Gnostics concerning the threefold Godhead, consisting of the First Man or Father, the Second Man or Son, and the Holy Spirit or the Mother of the Living (Irenæus, Adv. Hæreses, l. 30); finally and more especially, with the teaching of the Elkesaite Gnostics, which also lies at the foundation of the Clementine Homilies, in accordance with which the heavenly Christ-Spirit, the king of the world to come, first became man in Adam, then in Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, and at last by a miraculous virgin-birth in Jesus, while still further embodiments of this Spirit are expected in the future, in order that the world, sunk in darkness, may again and again be delivered by the true Prophecy (Hippolytus, Philoso- phumena, ix. 10 ; Epiphanius, Hær., xxx. 53). It is not yet possible to determine how far the Indian doctrine of the incarnations (avatars) of the "Great Man" in the enlightened teachers or Buddhas of different epochs and the Judæo-Christian doctrine of the Man from Heaven are historically dependent upon one another. I would only note that the Elkesaite and Clementine doctrine of the separate incarnations of the heavenly Spirit in Adam, the patriarchs, and Jesus seems to have such an astonishing likeness to the Indian doctrine that one can scarcely doubt that here at least is a case of direct connection; and such connection is the more probable in that the Elkesaite Gnosis was first taught by an Eastern Persian or Parthian about the year 100 A.D., for at that time India and Eastern Persia were in intimate communication with one another. We do not of course know how long before this time Indian influences had worked their way into Western Asia, and we must therefore for the present confine ourselves to establishing the fact of the parallelism between the Buddhist "Great Man" and the Judæo-Christian "Son of Man" without attempting to maintain that these ideas are historically interdependent.

The legend of the Lalita Vistara proceeds to relate how the queen Maya sought permission from her husband, King Suddhodana of Kapilavastu, to withdraw for a period from wedded life, in order to practise in strict retirement the life of an ascetic. During her fast in the springtime, when the constellation Puchya stood in the heavens, it came to pass that she saw in her dream a white elephant enter into her body, doing her no hurt. She related the dream to her husband, who asked of the augurs an interpretation. These prophesied that great gladness was about to come to them, for the queen would bear a son, who would be either a mighty ruler or a perfect saint, a Buddha and Saviour of the world. When after ten months she had brought forth her son in a birth painless and undefiled, the new-born child at once cried out with the voice of a lion :—"I am the noblest, the best thing in the world ! This is my last birth ; I will put an end to birth, to old age, to sickness, to death !" At this instant the earth quaked and heavenly music was heard, a supernatural light filled all quarters of the universe and put darkness to flight. All creation was filled with the highest ecstasy of joy, and was delivered from all the bonds of passion and ignorance ; the pain of the diseased was relieved, hunger and thirst ceased, the drunkards became sober, the insane came to a right mind, the blind saw, the deaf heard, the maimed were made whole, the poor became rich, the bound were set at liberty, the sufferings of every creature, even of those in hell, came to an end. Then came the hosts of the gods and spirits of heaven and paid homage to the Buddha-child and his mother, offering gifts, costly spices, garments and ornaments ; the highest of the gods appeared in the form of young Brahmins and uplifted a psalm of praise:—"Happy is the whole world, for he is really born—he who brings salvation, the restorer of peace on earth. He has appeared who by the glory of his merit will dim sun and moon and chase darkness utterly away. The blind see, the deaf hear, the deranged come to reason. The vice inherent in nature no longer vexes and disturbs, for the whole universe is full of good will. Gods and men can from henceforth approach one another without enmity, for he is the leader of their pilgrimage" (Lalita Vistara, I. 78–88). At that time there lived in the Himalayas a great seer, Asita, who perceived from wondrous signs in the heavens that a prince was born of exalted destiny either as a kingly ruler or as a saint and saviour. He came to Kapilavastu, he entered into the royal palace to see the new-born child, and recognised upon him the thirty-two signs of the "Great Man" (the incarnation of the heavenly Buddha). After he had seen this, the seer Asita began to weep and sigh deeply. When the king inquired whether he foresaw some peril to the young prince Siddhartha, he replied:—"No; I weep not for him, but for myself, because I am old and feeble; but this young prince will be clothed with the perfect wisdom of a Buddha, and then for the salvation and joy of the world as well as of the gods will he teach the law whose beginning, middle, and end is virtue—in its fullest, clearest sense will he set it in the light. And when they have heard it from his mouth, all creatures observing the laws of their development will be completely delivered from birth and old age, from disease and care, from mourning, from pain and sufferings of all kinds; those that are inflamed with the fire of passion will he refresh with the water of the good Law; those who are ensnared in darkness and wander in the way of evil, he will lead by the right way of salvation (Nirvana); those who are bound by the chains of natural corruption will he release from their fetters; in the blind, whose eye is darkened by the thick mist of ignorance, will he open the eye of wisdom; countless creatures will he deliver from the raging sea of this life and will guide them and grant them entrance into Immortality. As for us, we shall not live to know this deliverer most precious! For this I weep and sigh, because I have no hope of attaining to the deliverance from disease and passion" (Lalita Vistara, I. 91-94).

No one can fail to be struck with the manifest likeness of these Buddhist legends to the story of the childhood of Jesus as related in the Gospels, more especially in the Gospel of St Luke. But we find also much that runs parallel to the tale in St Luke ii. 41-52, concerning the visit of Jesus to the Temple when He was twelve years old. When the Prince Siddhartha was brought into the school, his superior knowledge of the whole sixty-four writings of Indian wisdom astonished his teachers and put them to the blush. Once when he had gone into the fields to watch the work of tilling,<sup>1</sup> he fell into an ecstasy of pious meditation under the shadow of a tree; five foreign sages or saints (richis) passed that way, and perceived from the halo of glory which streamed from the future Buddha that he must be a son of a god, if not the incarnation of the sun-god himself, and they foretold his future career as teacher of the law, as the light and saviour of the world. In the meantime his absence was noticed at home; when the king asked whither he had gone, none could tell, and they began to search for him everywhere. At last he was found under the tree, whose shadow had not moved during the whole day, surrounded by the saints, bright with majestic light like the moon amid the stars. To his father, trembling at the sight, the son speaks with the voice of Brahma, full of authority: "Cast aside thy ploughing,<sup>1</sup> O my father, and seek higher." He thus blames his father's lack of higher perception and aspiration, just as the youthful Jesus acts towards His mother in St Luke ii. 49. Thereupon he returned with his father to the city and dwelt there, accommodating himself to the customs of the world, yet in spirit busied with the thought of his departure to become perfect and pure existence (Buddha).—Lalita Vistara, I. 115, 118–122.

<sup>1</sup> According to another version this happened at the spring festival, when the king was wont to draw the first furrow with a golden plough. It was curiosity to see this festival that tempted the nurse to leave the young prince by himself.

How deeply the thought of continuous incarnations of the divine spirit in historical personages is rooted in the mind of the Asiatic peoples is shown in the formation of the religious sect of Babism in Persia<sup>2</sup> even in the nineteenth century. Its founder, Mirza Ali Mohammed, early in his life made his appearance as an enthusiastic reformer of the official Mohammedan religion and an impassioned opponent of the degenerate hierarchy, and soon gathered round him a large circle of followers who regarded him with fanatical devotion and veneration. This took place in the year 1844. The founder claimed unlimited authority, and called himself the "Bab," that is, the "gate" through which alone a man could come to the knowledge of God. He believed that he was the highest embodiment of the divine breath or word, whose former manifestations had appeared in Abraham, Moses, Jesus, and Mohammed. He taught that all these divine messengers are alike, are indeed really only different manifestations of the same divine essence, in so far as they all have God as their common and direct origin, and are bound closer with Him and return more quickly to Him than other men. All that distinguishes them from one another is the form of the divine manifestation, conditioned in each case by the time of its appearance; just as Jesus was a reproduction of Moses in accordance with the demands of a new era, so the Bab is a reproduction of Mohammed. But although he is for the time the highest manifestation of the divine spirit, yet he is not the last manifestation ; he has successors as well as predecessors. In this assured conviction the Bab met a martyr's death with a calm and joyful spirit, and prophesied that the spirit of God which dwelt in him would immediately after his death pass to one of his disciples — "he whom God will show will continue the work of Bab, and will free the world from the unrighteousness which now rules in it." As a matter of fact, the sect continued to exist under new leaders after the execution of the Bab at Tebriz in 1850, and has still in these days many adherents. One of its later leaders, Beha, who died at Acre in 1892, was regarded by his adherents as an incarnation of the Deity, and was even called "god" and "king or creator of gods."<sup>1</sup> Another party raised a protest against such immoderate and irrational claims, thus affording an opportunity for the discussion of the old question—What is the relation of the Divine essence to its human form of manifestation?

<sup>1</sup> This presupposes that the ploughing ceremony of the spring festival was the cause of the loss of the child.

<sup>2</sup> Gobineau, Les religions et les philosophies de l'Asie centrale, pp 145 ff.

<sup>1</sup> Brown, The New History of the Bab, 1893, p. 359.

48 Christ the Son of God

II

CHRIST AS THE CONQUEROR OF SATAN

It was from the beginning the conviction of the Christian community that Christ was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil. This faith came to expression in many different forms:—

1. Before His entrance upon His mission Christ had victoriously withstood the temptations of Satan. According to the narratives of the Evangelists St Matthew (chap. iv. 1–11) and St Luke (chap. iv. 1–13), this moral conflict between Christ and the devil comprised three assaults, in each of which Christ by the mighty weapon of the Word of God came off victorious; at last, we are told, the devil left Him (according to St Luke at least for a season), and the angels came and ministered to Him (St Matt. iv. 11; St Luke iv. 13; St Mark i. 13).

2. Christ proved His superiority to and His conquest of the devil by driving out devils from the possessed and the diseased (St Mark iii. 22 f.; St Matt. xii. 24–29).

3. The time will come when Christ, at His Second Coming to judge the world, will for ever make an end of the power of Satan. This final victory over the spirit of evil is in the Revelation of St John divided into two acts:—The King of Kings descends from Heaven with His host of angels; by the sword which proceeds from His mouth He subdues the hostile, godless world-powers that are arrayed against Him; then the devil is bound and cast into the abyss of Hell, where he abides in prison under lock and seal for a thousand years. Until the end of these thousand years Christ and the martyrs who have risen again will reign; then the devil will be loosed from his prison, and will come forth to deceive the nations of the earth, more especially Gog and Magog, and will gather them together to war against the saints; but his hosts will be destroyed by fire from Heaven, and Satan himself will be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone to be tormented for ever and ever (Rev. xix. 11-xx. 10).

Parallels to the Gospel story of the Temptation are found in Buddhist and Iranian legends. The Buddhist story is told in different versions. The following is a summary of the discursive narrative found in Lalita Vistara, chap. xxi. :— After Prince Siddhartha had left the palace of his father and had lived as a monk for five years, he betook himself to the tree of knowledge, that in deepest meditation he might attain to perfect wisdom and Buddhahood. As now Mara, the lord of carnal pleasure and all evil, knew that his reign would be brought to an end by Buddha, he summoned all his hosts of evil spirits to war against his dangerous enemy. They cast at him, as he sat under the tree of knowledge, mountains and flames of fire and weapons of every kind, but all their missiles turned into flowers falling at his feet, or hanging in garlands on the tree above him. Then the hostile demon, full of rage and spite, spake to the Buddha: Arise, king's son, and enjoy the kingdom, for by what merit hast thou attained salvation (i.e. Buddhahood)? Buddha appealed to the countless sacrifices which he had presented for the good of all creation in his former states of existence; he called upon the earth to bear him witness. Amid earthquake and terrific crashing the goddess of the earth appeared and spake to him: It is indeed, O Great Man, just as thou hast said; but thou thyself art become the highest thing in the universe, though it includes even the gods. Thereupon all the demons fled like jackals before the roar of the lion. Now the fiend called upon his daughters the Apsaras, and commanded them to tempt the Buddha by displaying all their charms before him. But he abode insensible to all their allurements, and taught them concerning the vanity and peril of deceitful pleasure with such earnestness that they withdrew in shame and acknowledged the impregnability of his virtue and the sublimity of his perfect wisdom. Then drew near the good spirits of the tree of knowledge and praised the victory of Buddha over the fiend. Yet once again Mara returns to the assault with the demand that Buddha should yield to him, the lord of the air and the visible world, since the goal of his endeavour was too difficult to reach. Buddha however answered : Art thou the lord of the air and the visible world, so am I the lord of the law, and I will attain to knowledge in spite of thee.— Thus the saint withstood the temptations of the evil one ; thus in the face of all his terrors, as well as of his allurements, he steadfastly upheld his conviction of his high destiny and his purpose to fulfil it by the way of self-renunciation and knowledge ; and thus immediately afterwards, under the tree of knowledge, he reached perfect enlightenment ; he became “ Buddha.”

The Persian legend also tells of a temptation of the prophet Zarathustra by the evil spirit Ahriman, who suggested to him the thought : “ Renounce the good law of the worshippers of Mazda, and thou shalt win the power which Zohak, the ruler of the nations, possessed.” But Zarathustra answered : “ No, I will never renounce the good law of the worshippers of Mazda, though even my body, my life, and my soul burst asunder ; the word which Mazda teaches is my weapon, my best weapon !” Nor could the evil one withstand it. But as the final conqueror of the Satanic empire of Ahriman, the Iranian religion awaits a future deliverer Soshyans, in whom one may almost recognise a miraculous reappearance of Zarathustra himself, in that he is to be born of a virgin who has conceived from the seed of Zarathustra preserved in a well in which she bathes.<sup>1</sup> According to the expectation of the Iranian religion, the appearance of this "Victorious Saviour" Soshyans will bring about the renewal of the world and the resurrection. This consummation will be preceded by an insurrection and conflict in the world of spirits. The hostile dragon Dahak, which the hero Feridan once conquered and bound in the mountain Demavend, will break loose from his fetters to bring evil upon the earth; but the hero Keresaspa will wake from his long slumber and will slay him. Then Soshyans will bring about the resurrection of all men, and will assign them their reward according to their works. The godless will be punished in Hell for three days and three nights; then all evil will be destroyed in a universal conflagration; Ahura and his archangels will overthrow their enemies, Ahriman and his evil spirits, in a final battle, and these will be utterly consumed in the metal melted by the great conflagration; while for the men who are purified Soshyans will prepare the cup of immortality.—This is the description of the Last Things given in chap.

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Hubschmann, “ Parsische Lehre vom Jenseits und jüngsten Gericht ” in Jahrbücher für prot. Theol., 1879, p. 234 ; and Bocklin, Die Verwandtschaft der judischchristlichen mit der parsischen Eschatologie, pp. 91 ff.

xxx. of the Bundehesh, a theological treatise of the time of the Sassanids.<sup>1</sup> But in an ancient story of the Avesta,<sup>2</sup> Soshyans is already extolled as the conqueror of the evil spirits and as the renewer of the universe: "Kingly glory will cleave to Soshyans and his other friends, when the world is transfigured, when it is delivered from old age, from death, from decay and corruption, so that it prospers and flourishes continually, when all the dead rise again, when all life becomes immortal, when the world is restored at its wish, when pure good takes up its endless abode here upon earth, when also the lying spirit shall perish."

In chap. xii. of the Revelation of St John, the Christian editor has handed down to us a Jewish legend of a similar type. It tells of the persecution of the infant Messiah by the devil, who is afterwards defeated by the Archangel Michael. This is a legend which is not simply parallel to, but has its direct origin in a heathen myth concerning the conflict between the gods of light and darkness. According to the tale of Greek mythology,<sup>1</sup> Leto, before she bore Apollo to Zeus, was persecuted by the earth-dragon Python, who sought to destroy the expected child, for an oracle had threatened that the child if he lived would bring mischief to Python. But the wind-god Boreas caught up the persecuted goddess and brought her to Poseidon, who prepared for her a place of refuge on the island of Ortygia, where the waves of the sea hid her from the sight of the persecutor. Here Leto gave birth to Apollo, who, even on the fourth day after his birth, was so strong that he slew the dragon Python on Mount Parnassus. The wide diffusion of this myth in Asia Minor is proved by coins bearing the figure of Leto as a fugitive. In the syncretistic circles of Jewish Hellenism it was expounded as referring to the coming Messiah, and in consequence naturally suffered some transformation. The main outlines, of course, remained the same: The persecution of the heavenly child (Messiah) and his mother (the ideal Israel) by the dragon (the devil), and her escape upon the wings of the wind (an eagle in the Jewish version) to a hidden place in the desert (instead of the island of the Greek story), and the part played by the water-flood, though it is different in each case; but in the Jewish form of the myth the defeat of the evil dragon is no longer assigned to the Messianic child who is caught up to God, but to the warlike Archangel Michael, who, as the guardian angel of Israel, plays to a certain extent the part of Messiah in the spirit-world; and besides the result of this conflict in Heaven is not the final destruction of the dragon—he is only cast down from Heaven to earth, where, having great wrath, he for a short period continues his hostility against the children of the woman until the time comes that he is overthrown by Messiah. The simple heathen myth concerning the persecution and deliverance of the infant sun-god and his speedy victory over the hostile dragon of darkness, became more complicated in its Jewish version, because the final Messianic overthrow of the devil's reign upon earth belonged to the future, and could not therefore be assigned to the infant Messiah. Accordingly the conflict, in the Jewish version, must be divided into two acts, of which the first, the heavenly prelude whose hero is Michael, lies in the past, while the second, Messiah's final victory, is still reserved for the future. This Jewish form of the heathen myth rendered its transference to Jesus the Christ in the Christian Apocalypse the more simple, in that He likewise is to be fully revealed as the conqueror of Satan only at his Second Coming, while in the meantime He is caught away to the throne of God (by his ascension), safe from the assaults of his enemies.

<sup>1</sup> Sacred Books of the East, V. 120 ff.

<sup>2</sup> Ibid., XXIII. 306.

<sup>1</sup> In Hyginus Fabulæ (ed. Schmidt, p. 17). Dieterich, Abraxas, pp. 177 ff., was the first to bring to notice this mythical background of Rev. xii.

This myth, the root of the apocalyptic vision of Rev. xii., sends forth another shoot in the legend concerning the persecution and escape of the infant Christ in the second chapter of St Matthew's Gospel. Here the dragon of the myth, which became the devil in Revelation, now becomes Herod, the malignant king of the Jews, who plots against the life of the infant Messiah and commands the massacre of the innocents at Bethlehem. Here also the mother escapes with the child, not however into the wilderness, but into Egypt, because the young Messiah must be called forth from the same land whence Israel once was led, that the word of the prophet (Hosea xi. 1) might be fulfilled. This legend has moreover many prototypes in tales concerning the heroes of old—in the exposure of the infant Moses and his rescue by the daughter of Pharaoh (Exodus ii.); in the similar tale concerning Sargon, the son of the Assyrian king, who was persecuted by his uncle and exposed in an ark of reeds on the river Euphrates, and was rescued and reared by a water-carrier;<sup>1</sup> in the Indian myth concerning the god-man Krishna (the incarnation of the god Vishnu) and the malicious designs against him of his uncle King Kansa, who ordered all the children of the same age in his land to be slain, but Krishna escaped to certain poor shepherds who reared him.<sup>2</sup> Similarly Cyrus the young king of the Persians ought to have been slain by the order of his grandfather Astyages, but the shepherd entrusted to do the deed spared the child and brought him up as his own son.<sup>3</sup> Likewise we are told that before the birth of Augustus, because an oracle foretold the birth of a king of Rome, the Senate decreed that all males born that year should be slain, a decree which was disobeyed by the parents of Augustus.<sup>4</sup> But although all these legends have their ultimate source in nature-myths of the character of the Leto-Apollo myth, the

<sup>1</sup> Smith, Early History of Babylon, p. 46.

<sup>2</sup> Wheeler, History of India, I. 462 f

<sup>3</sup> Herodotus, i. 108 ff.

<sup>4</sup> Suetonius, Octavianus, 94.

62      The Conqueror of Satan

common motive of them all is easily recognised. They all place in clear light the abounding worth of the life of the great hero, by showing that from the very first his existence was the object of conflict between the powers of light and darkness. The life of the infant must declare as in a prelude what is to be the life-work of the hero ; in it also must be seen the victory of the divine principle of life and light over the hostile powers of the world.

III

CHRIST AS A WONDER-WORKER

ALTHOUGH Jesus himself had repelled the suggestion that He should work striking miracles, and had sharply rebuked the desire for these as a sign of a perverted mind (St Mark viii. 11*f.* ; St Matt. xvi. 1-4), it was not possible but that the imagination of the faithful should deck the form of Christ with a rich garland of miracle. This was indeed the inevitable consequence of their belief in His Messianic office and His divine sonship ; for the Messiah of Jewish expectation must repeat and surpass the wonders wrought by the men of God in the Old Testament, and it seemed only natural that the supernatural spirit, with which the Son of God was filled or to which He owed His earthly existence, should declare itself in supernatural power even during the earthly life of Christ. The miracles of the Gospel history may be divided into two classes : miracles of knowledge and miracles of power.

1. Miracles of knowledge :—

(a) Wonderful insight into the heart of man. (St John ii. 25.)

(b) Foreknowledge of the future. (Prophecy of the Passion, the Resurrection, and the Second Coming.)

(c) Miraculous knowledge of events, both past and present, happening at a distance. (St John i. 48, iv. 17, xi. 14.)

2. Miracles of power :—

(a) Driving devils from the possessed.

(b) Cures of other diseases.

(c) Raising the dead.

(d) Miraculous power over matter and the forces of nature. (Multiplying of the loaves, changing of water into wine, stilling of the storm.)

- (e) Freedom from the limitations of space and of material existence. (Sudden disappearances and appearances, passage through closed doors, walking on the water, Ascension into Heaven. St John vi. 19 ff.; St Luke xxiv. 31, 36, 51; St John xx. 19, 26.)

All these miracles find countless parallels in the legends of pagan heroes and Christian saints. Let us here select only a few instances.

In Buddhist legend miracles of knowledge play a prominent part. Buddha knows not only his own previous births and lives with all their details, but also possesses similar knowledge respecting others who come into connection with him, he knows their merits and demerits in their previous states of existence, and often explains conversion to his discipleship as being due to the influence of merit gained in a previous life (this is the form that the idea of predestination takes in Indian thought). He also sees into the thoughts of all creatures from the lowest to the highest: "All that passes through your soul is open before me. Others ye may deceive, but me ye cannot deceive."<sup>1</sup> When however at the beginning of his ministry, his opponents, incited by the devil Mara, demanded of him that he should prove his superiority to the saints hitherto revered by miracles wrought before the king and the people, he answered: "I do not teach my disciples that they should go and work miracles by means of supernatural power before the Brahmins, but this I teach them: Thus live, ye pious, that ye hide your good works and show your sins."<sup>2</sup> Nevertheless, in the same context, the legend proceeds to narrate how Buddha shamed and overcame his obstinate opponents by a succession of the most astounding miracles. When the king, deceived by a false accusation, had ordered the hands and feet of his innocent brother to be cut off, Buddha heard from afar the prayer of the sufferer, and at once sent his favourite disciple to heal him by the repetition of the sacred formularies of the Buddhist law. Scarcely were the words spoken before the body of the prince was made whole, while he who was thus healed by Buddha's power at once showed that he also possessed supernatural powers, and entered into the discipleship of the Master. We are further told how a fire broke out in a house in which Buddha lodged, but went out of itself without doing any damage; how Buddha by stamping on the ground caused a fearful earthquake which shook all quarters of the earth; how the spirits of the air rained flowers upon him and played for him heavenly music; how Buddha, when sunk in deep meditation, elevated himself in the air, and how as he soared in the region of light the most wonderful flames of all colours streamed from his body—such scenes of transfiguration occur again and again in the Buddhist legends.

<sup>1</sup> R. S. Hardy, Manual of Buddhism, p. 190.

<sup>2</sup> Burnouf, Introduction à l'histoire du Bouddhisme, pp. 151 ff.

68      The Early Christian

In the West the first centuries of the Roman Empire were a period of the most extensive and absolute belief in soothsaying and miracle. The old tales of Heracles, Orpheus, Æneas, Romulus, Asclepius, and Pythagoras were related by poets and historians as traditional and therefore trustworthy histories, and were further developed to suit the taste of the readers. The historian Diodorus Siculus<sup>1</sup> says of Hercules that this hero, as was universally recorded, had spent his life in enduring great trials and dangers, that by his good deeds to mankind he might gain a share in immortality, and the author gives a detailed narrative of all the wondrous actions of Hercules until his final ascension to Olympus from the funeral pyre. Pausanias relates of Asclepius<sup>2</sup> that he, the son of Apollo and

<sup>1</sup> Hist., l. 2, iv. 8–39.

<sup>2</sup> Periegesis, ii. 26 f.

Coronis, was exposed as an infant by his grandfather, and was discovered by a shepherd who perceived from the brightness streaming from the child's face that there was something divine about him; whereupon the report spread that this divine boy could heal the sick and raise the dead. Again he relates that during a pestilence Asclepius came to Rome in the form of a serpent, and had continued his miracles of healing there for a hundred years. Legend also ascribes to him ten cases of raising the dead; but because he called Glaucus, the son of Minos, back to life, Jupiter smote the great physician with a thunderbolt and translated him to the gods. As the heavenly god of healing he still carried on his work at his sanctuaries, among which those at Epidaurus and Rome were the most celebrated as the resort of pilgrims. In the first centuries of the empire he was accounted the kindest, most humane of the gods; from him help was sought in all distress of body and soul; his temples were crowded with the votive offerings and inscriptions of those who believed that they had received help from him. We are even told that he, like Serapis the Egyptian god of healing, appeared in bodily form to many sick folk.

The popular belief in miracle and supernatural revelation found zealous championship also among the philosophers of the Platonic and Stoic, Neopythagorean and Neoplatonic schools. They brought it into combination with their own doctrine concerning divine providence and mediating natures (dæmons); they understood how to employ its authority as a fulcrum by which to promote their own teaching. In these circles the old tales of Pythagoras, the founder of the famous politico-religious brotherhood, were cherished with especial affection, and were developed so as to present the ideal portrait of a prophet and wonder-worker in whom were mingled the human and the divine. According to the biography of Jamblichus he was not simply a son of Apollo but the bodily incarnation of that god. Besides his wonderful prophetic insight (for a knowledge of his previous states of existence, reminding us of Buddha, is ascribed to him) we are told of a number of most astonishing miracles which he performed : that he healed sick people, put an end to a pestilence by means of magic, stilled the waves of the sea and of rivers so that his disciples could safely pass over them, while the spirit of the floods greeted him by name in a voice clear and audible to all ; also that on one and the same day he was present with his disciples in two places separated by land and sea (Metapontum in Italy and Tauromenium in Sicily)—the same freedom from the limitations of space which often occurs in the legends of Buddha. But the Neopythagorean school was not satisfied with glorifying their ideal of the divinely human sage and wonder-worker in the person of their ancient founder ; they must see it take new form in the Pythagorean Apollonius of Tyana (who died about 96 A.D.), whose biography was written by the rhetorrician Philostratus at the command of the Empress Julia Domna (about 220 A.D.).<sup>1</sup> The author is able to relate a multitude of miracles of knowledge and of power wrought by his hero. He is said to have prophesied divers events of the future, such as the rebellion of Vindex against Nero, the short reigns of Galba, Otho, and Vitellius, the death of Titus, a shipwreck, and so forth. While in Ephesus he saw the assassination of Domitian at Rome. As he was conversing with friends he became suddenly silent, and looking forth with a fixed stare he cried out: "Strike him down, the tyrant!" Then he declared to his astonished friends: "Domitian has just been slain." Soon afterwards the news arrived that the assassination had taken place at that very hour. Apollonius also understood all the languages of mankind and of animals, and knew even the secret thoughts of men. He delivered the city of Ephesus from a demon of pestilence, which he recognised under the form of a poor beggar, whom he ordered to be stoned, whereupon a large dog was found under the stones. In Corinth he unmasked a man-eating vampire in the bride of one of his disciples. While he was lecturing in Athens, his discourse was interrupted by the insolent laughter of a young man. Apollonius perceived that the youth was possessed, and he ordered the demon to depart and to give a visible sign of his departure. Whereupon the demon said that he would overturn the statue standing in the hall. The statue began at once to move and fell down, while the youth from that moment was healed and remained in his right mind. In Rome he met the funeral procession of a young maiden mourned by her bridegroom; he approached and bade the bearers stand still, as he wished to dry the tears of the mourners. All thought that he intended to speak some words of consolation, but he took hold of the maiden and whispered over her some mysterious words; she then arose, began to speak, and returned to the house of her parents. The father wished to give a considerable sum of money as a sign of his gratitude for the renewed life of his child. Apollonius however would not receive it, but assigned it as a dower for the bride. The biographer adds that he leaves the question undetermined whether this was a case of real resurrection from the dead or whether the maiden only appeared to be dead (the same dilemma which remains open in the case of the New Testament stories of the raising of the daughter of Jairus and of the young man at Nain—St Mark v. 41 f. and St Luke vii. 12 ff.). All these and similar miracles of Apollonius were in their aim altruistic and beneficent; they ministered to the deliverance of the sufferers from evil of all kinds; yet some are narrated which had reference to the person of Apollonius himself—among others the following:—When at the command of Domitian he was cast, bound in fetters, into prison, a friend asked him when he would again be free. He answered: "I give thee here a proof of my freedom," and shook off his fetters and again of his own free will replaced them. From this the disciple perceived his supernatural power. This miracle with its transparent symbolism—the superiority of the saint to all the power of a hostile world—reminds one of the miraculous release of the Apostles St Peter and St Paul from prison (Acts xii. 7, xvi. 26), and of the overthrow of the Roman cohort in Gethsemane at the word of Jesus (St John xviii. 6).

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Baur's treatise, "Apollonius und Christus," in Abhandlungen zur Geschichte der alten Philosophie, ed. Zeller, 1876.

The tales of miracles wrought by Christian saints stand in line with these Pythagorean legends. The apocryphal Acts of the Apostles are full of the strangest miracles which they are reported to have performed before the heathen in proof of the truth of their preaching. For instance, according to the Acts of Peter,<sup>1</sup> that Apostle, when in Rome, drove out of a young man a devil, which at its exit overthrew and broke into pieces a statue of the emperor, but St Peter restored it again by the magic spell of holy water. Further, he brought a salted herring to life again, and restored sight to several blind widows; he caused a sucking infant to proclaim with the voice of a man the judgment that was coming upon Simon Magus, and by means of a dog with a human voice he challenged him to a contest in miracle. The magician volunteered to raise a dead man to life, and made his experiment upon a young man whom he had slain by means of magic; but he was only partly successful, since the man immediately died again. St Peter however, before the eyes of the Roman people and the Prefect of the city, raised three dead persons to new and healthy life, and besides healed many who were sick. And when Simon Magus wished to trump all these miracles by causing himself to ascend bodily into Heaven, his attempt was brought to nought by the prayer of the Apostle; as he soared aloft he fell to the ground and was killed. Again, when Peter, at the instigation of his friends, was about to avoid martyrdom by flight, Christ met him near the city gate. Peter asked him, "Whither goest Thou?" He answered, "To Rome, to be crucified a second time." Peter at once returned, was condemned to be crucified, and in his humility begged that he might be fastened to the cross head downwards. As he thus hung crucified he comforted his mourning friends with a discourse concerning the mysteries of the cross, while angels surrounded him bearing garlands of roses and lilies. After his death he appeared oftentimes to his friends, exhorting them to constancy, and in a vision even to the Emperor Nero, to whom he gave a sound thrashing and a warning from henceforth to leave the Christians in peace. These reappearances of the martyrs for the comfort and encouragement of the sorrowing community form a very frequent, one might say constant, trait in the legends of the saints, and have no doubt a basis of fact in real psychical experiences—visions and hallucinations.

<sup>1</sup> Lipsius, Apocryphe Apostelgeschichten, II. 1.

Let us select from the abundant miraculous store of ecclesiastical legend two more instances—one from the time of the ancient Church, the other from the Middle Ages. St Augustine, in the last book of his work De Civitate Dei (XXII. chap. viii.), propounds the question—why is it that miracles such as those narrated in the Gospels no longer occur in these days? He answers—because now they are no longer so necessary as they were then, when they were intended to incite the world to faith; now, he who still requires a miracle in order to believe is himself a miracle, since he refuses to believe in spite of the acceptance of Christianity by the whole world. But, he proceeds, miracles are even now wrought in the name of Christ, whether through the sacraments or through the prayers or memoriæ of His saints; only the miracles of to-day are not so well known as those of the past. And then he recounts a succession of stories of miracles that had happened in his own time and partly in his own immediate neighbourhood. In Milan the bones of the martyrs Protasius and Gervasius were discovered through a revelation given to the Bishop Ambrose in a dream, and at the festival that celebrated the discovery a blind man received his sight in presence of the whole congregation. In Carthage he himself was eye-witness of a miracle performed upon his host Innocentius, who was suffering from a dangerous tumour for which he was about to undergo a surgical operation ; but he was suddenly cured in answer to the fervent prayers of himself and his friends. In the same city a woman suffering from cancer of the breast was cured by a newly baptised infant, who signed the diseased place with the cross, the sign of Christ. A physician suffering from gout was relieved of his disease by baptism. Some sacred earth, which had been brought to Carthage from the sepulchre of Christ at Jerusalem, freed from ghosts a haunted house in that city, and brought about the cure of a lame young man. In Hippo a maiden was delivered from a devil by being anointed with oil which a priest, who was praying for her, had sanctified with his tears. In the same town the prayer of a poor cobbler to the Twenty Martyrs, to whom Hippo paid special devotion, was miraculously answered. He found on the shore a large fish, and in its belly a gold ring ; in this way the martyrs fulfilled his petition for means to obtain clothing. At the festival of the glorious martyr Stephen a blind woman was healed by flowers which had been blessed by the bishop. Flowers from the altar were laid at the head of the bed of an eminent heathen while he slept, and during the night he was moved to accept the baptism which he had hitherto constantly rejected with scorn. A boy who had been fatally injured by being run over by an ox-wagon was brought to the shrine of the martyr, and was at once restored to perfect soundness of body. Lastly, the same martyr raised several dead persons to life by means of a garment sanctified by his relics, which was spread over the dead bodies, or when they were anointed with oil that had been similarly consecrated, or when they were brought to the holy place and prayer was offered over them. . . . . "Accordingly," concludes St Augustine, "even in these days many miracles occur which are wrought by the same God who wrought those of which we read in the Holy Scriptures, through whom He wills and as He wills, only they are not so well known."

We turn now to the legends concerning St Francis of Assisi, the founder of the Order of Minorites or Franciscans, who died in the year 1226 A.D. Bonaventura, the general of the Order, compiled an edition of the legends concerning the saint, which was published as his official biography in the year 1260 A.D. In this book the author records a number of miracles upon the evidence of the friends and first disciples of the saint, who were, we may suppose, eye-witnesses of the events. Francis kissed the sores of a leper and immediately his leprosy vanished. In the wilderness he and his companions were fed with bread from heaven ; during a long voyage he nourished a whole ship's crew from the contents of his wallet, which was ever miraculously replenished. Like Moses he brought water out of a rock, and like Jesus he changed water into wine of the best quality. Once when the brethren were met together, the saint, who was absent in the body, was seen hovering in the air and blessing the assembly with outstretched hands. St Francis was on terms of intimacy with the animals. He preached to the birds, and they listened to him attentively with outstretched necks. Once while he was preaching some swallows disturbed him with their noisy chattering ; he bade them be silent, and at once they were quiet. He exhorted a wolf to give up slaughter ; the beast, placing his paw in the saint's hand, vowed that he would reform, and from that moment he became a tame, domesticated animal. But most renowned of all is the miracle of the stigmata. During the last period of his life the saint is reported to have borne in his hands, his feet, and his side the five wounds of Jesus in the form of scars which bled from time to time. The oldest records give differing accounts of the details of the origin and the nature of these stigmata; and as time went on the legend of this miracle developed until it related forty similarities between the life of St Francis and that of Jesus. Lastly, we are told of countless miracles of healing, of raising from the dead, of deliverance of shipwrecked sailors and others, all wrought by the power of the saint after his death. "So great was the veneration paid to his memory that it was commonly said of him: Exaudit quos non ipse audit Deus—he is thus more merciful than God Himself. This sounds blasphemous, but it is only the definite expression of the thought which lies behind the whole cult of saints."<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Hase, Kirchengeschichte, II. 387.

IV

CHRIST AS THE CONQUEROR OF DEATH AND THE LIFE-GIVER

CHRIST is to the community of the faithful the Saviour because He has conquered death and Hell, has taken away the sting of death, and has brought life and immortality to light (1 Cor. xv. 55 ff.; 2 Tim. i. 10). In order to understand this belief in its proper and original significance, we must note that death for the ancient world was not a natural occurrence, but the result of the influence of supernatural causes. It was regarded either as the judicial penalty inflicted by an offended Deity—and that indeed upon the whole race of mankind since Adam's fall (Rom. v. 12 ff.)—or as the work of dæmonic powers that infected man with the fatal poison of disease and sin, and thereby brought him under the power of Death, who as ruler of the underworld held souls in close bondage in his prison. Accordingly, the deliverance from Death was brought about—partly by means of the propitiatory offering of the vicarious death of the Son of God, who thus reconciled sinful man with God, redeemed him from the condemnation and curse of the law, and brought him within the sphere of the Divine Grace (Rom. iii. 24 f.; 2 Cor. v. 19 ff.; Gal. i. 4, iii. 13); partly by means of the cleansing power of His sacred blood, which delivered mankind from the dæmonic pollution of sin and death (Heb. ix. 11 ff., x. 14, 22, 29); partly because by His own death and resurrection He had deprived the lord of death, the devil, and the Satanic angels of their power over mankind (Heb. ii. 14; Col. ii. 15, i. 13 f.; 1 John iii. 8). According to the first and second views, the Resurrection of Christ is the divine acknowledgment of the propitiatory and purifying efficacy of His death; according to the third view, the Resurrection and Ascension of Christ<sup>1</sup> are together a practical proof of His victory over Death and Hades, whereby Christ has become for us the Prince of Life, its possessor, its surety, its mediator (Acts iii. 15; Rev. i. 18; St John xi. 25, iii. 13 ff.; 1 Pet. iii. 18 ff.; Eph. iv. 8 ff.).

The means whereby the ascended Christ imparts His life to His people are (1) faith in His name, which includes its open confession and invocation (Rom. x. 9 ff.; St John iii. 15 ff., xx. 31, xvi. 23 f.); (2) baptism into His name (Acts ii. 38) as a washing of regeneration (Tit. iii. 5; St John iii. 5), a mystical purification (1 Cor. vi. 11; Eph. v. 26), a participation in Christ's death and resurrection (Rom. vi. 1 ff.); (3) the eating and drinking of the Lord's Supper (1 Cor. x. 16 ff., xi. 23 ff.; St John vi. 51 ff.; Rev. iii. 20, xix. 9).

In the history of religion many parallels are found to all these traits of the New Testament conception of Christ as the Saviour of the world. The belief that the innocent sufferings of the good form a vicarious sacrifice for the benefit of sinners is found for the first time in the exilic prophet Deutero-Isaiah (Is. liii.), and from the time of the Maccabees onwards it occupies a prominent position in the theology of the Pharisees. The Hellenistic writing known as the fourth book of the Maccabees puts into the mouth of the dying heroes of the Maccabean times the following prayer (vi. 29): "Make my blood a sacrifice of purification, and accept my soul in the place of theirs (the nation's)!" And in xvii. 22 we read: "By the blood of those saints and by the sin-offering of their death the Divine Providence has delivered Israel." This conception of vicarious sacrifice also dominated the popular notions concerning animal sacrifices among the Jews as well as among heathen peoples. On the one hand, they were regarded as a substitute for and a dramatic representation of an execution, and in so far as they implied a vicarious satisfaction of the Divine Justice they ministered to the re-establishment of the broken bond of relationship between the community and the Divinity; on the other hand, as the most effective means of purification (for the body and blood of the sacred victim possessed powers peculiarly sacred) they served to remove the impurity which hinders communion with the Divinity.<sup>1</sup> Also among the Greeks propitiatory rites for the appeasement of the anger of offended gods and spirits are often found in conjunction with rites of purification which aim at the removal of dæmonic pollution; both purposes are served by the vicarious sacrifice of animals, and in special instances even of human beings, whose slaughter availed for the purification of the state.<sup>2</sup> In Athens, at the spring festival in the month Thargelion, two condemned criminals were every year led in solemn procession through the city and afterwards stoned or burnt; in Abdera the same sacrifice was offered yearly, and in Marseilles on the occasion of any special public calamity. In the Ionian cities of Asia Minor an animal was generally substituted for a man, or the slaughter was only performed symbolically and replaced by blows with sacred twigs. This substitution of an animal for a man in the sin-offering is still plainly discernible in the legends of the sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham, and of Iphigenia by Agamemnon. But this custom of substitution did not everywhere prevail among the heathen Semites. Even in the period of the Israelitish kingdom the Canaanites, as is well known, still sacrificed their first-born to Moloch in the fire; and the prophets up to the time of Jeremiah were obliged to wage a constant war with the tendency to similar heathen abominations even among the Israelites—a proof how deeply the conception of the necessity of human propitiatory sacrifices was rooted in

<sup>1</sup> The Ascension as the converse of the Descent into Hades was originally one with the Resurrection; both taken together express the exaltation of Christ into Heaven from the realms of death.

<sup>1</sup> Robertson Smith, The Religion of the Semites, 2nd ed., pp. 319 ff.

<sup>2</sup> Rohde, Psyche, pp. 247 f., 366 f.; Frazer, The Golden Bough, III. 125 f., II. 39 ff.

Semitic religion. And indeed the greater the worth and the rank of the life which was sacrificed, the more effectual was thought to be the offering. According to ancient custom, says Philo of Byblus,<sup>1</sup> in times of great danger the ruler of a city or a nation must deliver his beloved son to death on behalf of the whole nation as a vicarious sacrifice to the offended dæmons, and the children thus sacrificed were slain with mystic ceremonies. An example of such a sacrifice of a king's son is given in the story concerning the king of Moab in 2 Kings iii. 27. It is related of the Carthaginians that they believed that their defeat and siege by Agathocles (308 B.C.) were brought about by the wrath of Baal, because they had for a long time sacrificed to him children of slaves instead of children of noble family. They accordingly determined to propitiate their god by casting a hundred children of their noblest families into the fiery cavern of his brazen image, and this number was increased by three hundred more who voluntarily offered themselves for sacrifice.<sup>1</sup> Even at the time of Tertullian<sup>2</sup> this horrible custom was secretly practised by the Carthaginians in spite of all the efforts of the Roman authorities to suppress it. The idea that the sacrifice of royal children had peculiar efficacy is connected with that ancient Eastern belief that the Divinity was incarnate in kings; it was thus a life divine, or at least allied to the Divine, which was in such cases offered to the Divinity. This brings us to the idea of the dying and reviving god which lies at the root of the mysteries.

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Eusebius, Præpar. Evang., iv. 16 (156d).

In its original form this idea belongs to the most ancient elements of the religious legends and customs which arose from man's yearly experience of the withering of vegetation in autumn and its revival in spring. The child-like fancy of primitive man has everywhere regarded these natural phenomena as events in the fateful history of the gods and spirits which rule in nature. This belief has ever found expression in corresponding religious rites of sorrow and joy, rites which were not regarded as empty symbols, but were supposed to exert magical influence in preserving the divine life in nature from the destruction which threatened it every year and in helping forward its victorious resurrection. Relics of this primitive belief have been almost everywhere preserved in popular customs—in the driving forth of winter and death at the spring festivals with their May Queens, in the festivals of harvest with their Corn-mothers or “Maidens” personifications of the Corn-spirit, and so forth.<sup>1</sup> However among the peoples of Asia Minor, Egypt, and Greece these universal conceptions and customs have given rise to definite myths of the death and return of a god whose former history is realised and represented in the rites of the yearly festivals. And when in the later days of advancing civilisation man's anxiety for the preservation of the life of nature gave place to his need of a surety for the preservation of the individual life after death, then we find that those myths and ceremonies which were originally concerned only with the yearly death and revival of vegetation—that is, with the spirits and gods which rule therein—are now transformed into symbols and sacraments of the mysteries by which the pledge of the life to come is conveyed to the initiated.

<sup>1</sup> Diodorus, xx. 14.

<sup>2</sup> Apology, 6.

<sup>1</sup> Details of these customs have been collected in rich abundance by Frazer in The Golden Bough, II. chap. iii. §§ 2 ff. The reader is also referred to this book as an authority for the following remarks upon the mysteries.

Behind the Egyptian mysteries of Isis lies the myth of Osiris, who—originally a god of vegetation—was slain by his brother Set the demon of the withering heat of summer, and since then rules in the underworld as king and judge of the dead, and on earth lives again in his son Horus who avenged his death upon his adversary Set. This myth was celebrated by a religious drama during the autumn festival, which lasted from the 17th to the 20th day of the month Athyr (November). The first day, the 17th the day of the death of Osiris, was celebrated with rites of mourning, but the third day, the 19th, was given up to joy, for on this day, the third after the death, Osiris' body was recovered by his sister and wife Isis.<sup>1</sup> Likewise at Byblus, in a spring festival, the death of Adonis was first celebrated by the mourning of women, and then on the next day his resurrection and translation to heaven were celebrated with shouts of joy.<sup>2</sup> According to another version of the legend we learn that Adonis, like Persephone, always spent one half of the year in the underworld and the other half in the upper world in renewed fellowship with his beloved Aphrodite (Astarte). In Phrygia, Attis, the lover of the "Great Mother" Cybele, plays the part of Adonis in Syria; his festival was held at the time of the

<sup>1</sup> Plutarch, Isis and Osiris, ed. Parthey, chaps. xiii., xxxix., and p. 235.

<sup>2</sup> Lucian, De dea Syria, p. 6.

Spring Equinox, and lasted four days. First the death of the god, the result of his self-mutilation, was celebrated with songs of lamentation, and was symbolically represented by the chief priest, who scratched his arm and offered the blood flowing from the wound as a sacrifice, and by others who mutilated themselves and so followed in the footsteps of the god.<sup>1</sup> Afterwards on the fourth day followed the "Feast of Joy," in celebration of the resurrection of the god, when the priest anointed the mouths of the mourners, speaking the while the formula—

Be of good cheer, ye pious ; as the god is saved,
So will salvation come to us from all our trials.<sup>2</sup>

Essentially the same myth lies at the origin of the mysteries of Demeter and Persephone ; only in this case it is not a husband or lover whose death the goddess bewails, but the daughter whom Pluto, lord of the underworld, has caught away from the flowery meadows<sup>1</sup> into his realm of the shades. The myth relates how she was sought for everywhere over land and sea by her mother, how the sorrow of the goddess checked all fruitful growth, how the threatened danger of universal death by famine moved Zeus to command her restoration to her mother on the condition that she spent one half of each year with her husband in the underworld and the other half with her mother in the world above.<sup>2</sup> The dramatic representation of this history of the two goddesses, especially of the mourning of Demeter and her recovery of her daughter, formed the subject of the Eleusinian mysteries. These mysteries, no doubt, had as their original aim the preservation and promotion of the life of nature by symbolic magic; but later under the influence of the Dionysio-Orphic religion they attained to a loftier significance, and offered to the initiated the pledge of a blissful life after death. Also Dionysus, like Osiris,<sup>1</sup> with whom he is indeed identified by the Greeks, belongs to those nature divinities whose death and mutilation and following revival to life are narrated in different versions of the legends and are represented in the corresponding mystic ceremonies. In these rites the mutilation of the god was imitated in the sacrifice of a bull, which was torn in pieces by the teeth of the worshippers, who devoured the bleeding flesh. Thus they partook of the immortal life of the god, whose incarnation the bull was accounted to be—a mystic communion in which the life and death of the god were ever realised and appropriated afresh.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Prudentius, Peristephanon, x. 1061-1075.

<sup>2</sup> Firmicus Maternus, De errore profan relig., chaps. iii., xxii.

<sup>1</sup> Thus Persephone, like her mother Ceres, is a personification of vegetation.

<sup>2</sup> Firmicus Maternus, De errore profan. relig., chap. vii., Hyginus Fabulæ, 146; Ovid, Metamorp., v. 509-571.

Nearly allied to these legends of the violent death of a god are those which tell of the voluntary descent of a god or hero into the underworld and of his fortunate return therefrom. The most ancient of these is the Babylonian myth of the descent of Istar<sup>1</sup>:—In order that she might restore her lover Tammuz to life again, the goddess descends into the “Land without Return,” to fetch the water of life. When she has arrived at the gate of the underworld she imperiously demands admittance of the porter, otherwise she threatens to break down the doors of Hell and to restore to the world above the spirits imprisoned therein. Much against her will, the mistress of the underworld grants Istar admittance “according to the ancient laws,” i.e. on the condition that, at each of the seven gates she must pass, one of her garments should be taken from her so that she might enter into the underworld quite naked, and that as soon as she arrived she should be closely imprisoned and afflicted with sixty diseases. As now the removal of the goddess of fertility threatened to put an end to all propagation of human and animal life, and thus to bring about the extermination of the living creation (cf. the same thought in the Demeter-myth above, pp. 95 f.), Ea, the chief of the gods, created the hero Assusunamir and sent him into the underworld to deliver Istar. At the command of this ambassador of the gods, the mistress of the underworld released the imprisoned goddess, ordered her to be sprinkled with the water of life, and directed that her garments should be returned to her at each of the seven gates through which she again passed on her upward journey. The poem then seems to conclude with the narrative how Tammuz, the lover of Istar, was washed in the water of life and anointed with oil, and by this means restored to life again; whereupon the death-lament gives place to the joyful tone of the pipes, accompanied by the loud rejoicing and merry-making of the worshippers. We have here evidently a description of a spring festival celebrated with the same rites as those sacred to Osiris, Adonis, Attis, and to Demeter and Persephone. A descent-myth of the Mandæans, a Babylonian Jewish sect, shows the closest relationship with this Babylonian myth concerning Istar. Here the divine hero, Hibil-Ziwa, is called into existence that he may descend into the underworld to conquer the dragon of darkness, to shut up in prison the princes of Hades, and to deliver the spirits of the good and lead them up into the world of light.<sup>1</sup> What Istar only threatened to do is now really performed on behalf of the good spirits by Hibil-Ziwa the heroic ambassador of the gods—the gates of the underworld are broken, the dead are delivered from their prison. Thus this Mandæan myth forms the transition from heathen to Gnostic Christian conceptions of an allied character.

<sup>1</sup> Plutarch, Isis and Osiris, chap xxxv.; Firmicus Maternus, De errore profan. relig., chap. vi.

<sup>2</sup> Clement of Alexandria, Protrept., i. 12, 17 f.; cf. Rohde, Psyche, 301 ff. Frazer, The Golden Bough, II. 165.

<sup>1</sup> Schrader, Hollenfahrt der Istar, and by the same author, Keilinschriften und das Alte Testament, 2nd edit., 561 ff.

In the well-known hymn of the Naassene (Ophite) Gnostics<sup>2</sup> a description is first given of the manifold distress of the human soul; we are told how it wanders about in the labyrinth of the earthly life without finding any outlet of escape. Therefore, the hymn proceeds, Christ, the heavenly spirit of salvation, implored His Father:—"Send me! In possession of the seals, let me descend, let me wander through all the æons and disclose all secrets, let me make known the forms of the gods and impart the hidden mystery of the holy way called Gnosis." The Gnostic scheme of salvation is therefore as follows:—The heavenly Christ-Spirit descends through all space to deliver the souls imprisoned by the Satanic powers of earth and of Hades. He effects this deliverance by imparting a secret knowledge of these powers, which gives the soul authority over them; just as, according to the Wisdom of the Egyptians, the souls in the life to come must protect themselves from the malicious assaults of the demon powers by their mastery of mystic names and formulæ. From the circles of syncretistic Gnosticism this myth of the "Descent" passed also into Catholic Christianity. It is often found in the apocryphal Gospels and Acts which were much read in the first centuries ; for instance, in the Gospel of Peter the risen Christ is asked by a voice from Heaven : “ Hast Thou preached obedience to those that sleep ? ” Whereupon was heard the answer “ Yes ! ” The meaning is that Christ during the time between His death and resurrection had descended into Hell, and had revealed Himself to the world of spirits as their victorious lord and master. How important this conception was to the early Christians, and with what joyful pride they gloried in the superiority of Christianity to the allied mysteries in this very point, may be seen from the eloquent words of the ancient Christian champion and apologist Firmicus Maternus<sup>1</sup> :—

<sup>1</sup> Brandt, Die mandäische Religion, pp. 213 ff., 191.

<sup>2</sup> Hippolytus, Philosophumena, v 11.

Whilst in the case of the heathen deities only their death is known, but their resurrection was neither prophesied beforehand nor testified by eye-witnesses, the Son of God has, on the contrary, performed what He had before promised—“ He has closed the gates of the realm of Hell and has broken the yoke of the hard law of Death; in three days<sup>1</sup> has he gathered together the flock of the righteous, so that death shall no longer hold over them baneful sway; that their merit may not result in endless hopelessness. He has broken up the eternal prison-house, its iron doors are fallen at the bidding of Christ: see—how the earth trembled—its very foundations quaked at the presence of the Godhead of Christ; the sun sank in night before finishing its daily course, and darkness veiled the round world. All the elements were in tumult as Christ waged war against the tyranny of Death ; three long days was the battle fought, until Death's evil forces were overcome and routed. See—how after three days breaks a brighter day than has ever been ; with beams of heightened splendour the sun pays homage to Christ the Almighty God ; the Godhead triumphs bringing salvation ; the host of the righteous and of the saints escorts His chariot of victory. Mortality cries exultingly : ‘ O Death ! where is thy sting ? ’ The advancing Saviour commands the opening of the doors of Heaven : ‘ Open ye ! Open ye ! break, ye everlasting bars ! Christ the God hath crushed death beneath His feet and calls mankind, His elect, to Heaven again.’ At once the heavenly watchmen recognise the Son of God ; they see the booty won from the conquered foe, and they remember the ordinance of old ; they mingle their voices with those ascending to Heaven and cry : ‘ Lift up the gates, ye watchmen, that the King of Glory may come in ! The Son has come home ; the Father returns to Him the sceptre of the kingdom, and grants Him a throne of equal might, that He may reign and rule in the eternal majesty of His Godhead.' ”

<sup>1</sup> De errore profanarum religionum, chaps. xxiiib. and xxiv.

<sup>1</sup> The "triduum" does not agree exactly with the Gospel history, since between Good Friday afternoon and the early morning of Easter Sunday come not  $3 \times 24$  hours, but about 40. The expression triduum is probably chosen from reference to the Attis-Cybele festival, where on the fourth day—thus after three days—the joyful festival of the resurrection of the god succeeded to the mournful celebration of his death. On the other hand, the Gospel period agrees with that of the Osiris-Isis festival, where the festival of joy on Athyr 19th followed upon the day of mourning on Athyr 17th. Note in conclusion that the New Testament Resurrection legend varies between "on the third day" and "after three days," a most noteworthy parallel.

Also in Græco-Roman legend we find tales of many kinds concerning descents into Hell and ascents into Heaven. There is, first, the old Homeric descent of Odysseus and its development in accordance with growing definiteness of conception concerning the life beyond the grave. This was soon followed by epic narratives concerning similar descents of other heroes,<sup>1</sup> such as Theseus, Pirithous, Orpheus, Heracles, Æneas, and Pythagoras. Primitive legend, poetic fancy, and religious speculation have all alike contributed their share to the development of these tales. The best known is the descent of the mythical bard Orpheus, the prophet, the wondrous physician, the sanctifying priest of legend, from whom the Orphic sect professed to derive their esoteric doctrine and secret rites which served to deliver the soul from its corporeal prison and to raise it to immortal life by imparting the knowledge of its higher origin, by mystic initiation, and by ascetic practice. In the writings ascribed to Orpheus are found detailed descriptions of the next world, its punishments and rewards, as they were supposed to have been seen by the hero on the occasion of his descent. The Greek legends of descents into Hades are indeed only concerned with the attainment of a knowledge concerning the things of the next world which might, under certain conditions, serve to insure and secure the future life, they do not tell of a direct conquest of the powers of death. We can nevertheless trace the beginning of the latter conception in the legend concerning Heracles' victory over the dog Cerberus the guardian of Hades.

<sup>1</sup> Rohde, Psyche, pp. 278 ff.

106      The Early Christian

Ascension myths are found in manifold shapes. Some narrate a definite assumption of a hero, either divine himself or a favourite of the gods, into the realm of the blessed ; others tell of a temporary ascension of a soul in a state of ecstasy, in which it attains to the vision of the stages and dangers of the way to Heaven—visions which served as patterns for eschatological narratives concerning the heavenly voyage of pious souls after death. Hebrew legend knows of only two assumptions: that of Enoch, who “was taken up from earth” and “translated to God” or “departed,” and that of Elijah, who ascended to Heaven in a chariot of fire.<sup>1</sup> In Greek legend however such assumptions are of very frequent occurrence, and take the differing form of a translation either to the Elysian fields, or to the isles of the blessed, or to a cave, or to the top of a mountain, or to the depths of the sea, or lastly to the ideal mount of Olympus the heaven of the gods.<sup>2</sup> According to the original significance of these legends the whole man, both body and soul, was directly translated into the other world of bliss, without <sup>1</sup> Genesis v. 24; Ecclesiasticus xlv. 16, xlix. 14; Josephus, Antiq., I. iii. 4; 2 Kings ii. 11.

<sup>2</sup> Further details will be found collected in Rohde's Psyche, pp. 63 ff, 658 ff.

108      The Early Christian

passing through the gate of death ; but the enlightened minds of later days could not rest satisfied with the conception of a bodily ascension, as related for instance in the old legends of Heracles and Romulus, and therefore confined the ascension to the disembodied soul. The legend of Heracles<sup>1</sup> is moreover in many points of special and typical interest. He is the son of Zeus and a human mother Alcmene ; throughout his life he must battle with a hostile fate to which he was condemned by the wrath of Hera ; he proves his divine power in hard labours and conflicts, which for the most part have as their aim the conquest of hostile powers in this world and the next (Cerberus) ; in particular he delivers Prometheus, the representative of humanity under the curse of the gods, from the divine penalty, from the chain and the vulture which daily lacerated him ; at last he voluntarily ascends the funeral pyre, and thence he is raised immediately to heaven to the side of Zeus; he drinks of the divine nectar, and thus becomes partaker of immortal life. The legend could imagine no other fitting end for a life sprung from divine seed and approved in conflict for the welfare of humanity. Yet it is not only of mythical heroes of old that this tale of an ascent into Heaven is told; the same legendary honour is conferred upon great men of history, for they too are regarded as of divine descent. "Since divine honours were paid to the kings and queens of the Macedonian kingdoms of the East beginning even with Alexander the Great, men even dared to assert that the divine ruler at the end of his earthly existence is not dead, but has been caught up by the Deity and still lives."<sup>1</sup> Suetonius (Julius, 88) relates of Cæsar that after his death he was raised to the rank of a god, not simply by official decree, but also by popular conviction; for during the games which

<sup>1</sup> Hyginus, Fabulæ, pp. 29 ff. ; Diodorus Sic., Hist., iv. 8-39.

<sup>1</sup> Rohde, Psyche, p. 663.

Augustus founded in his honour there blazed for seven days in the heavens a comet which was held to be the soul of Cæsar translated into Heaven. Likewise it was believed of the Emperor Augustus that he had soared into Heaven from the funeral pyre that consumed his remains; a prætor indeed is reported to have sworn that he saw the image (the soul) of the emperor fly up to Heaven (in later days it was customary at the funeral of an emperor to release from the pyre an eagle, which was supposed to bear his soul to Heaven). This legend was not merely an expression of courtly flattery, but corresponded to the superstitious belief of the times, as is clear from the fact that the same tale is told and believed of other remarkable men. Immediately after Peregrinus Proteus had cast himself into the flames at Olympia, in order that in death also he might be like his exemplar Heracles, a trustworthy old man testified that he had seen an eagle fly up to Heaven out of the flames, and that the glorified Peregrinus had appeared to him clothed in a white garment and with a garland of victory on his head. Soon afterwards he was worshipped as a god in the city of his birth,<sup>1</sup> miracles of healing were wrought at his temple, and people resorted thither to obtain oracles. Likewise, in connection with the end of the miracle-monger Apollonius of Tyana, manifold tales are related of his mysterious disappearance in the temple of Athene at Lindus, or in that of Dictynna in Crete; and his biographer Philostratus sees a proof of his apotheosis in the fact that nowhere on earth can a grave of Apollonius be found.

I must omit the discussion of the conceptions of the heavenly voyage of a soul in the state of ecstasy, and of the similar conceptions regarding departed souls in general, as they are found in Jewish and Orphic apocalypses, and in Gnostic, Mandæan, and Mithraic liturgies.<sup>1</sup> Such a discussion is too far removed from my present theme; it belongs rather to the sphere of comparative eschatology and would prove a very fertile field of inquiry. On the other hand, the primitive faith in Christ as the prince and giver of life is intimately connected with the conception that His life is imparted to His followers through faith in His name, by baptism into his name, and by partaking of His flesh and blood in the Lord's Supper. Many parallels to these three points are found in the history of religion in the East and West.

<sup>1</sup> According to Lucian's narrative, which is also corroborated by Athenagoras' Apology for the Christians, chap. xxiii

In that very instructive work by W. Heitmüller, entitled Im Namen Jesu (Eine sprach- und religionsgeschichtliche Untersuchung zum Neuen Testament speziell zur altchristlichen Taufe, 1903), a great mass of material is collected to illustrate the theory and practice of "faith in the name" in Biblical and profane religions. I must here content myself with a few striking extracts from this book which bear upon my subject. In primitive religion the name is not simply a word or image, but it has a very real value ; it stands in the closest mystic relationship with the nature and fortune of its bearer, indeed it is regarded as in a certain sense an independent hypostasis of his essence and living energy. A change of name implies a renewal of the personality, its deliverance from the fate which clings to the old name. A curse denounced against the name of a man brings misfortune to the man himself. He who knows and pronounces the name of a god or demon has power over the being itself which is named, and can use this power for his own ends, for good or evil, for offence or defence ; hence the employment of sacred or mystic names in every description of sorcery. On the other hand calling upon the name of a deity brings the deity itself near to the petitioner, and binds them together with a mystic bond, whereby the man is protected as by a charm against all power of harm; one "who is blessed in the name of Jahweh," upon whom rests the protecting power of this God, he stands under His safe guard. Assusunamir, the ambassador of the gods, adjures the queen of the underworld by the "names of the great gods," and wrests from her the deliverance of Istar. By the power of the signet ring inscribed with the sacred name of darkness Hibil-Ziwa forces a passage through the gates of the underworld. By knowing and pronouncing the names of the spirits which guard the gates of Heaven the soul enforces admittance on its journey to Heaven.<sup>1</sup> The king's son, in the Hymn of the Soul in the Acts of Thomas,<sup>2</sup> by the name of his father and his mother charms and pacifies the serpent, gains possession of the pearl which it guards, and so can now return from exile (the life of earth) to his heavenly home. By imparting the knowledge of mystic names the pledge of future bliss was afforded to those initiated in the Eleusinian and Orphic mysteries. In the Phrygian mysteries the priests bore the name of the god Attis, in order to identify themselves with him. So also we read in the Leidener Zauber-Papyrus, II.<sup>1</sup>: "Thou art I and I am thou; whatever I say must come to pass, for I bear thy name as an amulet in my heart; all the storms of Styx will not overwhelm me; nothing, whether spirit or demon or any other horror of Hades, will oppose me because of thy name which I have in my soul, which I invoke; hear me then, O merciful one, in all things; grant me health proof against all bewitchment; grant me happiness, prosperity, honour, victory, power, loveliness; hold in check the evil eye of all my adversaries; grant me grace in all my works." Though this prayer comes from an incantation-papyrus, it can undoubtedly serve as a classical expression of primitive

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Bousset, "Die Himmelsreise der Seele," in Archiv für Religionswissenschaft, IV vols. ii. and iii; Dieterich, Eine Mithras-Liturgie, pp. 179 ff.

<sup>1</sup> Cf. Origen's description of the Orphic Gnosis (Con. Cels., vi. 30 ff.), and Hippolytus' description of the Gnosis of the Naassenes (Philosoph., v. 11; cf. above, pp. 100 f.).

<sup>2</sup> Lipsius, Apocryphe Apostelgeschichten, I. 293.

<sup>1</sup> Dieterich, Abrahas, p. 196; Heitmüller, op. cit., p. 214.

116      The Early Christian

name-superstition, its mysticism and its magic. "To believe in a sacred (divine) name" is thus the same as to bear it in the heart, and in consequence to be filled with the supernatural forces which are possessed by the owner of the name; "to call upon the name" is no mere speaking of words, but establishes a vital connection with this supernatural energy, so that it wonderfully manifests itself in the world of experience and action. If we transfer these conceptions to the sphere of Christianity, then "faith in the name of Jesus Christ" and "calling upon His name" also signify a mystic connection with the very nature of the Son of God, the Conqueror of Satan and Death, the Saviour and Lord of the Universe, and therewith an appropriation of all the energies of life which are His and proceed from Him. In Christianity the mystical and magical characteristics of the old name-superstition are by no means cast off, they serve rather as the receptacle of loftier spiritual experiences of real moral and religious worth, they are morally ennobled.

The same is true also of Baptism into the name of Jesus, only in this case the magical power of the spoken name is reinforced by the sacramental purifying and invigorating power of water, which by the invocation of the sacred name is charged, like an electric accumulator, with supernatural energy. The idea which is here in the background is connected with the most elementary conceptions and customs of the faith and ritual of every nation. We find it expressed in its earliest form in the Descent-myth of Istar. She descended to fetch "the Water of Life" for the revival of Tammuz; in the underworld she is smitten with sixty diseases; then at the command of the Queen of Hades she is sprinkled by the nymphs of the underworld with the Water of Life, and is able to return safe and sound to the land of the living; then Tammuz is washed with the life-giving water and restored to life. This last episode of the myth was presented in dramatic show during the summer festival of the month Tammuz (June or July), when the mourning women poured water over the image of Tammuz. Likewise at the festival of Adonis either plants or an image in human shape, both representing the god, were cast into water, in order to effect by this act of magic symbolism the restoration to life of the god of fertility. In the processions of the festival of Osiris a vessel of water was always carried in front in honour of the god,<sup>1</sup> indeed in Egypt water was regarded as an effluence from Osiris, and therefore a divine substance. These customs of purification, met with everywhere, rest upon the presupposition that it is the divine power dwelling in water which serves to expel demons and their baleful poison. For instance among the Persians a man who is defiled by touching a dead body is sprinkled with water in order to expel the devil from him; and the devil is supposed to retreat from each member of the body as soon as it is touched by the water, and at last to make his escape by the toes of the left foot.<sup>1</sup> Again, among the Greeks and Romans all who took part in a funeral were accustomed afterwards to purify themselves in consecrated water from the defilement they had contracted. But since from the primitive standpoint of animism not only disease and death but also sin and guilt were regarded as due to dæmonic defilement, so it was believed that sprinkling with pure spring water could also cleanse a man from sin and guilt.<sup>2</sup> Ovid (Fasti, ii. 45) has satirised this easy method of religious purification and cancelling of guilt in the well-known verse—

118      The Early Christian

<sup>1</sup> Plutarch, Isis and Osiris, chap. xxxvi. Further examples from popular customs are collected in Frazer's Golden Bough, II. 120-126.

Ah, nimium faciles, qui tristia crimina cædis
Fluminea tolli posse putetis aqua !

He is not however correct in his opinion that the custom was derived from Greece alone, for it was equally common in all parts of the world.

<sup>1</sup> Chantepie de la Saussaye, Religionsgeschichte, 2nd edit., II. 191.

<sup>2</sup> Rohde, Psyche, pp. 361 ff.

Even in the third and fourth centuries we find, in books of magic, prescriptions for purification which recommend water drawn from three or seven springs as an effectual charm against every ill of body or soul (in the case of purification from the crime of murder water must be drawn from fourteen springs). But this divine power of water, which drives out demons and counteracts their baleful infection, exerts also an influence for good of a positive kind. It is an instrument by which the soul may be imbued with high spiritual powers, and brought into the condition of prophetic inspiration and ecstasy. Thus the Pythia, the priestess of Apollo of Delphi, by drinking of the Castalian spring was filled with the power of the god (ἐνθεος) and inspired to give oracles. In the ceremonies of the different mysteries, the sacred ablutions served not only as a means of purification, but also of imparting renewed life; by their instrumentality men gained a share in the immortal life of the deity, and attained to a new birth. According to Tertullian,<sup>1</sup> baptism in water formed part of the initiation ceremonies of the mysteries of Eleusis, of Isis, and of Mithras, in order to wash away sin and as a symbol of the resurrection. In the case of the mysteries of Isis this testimony is corroborated by the description in Apuleius' Metamorphoses (xi. 21, 23):—The initiation ceremony consisted in a symbolic pilgrimage to the land of death and a return to the light a “new birth to the path of a new salvation,” and so the day of initiation was called “the sacred birthday.” The initiated in the mysteries of Mithras were called “new born for eternity”; in a Mithras liturgy lately published<sup>2</sup> the initiated worshipper prays:—“If it hath pleased you (the gods) to grant me the birth to immortality, that I, after the present distress which sorely afflicts me, may gaze upon the immortal First Cause with the immortal spirit and the immortal water, that I through the spirit may be born again, and that in me purified by sacred rite and delivered from guilt the Holy Spirit may live and move. . . . Since this mere man born from a mortal womb is this day newly begotten by thee, since by the counsel of God, marvellous in goodness, he, but one of many thousands, has been called to immortality, he aspires, he yearns to adore thee with all the faculties that he but a man possesses. . . . Hail to thee, Lord of Water, Founder of the Earth, Ruler of the Spirit! Born again I expire, in that I am being exalted and as I am exalted I die; born with the birth which begets life I am delivered to death and go the way, as thou hast instituted, as thou hast ordained and constituted the Sacrament." We have here, as the editor of this liturgy justly remarks, the clearest and most comprehensive instance of the employment of the symbol of death and new birth that we possess in an ancient liturgic text; it has its nearest analogy in the Pauline description of Baptism as a symbolic communion with the Death and Resurrection of Christ (Rom. vi.). No wonder that this close relationship seemed so astonishing to Tertullian and the other ancient apologists that they could only explain it by imagining a diabolical aping of Christian rites. But that the true explanation is to be found in the common principles of animism is most clearly betrayed by Tertullian's own argument, when he derives the saving power of Baptism from the supernatural energy indwelling in water since the Creation when the Spirit of God brooded over the waters, an energy which is restored and heightened by the invocation of the name of Christ: "With the increase of the grace of God water also acquired more power; that which once healed ills of the body now restores the soul; that which worked temporal good now renews to eternal life."<sup>1</sup> Baptism is thus the ethical fulfilment of the old lustration ceremonies. Moreover we have in the New Testament a clear proof of the powerful influence which magical ideas still exercised even upon the primitive Christian conception of Baptism. For St Paul (1 Cor. xv. 29) mentions without blame the custom of the Corinthian Christians to be baptised for the good of departed friends, a practice which has a close parallel in the Orphic supplication for the souls of sinful forefathers, and in the "deliverance and purification of living and dead" by the Dionysic initiation, which is promised by the Orphic priests.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> De Baptismo, chap. v., and De Præscriptione Hær., chap. 40. In the mysteries of Mithras an “imago resurrectionis” is displayed.

<sup>2</sup> Dieterich, Eine Mithrasliturgie, pp. 5, 13, 15, 166.

<sup>1</sup> Tertullian, De Baptismo, chap. v. Cf. the same thoughts in the Clementine Homilies, xi. 22 ff., and among the Elkesaite Gnostics, Epiph. Hær., p. 53.

124      The Early Christian

The relationship which exists between Baptism and the ancient lustration ceremonies may also be shown to exist between the Christian Supper of the Lord and the ancient sacrificial feasts, whose fundamental idea is that the eating of sacred food places a man in mystic communion with the life of the deity.<sup>2</sup> We can also trace this conception back to the primitive mythology of Babylon.<sup>1</sup> Adapa, the son of Ea, though endowed by his father with extraordinary wisdom, did not receive from him the gift of eternal life. He might however have obtained even this gift, and so have become fully like unto the gods, if he had accepted the "Food of Life" and the "Water of Life" offered to him by Anu, the god of heaven; but in obedience to the counsel of Ea (who may have been either mistrustful of Anu or jealous of Adapa) he refused to partake of this divine food, and so forever forfeited immortal life (just as Adam and Eve forfeited the same gift because at the instigation of the serpent they meddled with the tree of knowledge, and therefore were cast out of Paradise). The possession of immortal life depends therefore upon tasting the heavenly food of life, which belongs to the gods and is under certain conditions imparted by them to their favourites. By tasting nectar and ambrosia, the food of the gods, Heracles was received into the fellowship of the immortals of Olympus, just as on the other hand Persephone through tasting the fruit of the underworld abides there imprisoned. The eating of consecrated food, which is not simply the symbol but also in mysterious fashion the shrine of the life of the deity, has always formed part of the ritual of every nation. Upon this rests the sacramental significance of the sacrificial feast; it effects a sacred communion with the life of the deity, which is contained in the flesh and blood of the victim (itself an incarnation of the primitive nature-deity), and is thus appropriated by those who partake of them. Thus in the cult of Dionysus a bull, which is regarded as an incarnation of the god of fertility, is torn with the teeth and its flesh eaten raw,<sup>1</sup> that by means of this repetition of the sacrifice of the god himself his divine life may be transferred to those who partake in the ceremony. Often in place of the real flesh a substitute in the form of a loaf baked in the shape of the victim was eaten sacramentally.<sup>1</sup> Such substitutes of various forms for what was originally the flesh of the victim seem to have been usual in the later mysteries. For instance in the mysteries of Attis he that was to be initiated declared, before his admission into the innermost sanctuary, that he had eaten from the drum and drunk from the cymbal, and thus had become consecrated to Attis. We do not know what kind of food and drink the postulant for initiation partook from the ritual instruments of the priest of Cybele, but we may certainly conclude, from the words which our authority Firmicus Maternus adds to his description,<sup>2</sup> that we have represented here a sacramental eating and drinking. "Wretched one!" he cries, "thou hast eaten poison and drunk of the cup of death! Meat of another kind it is that confers life and salvation, that restores the fainting, that calls back the wanderers, that raises the fallen, that grants to the dying the sign of endless immortality; seek the bread and cup of Christ, that you may fill your human nature with substance that is immortal!" The comparison here is noteworthy in a twofold aspect: in the first place it shows that in both cases the fundamental idea is the same—the sacramental eating and drinking is a "medicine of immortality and an antidote of death," words in which Ignatius (Eph., xx. 2) formulates the Catholic view concerning the Lord's Supper, a view which has also found drastic expression in St John vi. 51–59; but in the second place it shows that the Christian Sacrament works as a moral remedy for the wandering and fallen—though the background of magic remains the same, it is moralised in a Christian sense. The same moral transformation is brought about in the Gospel of St John by addition of verse 63 to the description of the theory of the Sacrament which has gone before. To the mysteries of Mithras also, besides the holy ablutions and the signing of the forehead with a covenant sign,<sup>1</sup> there belonged a sacred banquet of which only the initiated of the higher degrees might partake. This was regarded as an imitation of the meal by which Mithras himself, according to the legend, had sealed his covenant with the sun-god Helios. In a relief which has come down to us,<sup>2</sup> we see the two gods sitting side by side on cushions, each with a cup in his right hand, while before them is set a small dish containing four small loaves, each marked with crossed lines. On either side stand the initiated wearing masks which represent the nature of Mithras under different attributes; they have thus "put on" the god in order to place themselves in mystic communion with him (cf. Gal. iv. 37, "ye have put on Christ"). Justin (Apol. I. 66) relates of the banquet of Mithras that "Bread and a cup full of water were brought forward with some words of blessing"; and Tertullian<sup>1</sup> speaks of an offering of bread and a symbol of the resurrection. Both apologists regarded this rite as a diabolical aping of the Christian Sacrament; and in forming this opinion of theirs they partly ignored the unquestionable priority of the heathen to the Christian Sacrament in point of time, and partly explained it by assuming a prophetic anticipation on the part of the demons. A noteworthy point of coincidence is found in the fact that in both cases the same uncertainty exists concerning the content of the cup, whether it contained only water or also wine, for the original cup of the Christian Sacrament did not always at all events contain wine, for in the primitive Christian love - feasts of the Acts of the Apostles no mention is ever made of wine.<sup>1</sup> In the Corinthian community however according to 1 Cor. xi. 21, celebration with wine had become the custom, and had afforded the Apostle Paul (who besides speaks never of "the wine," but only of "the cup") a welcome occasion for the mystical explanation of the Lord's Supper as a communion not only with the body but also with the blood of Christ (1 Cor. x. 16). Though there is no parallel in the banquet of Mithras to this blood-symbolism of the Christian Sacrament, one is certainly found in the blood-baptism of the Taurobolians and the Criobolians which belongs to the mysteries of Cybele, and perhaps also of Mithras. These sacrifices of bulls and rams, when adopted into the cult of Mithras, were evidently regarded as a sacramental imitation of the sacrifice of the bull which Mithras himself once offered for the salvation of the world—a sacrifice which is represented in all pictorial monuments of the cult of Mithras, wherein the bull may be conceived as an incarnation of the god himself, as is the case at all events in the cult of Dionysus. As now the postulant for initiation was sprinkled with the blood of the slain bull or ram,<sup>1</sup> this blood-baptism served him as a sacramental means of communion with the death and life of the god; and the thought of purification and new birth by means of the sacramental death-symbol, which according to the liturgy quoted above was a fundamental conception in the religion of Mithras, came in this blood-baptism to very drastic expression. In this connection we may call to mind the Christian doctrine concerning cleansing and

<sup>1</sup> Plato, Rep., ii. 364; Rohde, Psyche, p. 420 f.

<sup>2</sup> Cf. Robertson Smith, Religion of the Semites, 2nd edit., pp. 239 ff.

<sup>1</sup> Schrader-Zimmern, Die Keilinschriften und das Alte Testament, pp. 520 ff.

<sup>1</sup> Cf. the quotations above, p. 97, note 2.

<sup>1</sup> Many illustrative details from popular customs of ancient and modern times are collected in Frazer, The Golden Bough, ii. 260-300.

<sup>2</sup> De errore prof. relig., chap. xviii.

<sup>1</sup> It is uncertain whether the sign was made by branding or by anointing with oil. Cf. Rev. xiii. 16 f., xiv. 9: "the sign of the beast upon the forehead or the hand"; can there be here a reference to the sign of Mithras? And could not also the expression in xiv. 10, "the wine of the wrath of God which is mingled unmingled," be suggested by the cup of Mithras?

<sup>2</sup> Cumont, Textes et monuments relat. aux mystères de Mithra, I. 157 f.

<sup>1</sup> De Præscr. Hæc, chap. 40: Mithras signat in frontibus milites suos, celebrat et panis oblationem et imaginem resurrectionis inducit

<sup>1</sup> See on this point Harnack, "Brot und Wasser, die eucharistischen Elemente bei Justin" in Texten und Untersuchungen, VII., 1892.

<sup>1</sup> Prudentius, Peristephanon, x. verses 1008–1050.

purification "by the blood of the Lamb"<sup>1</sup>
(Rev. vii. 14).

<sup>1</sup> In τὸ ἀρνίον τὸ ἐσφαγμένον, an expression peculiar to the Johannine Apocalypse, there seems to exist a connection, by no means remote, with the Phrygian sacrifice of the ram.

V

CHRIST AS THE KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS

THIS apocalyptic name of Christ (Rev. xix. 16) denotes the dignity and might which is ascribed to Him by the faith of the Church. It connotes:—(1) lordship over the community of the faithful, whose “Head” Christ is, as the Saviour who has established and guarantees their salvation, as the Lawgiver whose will is the rule of their life, and as the Judge who one day will reward everyone according to his works; (2) lordship over the universe, in that He is the mediator of its creation, its government, its final perfection.

With these conceptions and titles of dignity and lordship let us compare the following

Christ the King of Kings 135

parallels from different religious spheres. The faith of the Buddhists in the greatness of their founder is expressed in the most extravagant terms.<sup>1</sup> He is called the joy of the whole universe, the helper of the helpless, a mine of grace, the god of gods, the Brahman of the Brahmans, the unique saviour, the truly compassionate, the royal preacher, the bestower of the ambrosia of righteousness, the father, helper, friend, treasure, jewel of the universe; stronger than the strongest, more merciful than the most merciful, fairer than the fairest, more meritorious than the most meritorious, mightier than the mightiest; he it is who grants to every creature, though it only invokes his name or gives a handful of rice as alms in his name, the power to attain to salvation; eye cannot see, nor ear hear, nor mind conceive anything more glorious and more worthy of worship than Buddha. Again we quote some hymns from the chapter of "Thanksgivings" in Lalita Vistara (chap. xxiii.):—"In the world of created things, which through long ages was plagued by the ills of natural corruption, thou hast appeared, O king of physicians, who deliverest us from all ills! At thy coming, O leader! unrest vanishes, and both men and gods are filled with contentment. Thou, with thy gentle, kindly heart, art the guardian, the strong foundation, the head, the leader of the universe; thou art the best of physicians, who bringest the perfect medicine, sure healing for pain. High above all in thy charity and compassion thou orderest the things of the universe; high above all in thy austerity of life and good works, self-sufficient, perfect in purity, thou hast attained to perfection; and having thyself reached salvation, thou, as the herald of the four truths, wilt also save the rest of creation. The power of evil has been subdued by wisdom, courage, and gentleness; thou hast attained this, the highest, the immortal dignity, we greet thee as the conqueror of the host of the deceiver [cf. St

<sup>1</sup> Collected in Hardy's Manual of Buddhism, p. 360.

136      The Early Christian

John viii. 44]. Thou, whose word is without fault, who, free from error and passion, hast trodden the path of eternal life, thou art worthy of honour and worship incomparable in heaven and upon earth. Thou revivest gods and men with thy words so clear and simple; by the beams which stream from thee thou art the conqueror of this universe, the lord of gods and men. Thou hast appeared, Light of the Law, Disperser of misery and ignorance, overflowing with humility and majesty; sun, moon, and fire shine no more in thy presence before the abundance of thy imperishable glory. Thou who teachest the knowledge of what is true and what is false, thou guide of the soul with voice most sweet, thou whose spirit is at rest, whose senses are mastered, whose heart is in perfect peace, thou who teachest what should be taught, thou that instructest the assembly of gods and men—I greet thee, Sakyamuni, as the greatest of men, as the miracle of the three thousand worlds, to whom honour and worship is due in heaven and on earth from gods and from men.” Finally we quote the prayer of a pious Buddhist<sup>1</sup> who, in the eleventh century A.D., was compelled because of his religion to flee from his fatherland :—“ Whether I live in heaven or in hell, in the city of spirits or of men, let my mind be ever set steadfastly upon thee, for there is for me no other joy. Thou art my father, my mother, my brother, my sister ; thou art my true friend in danger, O my beloved ! thou art my lord, my teacher which impartest to me wisdom sweet as nectar. Thou art my riches, my joy, my delight, my greatness, my pride, my knowledge, and my life ; thou art my all, O omniscient Buddha ! ” Where the pious soul rises in prayer so fervent to the object of its faith—by whatsoever name it may be called—the understanding scarcely dares to ask the prosaic question, whether after all Buddha, since he has entered into Nirvana, really exists, and whether he is really omnipresent and omniscient, so as to be able to hear the prayers of his devotees? With the Buddhists, of course, the historical founder of their communion is only the temporal and transitory form in which was manifested the eternal spirit of wisdom and goodness, which came not once only, but will ever return anew in visible manhood to forward the work of salvation among men who are ever in need of such assistance. It is therefore this eternal spirit of salvation which is really the object of the Buddhist faith; but the historic founder of the community, as the most lofty manifestation of this spirit that has hitherto appeared, is the form which first presents itself, under which the eye of adoring faith may conceive the invisible spirit. But as, according to Buddhist hope and belief, individual life in general, and in consequence the life of its founder, reaches its final goal in "Nirvana," which signifies either complete annihilation or a rest and bliss that is absolutely passive, so in Buddhist thought the historic founder cannot be conceived, with the dogmatic distinctness of Christianity, as the exalted lord who in divine omnipotence ever rules his people. Nevertheless Buddha also is, so far as the practical devotion of his followers is concerned, the omnipresent and abiding object of their trustful love ; a fact which shows quite clearly that in this case, as always, it is only the believing soul's need of a human manifestation of the Eternal which has naturally led to some kind of apotheosis of the historical Saviour. It is just as natural for faith to unify the limited human personality with the eternal spiritual principle, as it is for the understanding never to cease from drawing a clear and sharp line of division between the two. The resultant of these two tendencies, like the diagonal in the parallelogram of forces, is that wondrous form—the God-man of dogma.

138      The Early Christian

<sup>1</sup> From The Proceedings of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, Feb. 1890, p. 127. I am indebted to Professor Carpenter, of Oxford, for this quotation.

Also from the mythology of polytheistic religions we may adduce many analogies to the kingship of Christ. Marduk, the god of Babylon, the first-born son of Ea, is called "Lord of Lords and King of Kings" because he completed the conquest of Chaos and the creation of the world, and because he determines the lot of earthly kings. The latter function is also assigned to Nabu, who carries and writes the heavenly tablets of fate, and is called likewise king and lord of the gods of heaven and earth.<sup>1</sup> This god was no doubt originally identical with Marduk, from whom in later times he was differentiated as the heavenly scribe, the patron of wisdom and oracle, the Hermes and Thot of Babylon. In Egypt after the foundation of the new empire of Thebes, Ammon-Ra, the god of that city, was worshipped as the mysterious creator, "The lord of the thrones of the universe and the king of the gods," who unites in himself all the properties and powers of the other deities. In the realm of the dead however the judge is Osiris, and at his side Thot acts

<sup>1</sup> Schrader-Zimmern, Die Keilinschriften und das Alte Testament, pp. 374 and 402.

142      The Early Christian

as the divine scribe, who, as the god of the word of magic power, shared in the creation of the world and became the patron of wisdom, oracle, and magic; he is in fact a kind of personification of the divine word of revelation or Logos. In the Persian religion<sup>1</sup> Ahura-Mazda is the wise lord, the creator, the upholder and guardian of the universe; at his side as personifications of his two chief characteristics, wisdom and righteousness, stand the genii—Vohu-mano, the “good thought” (Logos), the first-created of the good spirits, the mediator of creation and of the revelation of the law, and the guardian of the gate of heaven; and Asha-vahista, the genius of righteousness, the guardian and minister of the order and government of the universe, the judge in the final judgment; then Sraosha, the pure and victorious hero, the conqueror of demons, the conductor and judge of souls, who also plays a chief part in the last decisive conflict at the end of the world ; and last of all, Mithras, the friendly god of light and of truth, the champion against demons and the guardian of the pious, the judge of souls in the next world, of whom it is said in an ancient hymn that Ahura-Mazda created him of like greatness and dignity with himself (i.e. his cult occupied a position in the Persian religion rivalling that of the highest god). As a “mediator” in close connection with mankind, Mithras was half-identified with the sun-god in that religion which sprang from the intermingling of Persian, Babylonian, and Phrygian elements, and in the mysteries he was worshipped as the special saviour of the initiated. Even in the creation of the world legend assigns him a mediating part, for by means of his cosmogonic sacrifice of a bull he brought into being the germ of life in the vegetable and animal world. Then he is also the continual mediator of all salvation for his worshippers in this world and the next; he is their example and support in the conflict with all Satanic powers; he is the leader and guardian of faithful souls on their perilous journey to heaven above. At the end of all things he will effect the renewal of the world by repeating his cosmogonic sacrifice; he will raise all the dead and prepare the cup of immortality for the righteous. In the ritual of Mithras Sunday was celebrated as the day sacred to the sun-god, and the great festival of the year was the celebration of the victory of the returning sun at the winter solstice. December 25th was the birthday of Sol Invictus long before it became the birthday of the Christian Saviour. How deeply the worshipper of Mithras conceived and felt his close relationship to his god may be seen from the liturgy quoted above,<sup>1</sup> from which we may further quote the following hymns:—"Hail, to thee, lord, mighty omnipotent king, greatest of the gods, Helios, lord of heaven and earth, god of gods ; full of might is thy breath, full of might is thy power ; lord, if it please thee, mention me before the most high god who has created and made thee !” Next, one raised into the presence of Mithras cries :—“ Lord of my spirit, dwell with me in my soul, leave me not ! Hail, lord, ruler of water, founder of the earth, master of the spirit ! Lord, born again I expire,” etc. (see above, p. 122).

<sup>1</sup> Chantepie de la Saussaye, Religionsgeschichte, II. 173 ff., Cumont, Textes et monuments relat aux mystères de Mithra, I 240 ff; Bocklein, Vernandtschaft der judisch-christlichen mit der parsischen Eschatologie, p. 48 ff.

144      The Early Christian

<sup>1</sup> Dieterich, Eine Mythraliturgie, pp 11, 15.

But while to the gods of the mysteries, such as Mithras and Serapis, their worshippers ascribed unlimited authority over nature and the world of spirits—for of course without this power they would not be equipped for the defence of their devotees—it was only in the government of the individual fortune of the initiated in this world and the world to come that a practical exhibition of this authority was expected. The socio-ethical ideal of a renewal and conquest of earthly humanity by the victorious might of the heavenly Lord was wanting in the mysteries. This ideal was peculiar to Jewish Messianic belief, and at first, at all events, was confined within the limits of Jewish hope for a future time of earthly bliss for the nation. But as in the later Apocalypses an ever-growing tendency to an expansion of national limitations manifested itself, so this ideal took the form of a universal kingdom of God embracing all the nations of the earth. In this widened form, for which Hellenism had prepared the way, the social idea of a kingdom of God realised in a renewed earth passed over into the religion of Christ, and secured to it from the very first its absolute superiority to the individualistic faith of the various mysteries. The Catholic faith in the kingdom of Christ united in itself the two ideals, individual and social, of religious hope and yearning: it gave to the individual soul the pledge of perfection and salvation which was promised to the devotees of Buddhism and the Græco-Oriental mysteries; it prophesied the social and moral renewal and transfiguration of earthly humanity into a city of God—the hope of Judæo-Hellenic faith. It is manifest that the heavenly Lord who guaranteed to his followers the fulfilment of this twofold ideal was fully equipped for the conquest of all other lords, and was alone destined to universal sovereignty. His most serious rival was not however Mithras, but the Roman emperor, he who held the imperium in the kingdom of earth. Individual heathen might find a certain satisfaction for the particular needs of the pious soul in the cults of their mysteries; but another need equally deep, the yearning of the nations for a new social order in which righteousness, mercy, and peace should rule, remained unsatisfied, and so the hope of mankind, in spite of constant disillusionment, clung the more tenaciously to the earthly divinity upon the throne of the Cæsars. In an inscription discovered lately at Priene, probably dating from the year 9 B.C.,<sup>1</sup> we find the following hymn to the Emperor Augustus:—"This day [the birthday of Augustus] has given a new aspect to the whole world ; all things would have sunk in ruin if the sun of universal joy had not risen upon mankind in him now born. He judges rightly who recognises in this day the beginning of life and all its forces ; now at last the time is gone which forced men to regret that they were ever born. Providence, which governs the living universe, has filled this man with such gifts for the welfare of mankind that it has sent him as a saviour to us and to the coming generations ; he will put an end to every feud, and work in all things a glorious transformation. In his appearing the hopes of our forefathers are fulfilled ; he has not only surpassed all former benefactors of mankind, but it is even impossible that a greater than he should ever appear. The birthday of the god has brought into the world the good tidings (Evangel) which are bound up with him. A new era must begin from his birth." Of like tenor is an inscription from Halicarnassus<sup>1</sup> :—

146      The Early Christian

<sup>1</sup> Ed. by Mommsen and Wilamowitz in Das deutsche archäologische Institut, XXIII. part 3; it is translated and discussed by Harnack in Die christliche Welt, 1899, No. 51.

148      The Early Christian

<sup>1</sup> British Museum, No 994. Given also by Harnack in Die christliche Welt. See note on preceding page.

“The Deity for the joy of our life has brought to men Cæsar Augustus, who is the father of his fatherland Rome the divine, and also the paternal Zeus and saviour of the whole race of mankind, whose providence has fulfilled and surpassed the prayers of all men. For land and sea rejoice in the gift of peace, cities flourish in concord and wealth, every good thing is present in abundance.” Finally, we may note a certain combination of Mithras-worship and emperor-worship in the words addressed to the Emperor Nero by the Armenian king Tiridates, who accompanied by magi had come to Rome:—“I am thy slave, my lord; I am come to thee, my god, to adore thee, even as Mithras.”<sup>1</sup> From this it is seen that the belief in the human incarnation of the divinity in the Roman emperor, and the faith in the spiritual saviour of the mysteries, not only existed together on the soil of Asia Minor, but even tended to amalgamate with one another. But in face of the fundamental difference between the separate objects of the two faiths, this tendency, though it was psychologically natural, could never come to fulfilment in the sphere of heathenism. At this supreme crisis of history, the demand for a god, who should alike guarantee to the individual soul deliverance in the world to come and to society the earthly kingdom of prosperity and peace, was already present in the expectation and yearning of the nations; only the question remained—whence should come to them the assurance of its realisation? The answer was given in Catholic Christianity, which united the Messianic king of the earthly kingdom of God with the mystic conqueror of death and dispenser of life in the one ideal personality of the eternal Son of God, who really became man, died, descended into Hell, conquered death and Satan, victoriously rose from the dead and ascended into Heaven, sits at the right hand of God, and will come again on the clouds of Heaven to judge the quick and the dead. All these articles of belief are to be found in the religious cults of the expiring world of antiquity, here and there, in East and West, in the manifold forms of Jewish Apocalypse, of Oriental mysticism and Gnosis, of Greek speculation and Roman Cæsar-worship; there was still wanting only the single subject for the synthesis of these predicates, the nucleus round which this chaotic seething mass of religious ideas could crystallise into a new world of faith and hope for the present life and that to come. This point of unity was given in the person of Jesus, the Galilean Saviour and King of the Jews, who by the cross has become the Saviour of the World and King of the all-embracing kingdom of God.

<sup>1</sup> Dio. Cassius, ed. Becker, ii. p. 253. Suetonius, Nero, 13 and 30. According to an interesting conjecture of Dieterich (Zeitschrift für neutestamentliche Wissenschaft, III. 1 ff.), this historical event lies at the root of the Gospel story of the adoration paid to the new-born king of the Jews by the magi (St Matt., chap. ii.).

150      The Early Christian

CONCLUSION

As we survey the numerous points of likeness between the faith of the early Christians and the religious ideas current in the world around them, we can scarcely fail to be convinced that Christianity could not have fallen from Heaven as something quite new and unique, but that it sprang up in the world of those days as the ripe fruit of ages of development and in a soil that was already prepared. Now it is of course easily comprehensible that this new evolutionist method of inquiry should have such a disturbing influence upon many persons, conservatives as well as critics, that they at once draw the most radical conclusions, and imagine that Christianity is robbed of its unique character and its abiding worth because it appears to be nothing more than a combination of ideas that had existed for ages, and are nowadays altogether antiquated. But such conclusions are most hasty and rash, and testify to the influence of manifold errors, exaggerations, and crude judgments whose discovery and refutation ought to be the proper object of the calm and enlightened investigation of the religious historian. I can, at present, only permit myself to make a few suggestions in this direction.

Before all things, we must guard against the constant practice of imagining that the inward affinity of religious conceptions implies a connection in their external history. It is absolutely unjustifiable to argue from the former to the latter, for in doing this we overlook the fact that affinity of conceptions is not necessarily explained by borrowing and transmission from one sphere to another; but that from the same psychological causes, and with like social conditions, conceptions similar in character may arise in different places quite spontaneously and independently of one another, and, indeed, have so arisen in numberless instances. Where then it is proved that certain conceptions are allied to one another, we must always first inquire closely whether their similarity is to be explained from the working of similar causes, or whether some kind of direct or indirect historical connection may with probability be admitted. But in the present state of our sciences of archæology and ethnology, the greatest circumspection in answering this question is most earnestly recommended.

The assumption of historical connection, whether direct or indirect, is only admissible with some probability in such cases where the similarity consists not simply in some common conception or some chance coincidence in expression, but extends to distinct successions of details. Several examples of this kind are to be found in the former chapters. I refer to the points of similarity between the history of the infancy in Buddhist legend and in the Gospel of St Luke: the supernatural birth, the hymn of the heavenly hosts, the shining of light, the prophecy of a pious seer, the adoration of the wise men, and the parallels to the story of Jesus in the Temple when He was twelve years old (pp. 39-45); again I refer to the traits of the Indian legend of Krishna which run parallel to the narrative of St Matthew concerning the persecution of the Christ-child by Herod and the massacre of the infants at Bethlehem (p. 61); to the parallels to the story of the Temptation (pp. 51-53); to the date of the Resurrection, "on the third day" in the Egyptian Osiris-festival, or "after three days" in the Phrygian Attis-festival (p. 103); to the analogy of the apocalyptic purification by the blood of the Lamb to the Phrygian purification by the blood of the ram (pp. 132 f.); to the Mithras sacrament with bread and cup, the sign on the forehead, the Mithras festival on Sunday and on December 25th as the birthday of the god (pp. 129 ff. 144). In the face of such successions of similar traits, the possibility of historical interdependence must at least be admitted; indeed, in some cases its probability is to be presumed.

156      The Early Christian

On the other hand, it would be a serious error did one attempt to derive the general conception of the Divine Sonship of Christ from some definite pre-Christian legend; indeed in some sense or other this conception is the common property of the religious humanity of all ages; in general, therefore, it has its ultimate source in the depths of the religious consciousness, in mankind's natural surmise that we are of divine descent, a surmise which has been everywhere awakened by the observation of the extraordinary gifts and deeds of particular men, and therefore has at first been connected with those elect heroes of knowledge and power who stand as the representatives and sureties of the close relationship of our common human nature with the divine. Also the double form in which the conception of divine son-ship is found inside and outside Christianity—the apotheosis of the man and the incarnation of the deity—admits of a simple psychological explanation; it is the result of two distinct phases of mental outlook, both alike true. In the one case the divine sonship, in the sense of likeness to God, appears as the ideal to be striven after and the destined goal of human life; in the other case, the possibility of attaining to this ideal is seen to presuppose a real supernatural power existing from the very first in the soul, a divine instinct and definite tendency of nature which can only be conceived as the effect of the indwelling of a divine spirit. Also parallels are found in heathen religions to the idea of the God-man dying and rising again (ascending into Heaven), analogies whose roots reach back to the most primitive conceptions of animism concerning the yearly death and revival of the divine power of life in nature. But the Christian myth is not to be derived from this nature-myth, because it has its most direct source in the historical fact of the death of Jesus, and the following visions seen by His disciples. Nevertheless those parallels are surely of significance, in that they remind us that the religious interpretation of those spiritual experiences in the consciousness of the Christian Church did not depend upon caprice or accident, but was the expression of the same eternal law whose sacred truth had impressed itself upon mankind from the beginning—the law that the corn of wheat must die in order to bring forth fruit, and that the Son of Man must suffer that He may enter into His glory (St John xii. 24 f.; St Luke xxiv. 25). The leit motiv of the Christian drama of Redemption, “Through Death to Life!” is in some form or other foreshadowed in the myths and ceremonies of many religions, and by this very fact it is declared to be one of those elementary fundamental truths which were not expressed for the first time in the Christian religion, though they were there revealed in their purest, because ethical and spiritual, form.

158      The Early Christian

And this brings us to a further point of extreme importance in the comparative history of religion. In comparing two religions, people constantly make the mistake of neglecting their points of difference in the face of their points of likeness, or at least of setting so small a value upon the former that the higher religion seems absolutely debased to the level of the lower.<sup>1</sup> We have here in the case of history a close parallel to that misuse of the theory of evolution in natural science, in accordance with which man is set upon the same level as the ape as a mere variety of the same species. Such errors contribute greatly to discredit the just claim of the conception of evolution. It is not, however, the theory of evolution itself that is to blame for these vagaries, but only its one-sided and superficial employment by many empirics, who seem to be ignorant of the fact that every new stage of development depends upon a "creative synthesis," which does not merely mingle the old elements, but transforms them absolutely, in that it brings them under the operation of a new law, so that the new development becomes indeed something quite different from what the sum of its elements was before. This general rule finds just its most brilliant exemplification in the relation of Christianity to the earlier religions from which it has developed as their higher unity and purer truth.

<sup>1</sup> I instance the well-known Babel-Bibel lectures of Dehltzsch. The best criticism of these is found in Gunkel's work, Babylonien und die Religion Israels, 1903.

Primitive Christianity has transformed the Jesus of history into the Christ of faith, in that it has, after the manner of ancient animism, objectified the impression which it received of His life and death into a self-existing Christ-Spirit, and has then in thought identified this spirit with the heavenly Son of Man of the Apocalypses and the Son of God and Logos of Gnosis, and has finally brought this eternal heavenly Being down to earth to become man, to die, to return to Heaven, there to share the throne and sovereignty of God until His future Coming to judge the world. In this divinely human drama of Redemption the Christian faith attained to a form of expression, which, the closer its formal connection with heathen myths, was only the more fitted for the conquest of heathenism. But who can fail to see that in this process the ancient forms are made the receptacle of a content essentially new, and accordingly acquire a much deeper religious import and a much purer moral significance than they ever had before? All the fantastic spirits, divinities, and lords of the religion of nature, and no less the earthly deities on the throne of the Cæsars, sank into nothingness before the one Lord Christ, who stands now "The Spirit," simply and absolutely (1 Cor. iii. 17) because in His nature faith perceives the consummation of all those spiritual forces called into being by the impression made upon the soul by the personality of Jesus—the perfection of what she feels to be a new life from God, active and efficacious within herself. It matters not that this faith in Christ the Lord, the Spirit, is again clothed in the garment of antique mythology, and finds sacramental expression in ceremonies similar to the rites of heathenism, still in nature and import this Christian faith and ritual worship was something quite different from its heathen analogues; for the ruling principle, to which the ancient forms were subjected, was no longer the succession of life and death in nature, but a moral ideal beheld in the life and death of Jesus—the ideal of sacred love which has compassion upon the weary and heavy laden, which seeks to become great not in lordship but in service, and offers its life a sacrifice in the cause of God and the brethren. This ideal was no mere work of imagination like the moral ideals of the Stoics, Platonists, and Pythagoreans, which were fashioned by philosophers for philosophers, and, therefore, remained the subject of learned discussion, without influence on the life of the people; on the contrary, it was actually manifested in the life and death of an inspired prophet and friend of the people. In His words and works, and most of all in His death, it appealed in simple, heart-piercing tones to all without distinction—to the wise and ignorant, to high and low, to righteous and sinners. Nor did the inspiring power of this ideal cease even with the death of the Master; rather it never released its hold upon His followers; it continued its work in their souls, forming the one indissoluble bond which bound them in communion with Him and with one another, and assured them of His never-ending life with, and on behalf of, the community of the faithful.

It was only natural that this ideal, which had been realised in the historic personality of Jesus, should now be personified in an eternal heavenly being, a son of God. Such personification was indeed quite in accordance with the animistic thought of antiquity, wherein all kinds of lively affections of the soul were objectified as spirit-beings, and explained as the result of the operation of these beings in and upon man. But there is also an abiding truth in this animistic personification, if we only understand how to translate the ancient mythical language into the psychological language of to-day. No one will deny that an ideal is above the limitations of time and coincides with no one of its historical manifestations; but may not the love which conquers the demon of selfishness, which raises the individual soul above the narrow world of self-interest, and in society transforms the natural struggle for existence into the endeavour to realise the moral solidarity of all men—may not this love be rightly conceived as a supernatural power revealing itself as a divine all-attracting force in the souls of men, like the force of gravitation in the material world? In well-known words Kant has recognised the revelation of God in the laws of the starry firmament and in the moral law of the heart; but love is the fulfilling of the law, since it transforms the external compelling command into the free impulse and active force of the heart; why then may we not perceive in love "the incarnation of the divine Logos," which was consummated not once only, but ever comes to pass where love unites the hearts of men and consecrates society so that it becomes the kingdom of God? And since love in its highest manifestation in self-sacrifice for the common good is sure that it never loses, but only then truly finds itself (St Mark vii. 35), so in very deed that divinely human act of loving self-sacrifice in service of the brethren is the way to eternal life, and that drama of Redemption, with its leit motiv, "Through death to life! Die and you shall live!" brings to typical expression an eternal truth in the moral government of the world.

Still the question may be asked—why could not this moral ideal have been presented in its simplicity, without the garment of myth, in the teaching and example of Jesus? Why, that is, could not the Jesus of history instead of the Christ of faith have been made the sole subject of Gospel preaching? The answer is twofold. In the first place, the Gospel when preached in the heathen world, in order that it might be understood, was compelled to accommodate itself to the prevailing heathen ideas, in short to the myths; it could not conquer the myths and ceremonies of the religion of nature otherwise than by clothing its new ethical ideal in the given forms and transforming these from within. Moreover, in the second place, we must not forget that the historical Jesus, although He was the first to be strongly inspired by the new spirit of divine sonship and of love, and so has given the mightiest impulse to its awakening and its sovereignty in the hearts of men, was not therefore solely the embodiment of this ideal principle. This simply could not be; for a principle or ideal can never exactly coincide with any individual manifestation in time and space, but reaches far beyond and above all these, a statement which is corroborated in this particular case by careful examination of the tradition of the Gospels. According to these writings Jesus was a child of His times and of His own people, He was subject to the law of Moses, He shared the Messianic hopes of His nation, in particular influenced by the apocalyptic tendency of contemporary Jewish thought He expected the near approach of the end of the world and the miraculous dawn of a new creation; and this apocalyptic tendency has left even upon His moral teaching the impress indeed of its own deep earnestness, but also of its spirit of ascetic renunciation of the world in view of the hereafter. Now it is simply self-evident that neither the national and legal, nor the apocalyptic and ascetic, side of the mind of Jesus could become for all peoples and times an object of religious belief and moral imitation. It was therefore absolutely necessary that the universal, eternal, and ideal import of His personality should be delivered from the individual and social limitations of its temporal manifestation, and as the real principle of redemption should find concrete expression in a form above the limitations of time. But what other form could have been found than the symbolic language of myth, of religious fiction, whereby the fancy has in all ages presented the world of the divine and eternal in the tangible, yet supernatural, characters and actions of miraculous story? The deliverance of the Christian idea from the rigid fetters of Judaism was only possible at the price of its investiture in the fluent forms of myths and rites. And although these indeed were in many ways connected with the ancient forms of nature-religion, yet they had this great compensating advantage,—they were free from that slavery to history which is the characteristic of Judaism and every legal religion. The divine action of the myths was indeed placed in the past, but it was in itself an indefinite fluid past which in the rites that interpreted the myth was completely converted into a timeless present, for the symbolic imitation of the mythical history made of it an action ever new. The sacraments had just the same significance for the ancient church. They served to abolish the time-form of the redemption myth, in that they represented under symbolic signs the eternal spiritual truth that lay hidden in the myth—the truth of the continuous incarnation of God in the hearts of good men, and of the continual thankoffering of the community which in obedience and love offers itself to God.<sup>1</sup>

166      The Early Christian

Accordingly myth and rite were certainly the most suitable forms of expression for primitive Christian belief. But they have much to teach us also. They show us how we ought to let history point the way above history to the eternal and omnipresent God, who is a God of the living and not of the dead; they warn us to free ourselves from the fatal ban of historicism, which seeks God's revelation only in the records of a dead past, and thus loses the power of finding it in the living present. Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here. He is risen! But go hence to your brethren; there will ye see Him! We are to behold the living Christ-Spirit, this ever indwelling divine principle of mankind, everywhere where the souls of men open themselves to the knowledge of every truth, where hearts glow with enthusiasm for all that is good, where love fulfils its daily offering of self-sacrifice for the good of the community, where there is conflict and suffering for the cause of justice and righteousness in society, where there is faith in the continual coming of God's kingdom among us, and where in this faith the world is overcome.

<sup>1</sup> Augustine, De Civitate Dei, x. 6, 20: Hoc est sacrificium Christianorum: multi unum corpus in Christo. Hoc etiam sacramento altaris frequentat ecclesia, quod in ea re, quam offert, ipsa offeratur . . . quæ, cum ipsius capitis corpus sit, se ipsam per ipsum offerre discit. Huic summo veroque sacrificio cuncta sacrificia falsa cesserunt.

A Catalogue

of

Williams & Norgate's

Publications

---

Divisions of the Catalogue

	PAGE
I. THEOLOGY . . . . .	3
II. PHILOSOPHY, PSYCHOLOGY . . . . .	29
III. ORIENTAL LANGUAGES, LITERATURE, AND HISTORY .	34
IV. PHILOLOGY, MODERN LANGUAGES . . . . .	39
V. SCIENCE, MEDICINE, CHEMISTRY, ETC. . . . .	46
VI. BIOGRAPHY, ARCHÆOLOGY, LITERATURE, MISCEL- LANEOUS . . . . .	56

FULL INDEX OVER PAGE

---

London
Williams & Norgate
14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W.C.
1904

INDEX.

Abyssinia, Shihab al Din, 37
Adam and Eve, Book of, Malan, 36
Alcyonium, Liverpool Marine Biol C Mem, 50
Algæ, Cooke, 47
America, Creation Myths of, Curtin, 57
Anarchy and Law, Brewster, 29
Anatomy, Cleland, 47, Cunningham Memoirs, 48, Lockwood, 51, Spalteholz, 54
Anthropology, Prehistoric, Avebury, 56, Engelhardt, 57, Laing, 59, Reliquia Aquitanica, 59
Apocalypse, Bleek, 8, Clark, 16
Apostles and Apostolic Times, Dobschütz, 4, Hausrath, 18, Weissacker, 7, Zeller, 9
Statutes of, edit G Horner, 26
Apostolic Succession, Clark, 16
Arabic, Chrestomathy, Brunnow, 34
Grammar, Socin, 37.
Koran, 36
Poetry, Fazlullah Bhai, 35, Lyall, 36, Noldeke, 36
Ascidia, Liverpool Marine Biol Mem, 50
Assyrian, Dictionary, Muss-Arnolt, 36, Norris, 36
Grammar, Delitzsch, 34
Language, Delitzsch, 34
Assyriology, Brown, 56, Delitzsch, 10, 34, Evans, 35, Sayce, 13, Schrader, 9
Astigmatic Tests, Pray, 52, Snellen, 54
Astronomy, Cunningham Mem, V, 48; Memoirs of Roy Astronom Soc, 62.
Augustine, St., Confessions of, Harnack, 18
Babylonia, see Assyriology.
Belief, Religious, Upton, 13
Beneficence, Negative and Positive, Spencer, Principles of Ethics, II, 31
Bible, 15
See also Testament Beliefs about, Savage, 25
For Beginners, Hopps, 20
Hebrew Texts, 18
History of Text, Weir, 27
Plants, Henslow, 19.
Biology, Bastian, 46, Liverpool Marine Biol Mem, 50, Spencer, 31
Botany, Bentham and Hooker, 46, Church, 47, Cooke, 47, Grevillea, 49, Four of the Linnean Soc, 49, Moore, 51, Prior, 52
Brain, Cunningham Mem, VII, 48
Buddha, Buddhism, Davids, 12, Hardy, 35, Oldenberg, 37
Calculus, Harnack, 49
Canons of Athanasius, Text & Trans Soc, 38
Cardium, Liverpool Marine Biol Mem, 50

Celtic, see also Irish.
Stokes, 43, Sullivan, 44
Heathendom, Rhys, 13
Ceremonial Institutions, Spencer, Princ. of Sociology, II, 31
Chaldee, Grammar, Turpie, 38
Lexicon, Fuerst, 35
Chemistry, Berzelius, 46, Dittmar, 48, Faraday, 49, Van't Hoff, 49
Hindu, Ray, 52
Christ, Life of, Keim, 8
No Product of Evolution, Henslow, 19
Study of, Robinson, 24
Teaching of, Harnack, 6, 11
The Universal, Beard, 15
Christianity, Evolution of, Gill, 17 History of, Baur, 8, Dobschütz, 4, Harnack, 6, 11, 18, Hausrath, 8, 18, Johnson, 20, Mackay, 22, Wernle, 3 in Talmud, Herford, 19
Liberal, Réville, 11
Roots of, Martineau, 22
Simplest form of, Drummond, 13
Spread of, Harnack, 5
What is? Harnack, 6, 11.
Church, Catholic, Renan, 13
Christian, Baur, 8, Clark, 16, Dobschütz, 4, Hatch, 13, Wernle, 3
Codex Palatino-Vaticanus, Todd Lectures, III, 44
Codium, Liverpool Marine Biol Mem, 51
Coleoptera, Murray, 51
Communion of Christian with God, Herrmann, 19
Comte, Spencer, 32
Constellations, Primitive, Brown, 56
Cornish, Stokes, 43
Creed, Christian Creed, 16
Crown Theological Library, 10
Culture, Thoughts on, Smith, 25
Cuneiform, Characters, Smith, 37
Inscriptions, Schrader, 9
Daniel, Prince, 23
Danish Dictionary, Larsen, 42, Rosing, 43
Darwinism, Schurman, 30
Denmark, Engelhardt, 57
Doctrine and Principle, Beeby, 15 Dogma, History of, Harnack, 5 of Virgin Birth, Lobstein, 10
Domestic Institutions, Spencer, Princ. of Sociology, I, 31
Duck Tribes, Morphology of, Cunningham Mem, VI, 48
Dutch, Cape, Oordt, 42; Werner, 45
Dynamics, Cunningham Mem, IV, 48.
Chemical, Van't Hoff, 49
Ecclesiastes, Taylor, 26
Ecclesiastical Institutions, Spencer, Princ. of Sociology, III, 31, 32 of Holland, Wicksteed, 28
Echinus, Liverpool Marine Biol Mem, 50

INDEX—continued.

Economy, Political, Mackenzie, 30
 Education, Herbert, 58, Spencer, 32.
 Educational Works, see Special Catalogue
 Egypt, Religion of, Renouf, 13
 Egyptian Antiquities, Sharpe, 37
     Grammar, Erman, 35
 English Language, Neglect of, Wylde, 45
 Enoch, Book of, Gill, 17
 Epidemiology, Trans of Epidemiolog Soc, 55
 Ethics, and Religion, Martineau, 22
     Data of, Spencer, Principles of E, I, 31.
     Induction of, Spencer, Principles of E, I, 31
     Kantian, Schurman, 30 of Evolution, Schurman, 30 of Individual Life, Spencer, Principles of E, I, 31 of Reason, Laurie, 29
     Principles of, Spencer, 31
 Ethnology, Cunningham Memis, X, 48 Evolution, Spencer, 31, 32 of the Idea of God, D'Alviella, 12 of Religious Thought, D'Alviella, 15
 Exodus, Hoerning, 19
 Ezekial, Mosheh ben Shesheth, 22
 Faith, Herrmann, 12, Riz, 24; Wimmer, 28
 Ferns, Moore, 51
 Flinders Petrie Papyri, Cunningham Memis, VIII, IX, 48
 Flora of Edinburgh, Sonnitag, 54
 French, Boiselle, 40, Delbos, 41, Eugène, 41, Hugo, 41, 42, Roget, 43, also Special Education Catalogue
     Literature, Roget, 43
     Novels, Army Series, 39
 Fungi, Cooke, 47, Grevillea, 49
 Genera Plantarum, Bentham and Hooker, 46
 Genesis, Hebrew Texts, 18, 35, Wright, C H H, 28
 Geography, Ancient, Kiepert, 58
 Geometry, Spencer, W G, 54
 German, Grammar, Weisse, 44
     Literature, Nibelungenlied, 42, Philipp, 43
     Novels, Army Series, 39
 Germany, Marcks, 59
 God, Idea of, D'Alviella, 12
 Gospel, First, Plain Commentary, 23
     Fourth, Drummond, 17, Taylor, 26
 Gospels, Lost and Hostile, Gould, 18
     Old and New Certainty, Robinson, 24
     Testimony, Voysey, 27
 Greek, Modern, Zonopolides, 45
 Gymnastics, Medical, Schreiber, 53
 Health, Herbert, 49, 57.
 Hebrew, Biblical, Kennedy, 35
     Language, Delitzsch, 34
     Lexicon, Fuerst, 35
     Scriptures, Sharpe, 25.
     Synonyms, Kennedy, 35
     Text of O.T., Weir, 27.
     Text, 18, 35.

Hebrews, History of, Kittel, 6, Peters, 12, Sharpe, 25
     Religion of, Kuenen, 9, Montefiore, 13.
 Heterogenesis, Bastian, 46
 Hibbert Lectures, 12, 13
 Hymns, Jones, 20
 Icelandic, Lily, 42, Viga Glums Saga, 44
     Dictionary, Zoega, 45.
     Grammar, Bayldon, 40
 Individualism, Herbert, 57, Spencer, Man v State, 32.
 Irish, Atkinson, 40, Book of Ballymote, 40, Book of Leinster, 41, Hogan, 41, Leabhar Breac, 42, Leabhar na H-Uidhri, 42, O'Grady, 42, Stokes, 43, Todd Lectures, 44, Yellow Book of Lecan, 45
 Isaiah, Dietrich, 34, Hebrew Texts, 18, 35
 Israel, History of, Kittel, 6, Peters, 23, Sharpe, 25 Religion of, Kuenen, 9
     in Egypt, Wright, G H B, 28
 Jeremiah, Mosheh ben Shesheth, 22
 Jesus, Life of, Hopps, 20, Keim, 8
     The Real, Vickers, 27
     Times of, Hausraath, 8
     See also Christ
 Job, Book of, Ewald, 8; Hebrew Text, 18, 35, Wright, G H B, 28
     Rabbinical Comment on, Text & Trans Soc, 38
 Justice, Spencer, Princ of Ethics, II, 31, 32
 Kant, Schurman, 30
 Kindergarten, Goldammer, 57
 Labour, Harrison, 57; Schloss, 59, Vynne, 60
 Leabhar Breac, 42, Atkinson, 40, Hogan, 41
 Leprosy, Abraham, 46
 Lives of the Saints, Hogan, 41
 Logarithms, Bruhns, 47; Sang, 53, Schroen, 54, Vega, 55
 London Library Catalogue, 57
 Lumbar Curve, Cunningham Memis, II, 48
 Mahabharata, Sorensen, 38
 Malaria, Annett, 46, Boyce, 46, Dutton, 43, Memis of Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, 51, Ross, 52, 53, Stephens, 55
 Maori, Dictionary, Wilhams, 45
     Manual, Maori, 42.
 Materialism, Martineau, 22
 Mathematics, Harnack, 49, Spencer, 54
     See also Logarithms
 Mediæval Thought, Poole, 23
 Mesca Ulad, Todd Lectures, I, 44.
 Metaphysics, Laurie, 29
 Mexico, Religions of, Réville, 13.
 Micah, Book of, Taylor, 26
 Microscopy, Journal of the Roy. Micro Soc, 49, Journal of the Quekett Micro Club, 50
 Midrash, Christianity in, Herford, 19
 Mineral Systems, Chapman, 47.

INDEX—continued.

Monasticism, Harnack, 18.
 Mosquitoes, Mems of Liverpool School of Trop Medicine, 51
 Mythology, American, Curtin, 57
   Greek, Brown, 56, St Clair, 59
   Northern, Stephens, 60
 Myxomycetes, Cooke, 47
 Natural Selection, Spencer, 32
 Nautical Terms, Delbos, 41.
 Nennius, The Irish, Hogan, 41
 New Guinea, Cunningham Mems, X, 48
 New Testament, see Testament, 26
 New Testament Times, Hausrath, 8, 18
 Nitidulariæ, Murray, 51
 Norwegian Dictionary, Larsen, 42,
   Rosing, 43
 Ophthalmic Tests, Pray, 52, Snellen, 54 Origins, Christian, Johnson, 20 of Religion, Hubbert Lectures, 12, 13
 Pali, Dipavamsa, 34, Malanda Panho,
   36, Vinaya Pitakam, 38.
   Handbook, Frankfurter, 35
   Miscellany, 37
 Paul, St, Baur, 8, Pfleiderer, 9
 Persian Grammar, Platts, 37
 Peru, Religions of, Réville, 13
 Philo Judæus, Drummond, 29
 Philosophy, 29
   and Experience, Hodgson, 29
   Jewish Alexandrian, Drummond, 29 of Religion, Pfleiderer, 9
   Reorganisation of, Hodgson, 29
   Religion of, Perrin, 23
   Synthetic, Collins, 29, Spencer, 31.
 Phyllotaxis, Church, 47
 Plague, Boghurst, 46.
 Political Institutions, Spencer, Princ. of Sociology, II, 31
 Prayers, Common Prayer, 16, Hopps,
   20, Jones, 21; Personal, 23, Sadler,
   24; Ten Services, 26, Vizard,
   27, Voysey, 27
 Prehistoric Man, Avebury, 56, Engelhardt, 57, Laing, 59, Reliquæ Aquitanicæ,
   57.
 Professional Institutions, Spencer, Princ of Sociology, III, 31
 Profit-sharing, Schloss, 59
 Prophets of O.T., Ewald, 8
 Protestant Faith, Hermann, 12;
   Réville, 11
 Proverbs, Book of, Malan, 22
 Psalms, Hebrew Texts, 18, 35 and Canticles, Ten Services, 26
   Commentary, Ewald, 8
 Psychology, Mind, 30, Scripture, 30, Wundt, 33
   of Belief, Pihler, 30
   Principles of, Spencer, 31
 Reconciliation, Henslow, 19
 Reformation, Beard, 12.
 Religion, Grounds and Principles,
   Wright, 28
   History of, Kuenen, 9, 13; Réville, 9, 13 of Philosophy, Perrin, 23
   Philosophy of, Pfleiderer, 9.
   Thoughts on, Smith, 25, Wimmer, 11
   See also Christianity, History of.

Religions, National and Universal,
   Kuenen, 21
   of Authority, Sabatier, 4.
 Resurrection, Macan, 22, Marchant,
   22 Reviews and Periodical Publications, 61
 Rigveda, Wallis, 38
 Rome, Renan, 13
 Runes, Kermode, 58, Stephens, 60.
 Ruth, Wright, C H H, 28
 Sanitation, in Cape Coast Town, Taylor, 55 in Para, Notes, 52
 Sanscrit, Abhidhanaratnamala, 34,
   Sorensen, 38
 Self-Aid, in War, Coverhill, 47.
 Sermons, Beard, 15, Broadbent, 16;
   Hopps, 20, Martyn, 22
 Services, Common Prayer, 16, Jones, 21;
   Ten Services, 26.
 Silva Gadelica, O'Grady, 42
 Social Dynamics, Mackenzie, 30
   Statics, Spencer, 32.
 Sociology, Descriptive, Spencer, 32
   Principles of, Spencer, 31
   Study of, Spencer, 32.
 Solomon, Song of, Réville, 24
 South Place Ethical Society, Conway,
   16
 Spanish Dictionary, Velasquez, 44
 Spinal Cord, Bruce, 46.
 Sternum, Paterson, 52
 Storms, Piddington, 52
 Sun Heat, Cunningham Mems, III., 48.
 Syniac, Bernstein, 34, Diettrich, 34;
   Noldke, 36
 Taal, Afrikander, Oordt, 42, Werner, 45.
 Talmud, Christianity in, Herford, 19.
 Tennyson, Elton, 57, Weid, 60 Testament, New, Commentary, Protes- tant Commentary, 9
   Notes on, Sharpe, 25
   Textual Criticism, Nesile, 7
   Times, Hausrath, 8, 18
   See also Gospels.
 Testament, Old, Cuneiform Inscriptions,
   Schrader, 9
   Literature of, Kautzsch, 21
 Test Types, Pray, 52; Snellen, 54.
 Theism, Voysey, 27
 Theological Translation Library, 3.
 Theology, Analysis of, Figg, 17
   History of, Pfleiderer, 9
 Truth, Search for, Horton, 20.
 Trypanosomiasis, Dutton, 48
 Virgil, Henry, 57.
 Virgin Birth, Lobstein, 10
 Weissmann, Spencer, 32
 Woman's Labour, Englishwoman's
   Review, 57, Harrison, 57, Vynne, 60
   Suffrage, Blackburn, 56
 Yellow Fever, Durham, 48.
 Zoology, Fasciculi Malayenses, 49;
   Journal of the Linnean Soc., 49;
   Liverpool Marine Biology Com- mittee Mems, 50.

Williams & Norgate's Catalogue of Publications.

---

I. Theology and Religion.

---

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION LIBRARY.

New Series.

A Series of Translations by which the best results of recent Theological Investigations on the Continent, conducted without reference to doctrinal considerations, and with the sole purpose of arriving at the truth, are placed within reach of English readers.

---

Vols I -XII. were edited by the Rev T. K. Cheyne, M A., D.D., Oriel Professor of Interpretation in the University of Oxford, Canon of Rochester; and the late Rev A. B. Bruce, D D, Professor of Apologetics, Free Church College, Glasgow.

Vol. XIII was edited by Rev Allan Menzies, D D, Professor of Divinity and Biblical Criticism in the University, St Andrews

Vols. XV. and XVII. are edited by Rev. W. D. Morrison, M.A., LL.D.

The Price per Volume is 10s. 6d.

Subscribers to the Series obtain three volumes for 21s., or 22s. 6d. carriage free, payable before publication of the volumes.

Just issued, Vols. XV. and XVII.

THE BEGINNINGS OF CHRISTIANITY. By Paul Wernle, Professor Extraordinary of Modern Church History at the University of Basel Revised by the Author, and translated by the Rev. G. A. Bienemann, M A, and edited, with an Introduction, by the Rev. W. D. Morrison, LL D.

Vol I. The Rise of the Religion.

Vol II. The Development of the Church.

From some of the Reviews of the Work.

Dr. Marcus Dods in the British Weekly—"We cannot recall any work by a foreign theologian which is likely to have a more powerful influence on the thought of this country than Wernle's Beginnings of Christianity. It is well written and well translated, it is earnest, clear, and persuasive, and above all it is well adapted to catch the large class of thinking men who are at present seeking some non-miraculous explanation of Christianity."

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION LIBRARY—Continued

"This translation of Prof Wernle's lectures deserves a very hearty welcome in England. The style is alive and vigorous, the thought suggestive, the whole narrative is admirably clear and simple, popular in the best sense of the term. . . It may be accepted as a companion volume to Harnack's What is Christianity? as an announcement of a liberal position of slightly differing tendency. It is quite easy and pleasant reading for the ordinary layman who may be desirous of knowing the present position of the more advanced schools, and how much of the traditional theology these are prepared to retain. One could wish that a few more English theologians would attempt a similar apologia for the edification of the perplexed lay mind."—Daily News

"No English book covers the same ground, or is conceived with the same breadth and sanity, in few works in any language are learning and insight so happily combined."—Edinburgh Review

"The translation is well done, and the book is full of interest."—Athenæum

Just issued, Vol. XVI

THE RELIGIONS OF AUTHORITY AND THE RELIGION OF THE SPIRIT. By the late Auguste Sabatier, Professor of the University of Paris, Dean of the Protestant Theological Faculty. With a Memoir of the Author by Jean Réville, Professor in the Protestant Theological Faculty of the University of Paris, and a Note by Madame Sabatier.

"Without any exaggeration, this is to be described as a great book, the finest legacy of the author to the Protestant Church of France and to the theological thought of the age. Written in the logical and lucid style which is characteristic of the best French theology, and excellently translated, it is a work which any thoughtful person, whether a professional student or not, might read without difficulty."—Glasgow Herald

Now ready, Vol. XVIII.

CHRISTIAN LIFE IN THE APOSTOLIC AGE. By Ernst von Dobschutz, D.D., Professor of New Testament Theology in the University of Strassburg.

Prof Vernon Bartlet, in the Hibbert Journal, says—"This is an opportune book. . . It is singularly free from one-sidedness (e.g., any overdoing of the 'enthusiastic' side of the picture), and from straining after novel effects, won by running an idea to extremes. Its author has an attentive eye for most, if not all, of the varied sides and interests of the first generations of Christians, because he has a heart large and deep enough to sympathise with all genuine religion. Nil Christiani a se alienum putat."

"This is a singularly good, complete, and well-thought-out account of the moral state of the Christian communities in the apostolic and post-apostolic age down to Ignatius and Hermas."—Journal of Theological Studies

"As a whole the volume may be said to represent a sober, comprehensive account of the ethical situation throughout the course of primitive Christianity, from 30 A.D. to 130 A.D."—Expository Times.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION LIBRARY—Continued

In the Press.

THE EXPANSION OF CHRISTIANITY IN THE FIRST THREE CENTURIES [Die Mission und Ausbreitung des Christentums in den ersten drei Jahrhunderten]. By Adolf Harnack, Ordinary Professor of Church History in the University, and Fellow of the Royal Academy of the Sciences, Berlin

"And it is bare justice to say that in the present monograph, the outcome of his preliminary studies in the Berlin Academy's Transactions for 1901, Harnack has once more brilliantly shown his power of combining verve and learning, mastery of salient detail and an outlook upon the broad movements of the period in question. The Ausbreitung forms a sequel and supplement to works like his own Wesen and Weizsacker's Apostolic Age. It is a diagnosis rather than a story, yet an analysis in which eloquent facts lose little or nothing of their eloquence."—Hibbert Journal

"It is confidently commended to all students of the early Church as a treatise acquaintance with which will from this time on be indispensable. Both for its form and its contents, this must rank as one of Harnack's best works."—American Journal of Theology

---

The Earlier Works included in the Library are:—

HISTORY OF DOGMA. By Adolf Harnack, Ordinary Professor of Church History in the University, and Fellow of the Royal Academy of the Sciences, Berlin. Translated from the Third German Edition. Edited by the Rev Prof. A. B. Bruce, D.D. 7 vols (New Series, Vols II, VII, VIII., IX., X, XI., XII.) 8vo, cloth, each 10s 6d.; half-leather, suitable for presentation, 12s. 6d

ABBREVIATED LIST OF CONTENTS:—Vol. I. INTRODUCTORY DIVISION:—I. Prolegomena to the Study of the History of Dogma. II The Presuppositions of the History of Dogma. DIVISION I.—The Genesis of Ecclesiastical Dogma, or the Genesis of the Catholic Apostolic Dogmatic Theology, and the first Scientific Ecclesiastical System of Doctrine. BOOK I:—The Preparation. Vol II.: DIVISION I. BOOK II. —The Laying of the Foundation —I. Historical Survey —I. Fixing and gradual Secularising of Christianity as a Church —II. Fixing and gradual Hellenising of Christianity as a System of Doctrine Vol. III. DIVISION I. BOOK II —The Laying of the Foundation—continued. DIVISION II —The Development of Ecclesiastical Dogma. BOOK I. —The History of the Development of Dogma as the Doctrine of the God-man on the basis of Natural Theology. A. Presuppositions of Doctrine of Redemption or Natural Theology. B. The Doctrine of Redemption in the Person of the God-man in its historical development Vol IV.: DIVISION II. BOOK I:—The History of the Development of Dogma as the Doctrine of the God-man on the basis of Natural Theology—continued. Vol. V: DIVISION II. BOOK II.:—Expansion and Remodelling of Dogma into a Doctrine of Sin, Grace, and Means of Grace on the basis of the Church. Vol. VI. DIVISION II BOOK II :—Expansion and Remodelling of Dogma into a Doctrine of Sin, Grace, and Means of Grace on the basis of the Church—continued. Vol. VII.: DIVISION II BOOK III. :—The Threefold Issue of the History of Dogma—Full Index.

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION LIBRARY—Continued.

"No work on Church history in recent times has had the influence of Prof Harnack's History of Dogma"—Times

"A book which is admitted to be one of the most important theological works of the time."—Daily News

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY? Sixteen Lectures delivered in the University of Berlin during the Winter Term, 1899-1900 By Adolf Harnack. Translated by Thomas Bailey Saunders. (New Series, Vol XIV.) Demy 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d; half-leather, suitable for presentation, 12s. 6d.

Prof W. Sanday of Oxford, in the examination of the work, says—"I may assume that Harnack's book, which has attracted a good deal of attention in this country as in Germany, is by this time well known, and that its merits are recognised—its fresh and vivid descriptions, its breadth of view and skilful selection of points, its frankness, its genuine enthusiasm, its persistent effort to get at the living realities of religion"

"Seldom has a treatise of the sort been at once so suggestive and so stimulating Seldom have the results of so much learning been brought to bear on the religious problems which address themselves to the modern mind."—Pilot.

"In many respects this is the most notable work of Prof Harnack . . . These lectures are most remarkable, both for the historical insight they display and for their elevation of tone and purpose."—Literature.

THE COMMUNION OF THE CHRISTIAN WITH GOD :
A Discussion in Agreement with the View of Luther. By W. Herrmann, Dr Theol., Professor of Dogmatic Theology in the University of Marburg. Translated from the Second thoroughly revised Edition, with Special Annotations by the Author, by J. Sandys Stanyon, M A (New Series, Vol IV.) 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d.

"It will be seen from what has been said that this book is a very important one . . . The translation is also exceedingly well done."—Critical Review

"We trust the book will be widely read, and should advise those who read it to do so twice."—Primitive Methodist Quarterly

"Instinct with genuine religious feeling, . . . exceedingly interesting and suggestive."—Glasgow Herald.

A HISTORY OF THE HEBREWS. By R. Kittel, Ordinary Professor of Theology in the University of Breslau. In 2 vols. (New Series, Vols. III. and VI.) 8vo, cloth. Each volume, 10s. 6d.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION LIBRARY—Continued.

Vol. I Sources of Information and History of the Period up to the Death of Joshua. Translated by John Taylor, D Lit., M.A.

Vol. II. Sources of Information and History of the Period down to the Babylonian Exile. Translated by Hope W. Hogg, B.D., and E. B. Speirs, D D.

"It is a sober and earnest reconstruction, for which every earnest student of the Old Testament should be grateful"—Christian World

"It will be a happy day for pulpit and pew when a well-thumbed copy of the History of the Hebrews is to be found in every manse and parsonage"—Literary World

"It is a work which cannot fail to attract the attention of thoughtful people in this country"—Pall Mall Gazette

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE TEXTUAL CRITICISM OF THE GREEK NEW TESTAMENT By Professor Eberhard Nestle, of Maulbronn. Translated from the Second Edition, with Corrections and Additions by the Author, by William Edie, B D., and edited, with a Preface, by Allan Menzies, D.D., Professor of Divinity and Biblical Criticism in the University of St. Andrews. (New Series, Vol XIII) With eleven reproductions of Texts Demy 8vo, 10s. 6d ; half-leather, 12s. 6d.

"We have no living scholar more capable of accomplishing the fascinating task of preparing a complete introduction on the new and acknowledged principles than Prof Nestle. This book will stand the most rigorous scrutiny, it will surpass the highest expectation"—Expository Times

"Nothing could be better than Dr Nestle's account of the materials which New Testament textual criticism has to deal with."—Spectator

"We know of no book of its size which can be recommended more cordially to the student, alike for general interest and for the clearness of its arrangement. . . . In smoothness of rendering, the translation is one of the best we have come across for a considerable time"—Manchester Guardian

THE APOSTOLIC AGE. By Prof Carl von Weizsacker Translated by James Millar, B.D. 2 vols. (New Series, Vols. I. and V.) Demy 8vo, cloth. Each 10s. 6d

"Weizsacker is an authority of the very first rank. The present work marks an epoch in New Testament criticism. The English reader is fortunate in having a masterpiece of this kind rendered accessible to him"—Expository Times

" . . . No student of theology or of the early history of Christianity can afford to leave Weizsacker's great book unread"—Manchester Guardian.

"In every direction in this work we find the mark of the independent thinker and investigator . . . this remarkable volume . . . this able and learned work . . ."—Christian World

"The book itself . . . is of great interest, and the work of the translation has been done in a most satisfactory way."—Critical Review

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION FUND LIBRARY.

Old Series.

Uniform Price per Volume, 6s

BAUR (F. C.). CHURCH HISTORY OF THE FIRST THREE CENTURIES. Translated from the Third German Edition. Edited by Rev. Allan Menzies 2 vols. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

— PAUL, THE APOSTLE OF JESUS CHRIST, HIS LIFE AND WORK, HIS EPISTLES AND DOCTRINE. A Contribution to a Critical History of Primitive Christianity. Edited by Rev Allan Menzies. 2nd Edition 2 vols 8vo, cloth 12s

BLEEK (F.). LECTURES ON THE APOCALYPSE. Translated Edited by the Rev Dr S Davidson 8vo, cloth. 6s.

EWALD'S (Dr H.) COMMENTARY ON THE PROPHETS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. Translated by the Rev. J. F Smith [Vol. I. General Introduction, Yoel, Amos, Hosea, and Zakharya 9-11. Vol II Yesaya, Obadya, and Mikah Vol. III. Nahûm, Ssephanya, Habaqqûq, Zakhârya, Yéremya Vol. IV. Hezekiel, Yesaya xl-lxvi Vol V Haggai, Zakharya, Malaki, Jona, Baruc, Daniel, Appendix and Index] 5 vols. 8vo, cloth. 30s

— COMMENTARY ON THE PSALMS. Translated by the Rev. E Johnson, M A. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth 12s.

— COMMENTARY ON THE BOOK OF JOB, with Translation. Translated from the German by the Rev. J. Frederick Smith. 8vo, cloth. 6s.

HAUSRATH (Prof. A.). HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT TIMES. The Time of Jesus Translated by the Revs. C T Poyntung and P. Quenzer. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

The second portion of this work, "The Times of the Apostles," was issued apart from the Library, but in uniform volumes, see p. 18

KEIM'S HISTORY OF JESUS OF NAZARA: Considered in its connection with the National Life of Israel, and related in detail. Translated from the German by Arthur Ransom and the Rev. E M Geldart. [Vol I. Second Edition. Introduction, Survey of Sources, Sacred and Political Groundwork. Religious Groundwork Vol II. The Sacred Youth, Self-recognition, Decision. Vol. III. The First Preaching, the Works of

THEOLOGICAL TRANSLATION FUND LIBRARY—Continued.

Jesus, the Disciples, and Apostolic Mission. Vol IV. Conflicts and Disillusions, Strengthened Self-confidence, Last Efforts in Galilee, Signs of the Approaching Fall, Recognition of the Messiah. Vol. V. The Messianic Progress to Jerusalem, the Entry into Jerusalem, the Decisive Struggle, the Farewell, the Last Supper. Vol. VI The Messianic Death at Jerusalem. Arrest and Pseudo-Trial, the Death on the Cross, Burial and Resurrection, the Messiah's Place in History, Indices ] Complete in 6 vols. 8vo 36s.

(Vol. I. only to be had when a complete set of the work is ordered.)

KUENEN (Dr A.). THE RELIGION OF ISRAEL TO THE FALL OF THE JEWISH STATE. By Dr A. Kuenen, Professor of Theology at the University, Leyden. Translated from the Dutch by A. H. May. 3 vols. 8vo, cloth 18s

PFLEIDERER (O.) PAULINISM: A Contribution to the History of Primitive Christian Theology Translated by E. Peters. 2nd Edition. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth. 12s — PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION ON THE BASIS OF ITS HISTORY. (Vols. I II History of the Philosophy of Religion from Spinoza to the Present Day, Vols III. IV. Genetic-Speculative Philosophy of Religion) Translated by Prof. Allan Menzies and the Rev Alex. Stewart. 4 vols. 8vo, cloth. 24s.

RÉVILLE (Dr A) PROLEGOMENA OF THE HISTORY OF RELIGIONS With an Introduction by Prof. F. Max Muller. 8vo, cloth. 6s.

PROTESTANT COMMENTARY ON THE NEW TESTAMENT. With General and Special Introductions. Edited by Profs. P. W. Schmidt and F von Holzendorff Translated from the Thurd German Edition by the Rev. F H. Jones, B.A. 3 vols 8vo, cloth 18s

SCHRADER (Prof. E.) THE CUNEIFORM INSCRIPTIONS AND THE OLD TESTAMENT Translated from the Second Enlarged Edition, with Additions by the Author, and an Introduction by the Rev Owen C. Whitehouse, M.A. 2 vols. (Vol I. not sold separately.) With a Map. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

ZELLER (Dr. E) THE CONTENTS AND ORIGIN OF THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES CRITICALLY INVESTIGATED Preceded by Dr Fr. Overbeck's Introduction to the Acts of the Apostles from De Wette's Handbook. Translated by Joseph Dare. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth 12s.

THE CROWN THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY.

Dr. John Watson, of Liverpool. "The Crown Theological Library is rendering valuable service to lay theologians in this country, as well as to ministers"

The volumes are uniform in size (crown octavo) and binding, but the price varies according to the size and importance of the work

- Vol. I. BABEL AND BIBLE By Dr. Friedrich Delitzsch, Professor of Assyriology in the University of Berlin. Authorised Translation. Edited, with an Introduction, by Rev. C. H. W. Johns. Crown 8vo, with 77 illustrations, cloth. 5s

These are the two famous Lectures which were delivered before the Deutsche Orient-Gesellschaft in the presence of the German Emperor, and again before the Emperor, Empress, and the Court, and which gave rise to the Babel-Bible controversy. They set forth freshly and temperately the close relation between the results of cuneiform studies and the more familiar facts of the Old Testament, and clearly state the conclusions of European scholarship as to the compilation of the Pentateuch from many different sources, and as to its dependence on Babylonian myths for large portions of its primeval history.

"This interestingly illustrated and well-made version of the Lectures should satisfy both scholars and general readers, though no doubt scholars will know best how to appreciate the high value of its arguments"—Scotsman.

"It is written in an interesting and arresting style, and gives the best account we have seen in short compass of these most important discoveries"—The Weekly Leader.

"It is long since any book on Biblical Archæology could claim to be more deeply interesting to inquiring minds than this volume must be admitted to be by any thoughtful reader. We believe that most readers will be delighted with the book as a description, romantic in its realism, of actual discoveries, and their bearing on the accuracy of the Old Testament statements"—Christian Commonwealth.

- Vol. II. THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF CHRIST: An Historical and Critical Essay By Paul Lobstein, Professor of Dogmatics in the University of Strassburg. Translated by Victor Leuliette, A.K.C., B-ès-L., Paris. Edited, with an Introduction, by W. D. Morrison, LL.D. Crown 8vo 3s

"It should be added that Lobstein falls behind no one of those who have refined the tone of modern controversy, that his attitude to those whose views he opposes is considerate, his own purpose constructive for faith, and his tone impressively reverent. Mr Leuliette's translation is in admirably clear and good English"—Hubbert Journal

"Professor Lobstein handles his theme with a thoroughly reverent spirit, and the book may be recommended to all who are in doubt as to this particular dogma"—Scotsman.

"No one who reads this most scholarly and convincing volume will doubt the sincerity of the Professor's endeavour and aim, and most readers will gratefully own the notable success he has achieved"—St Andrew

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

THE CROWN THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY—Continued.

- Vol. III. MY STRUGGLE FOR LIGHT: Confessions of a Preacher. By R. Wimmer, Pastor of Weisweil-am-Rhein in Baden. Crown 8vo, cloth 3s. 6d.

Dr P. T. Forsyth, Principal of Hackney College—"A beautiful translation of a beautiful book"

"It is a book which will appeal to ministers who are anxious to preserve intellectual sincerity, and to thoughtful laymen who are turning over in their mind the deepest problems of religion. The author's spirit throughout the book reminds one of Martineau. The tone and style of the book are admirable"—Dr John Watson in Christian Commonwealth.

"Well worth translating and adding to the Crown Theological Library. It is a book of beautiful intention and most sincere aspiration."—Expository Times.

"This is a notable and vital book, full of keen thought and sweet with the fragrance of true piety"—Week's Survey.

"This is a delightful book, for we have in it, not the result of scholarship, though that is sound and wide, but the faithful record of the victorious struggles of a religious genius with the spectres of a mind which assail every earnest and thoughtful man in this critical age. The book has one of the marks of true greatness—absolute sincerity. The entire courage, simplicity, and clearmindedness with which Wimmer faces the difficulties of modern religious thought enforce our admiration, and win our trust and sympathy"—Examiner.

- Vol. IV. LIBERAL CHRISTIANITY: Its Origin, Nature, and Mission. By Jean Réville, Professeur adjoint à la Faculté de Théologie Protestante de l'Université de Paris. Translated and edited by Victor Leuliette, A.K.C., B-ès-L. Crown 8vo, cloth 4s.

"The book is a powerful, lucid and interesting restatement of the position of Protestantism in regard to modern advances in philosophy and science"—Scotsman

"We commend the book for its lucid style, vigorous reasoning, and spiritual aims"—Christian Commonwealth

"Admirably translated and edited by Victor Leuliette, is a book which will be of great value to all who are interested in the history of religious development."—St Andrew

"An honest and earnest effort to vindicate the eternal place of religion in the life of man, and deserves all respect"—Week's Survey.

- Vol. V. WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY? By Adolf Harnack, Professor of Church History in the University, Berlin. Translated by Thomas Bailey Saunders. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Prof W. Sanday, of Oxford, in an examination of the work, says—"I may assume that Harnack's book, which has attracted a good deal of attention in this country as in Germany, is by this time well known, and that its merits are recognised—its fresh and vivid descriptions, its breadth of view and skilful selection of points, its frankness, its genuine enthusiasm, its persistent effort to get at the living realities of religion"

"In many respects this is the most notable work of Prof. Harnack. These lectures are most remarkable, both for the historical insight they display and for their elevation of tone and purpose"—Literature

THE CROWN THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY—Continued

- Vol. VI. FAITH AND MORALS By W. Herrmann, Professor of Systematic Theology at the University of Marburg, Author of "The Communion of the Christian with God" Crown 8vo, cloth. 5s.

"Not often are English readers presented with so thorough and penetrating an examination of all that is involved in Romanism, and in proportion as Dr. Herrmann's really philosophical method is adopted, Protestantism will find more consistent and convincing advocacy"—Christian World

"A cordial welcome will be given the very readable translation by Mr. Matheson and Mr. Stewart"—Spectator

- Vol. VII. EARLY HEBREW STORY A Study of the Origin, the Value, and the Historical Background of the Legends of Israel. By John P. Peters, D.D., Rector of St. Michael's Church, New York; author of "Nippur, or Explorations and Adventures on the Euphrates." Crown 8vo, cloth 5s

The six lectures which constitute this book were originally delivered as Bond Lectures before the Bangor Theological Seminary in Bangor, Me., U.S.A. The following is an extract from a minute adopted by the Faculty of that Institution: "The broad and ripe scholarship, the fresh knowledge of details, the constructive temper, and the reverent Christian spirit which were always manifest, gave these lectures exceptional worth, not only for the student body, but for the large company of thoughtful people who heard them."

"It should appeal in a peculiar manner to everybody who takes an intelligent interest in the Bible, the early history of the world, and the development of religion"—Outlook.

Among the works in preparation, the following may be mentioned as in the printers' hands —

Crown 8vo, about 250 pages, probably 5s

- Vol. VIII. BIBLE PROBLEMS AND THE NEW MATERIALS FOR THEIR SOLUTION. A Plea for Thoroughness of Investigation addressed to Churchmen and Scholars. By Rev. T. K. Cheyne, M.A., D.D., Oriel Professor of Interpretation in the University of Oxford, and Canon of Rochester.

- Vol. IX. THE DOCTRINE OF THE ATONEMENT AND ITS HISTORICAL EVOLUTION, and RELIGION AND MODERN CULTURE. By the late Auguste Sabatier, Prof. of the University of Paris, and Dean of the Protestant Theological Faculty. Translated by Victor Leuliette, B. ès-L. (Paris), A.K.C.

Also,

- THE EARLY CHRISTIAN CONCEPTION OF CHRIST: Its Value and Significance in the History of Religion. By Otto Pfleiderer, D.D., Professor of Practical Theology in the University, Berlin

---

THE HIBBERT LECTURES.

Library Edition, demy 8vo, 10s. 6d. per volume Cheap Popular Edition, 3s. 6d. per volume.

- ALVIELLA (Count GOBLET D'). EVOLUTION OF THE IDEA OF GOD, ACCORDING TO ANTHROPOLOGY AND HISTORY Translated by the Rev. P. H. Wicksteed. (Hibbert Lectures, 1891) Cloth 10s. 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

THE HIBBERT LECTURES—Continued

- BEARD (Rev. Dr. C.). LECTURES ON THE REFORMATION OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY IN ITS RELATION TO MODERN THOUGHT AND KNOWLEDGE. (Hibbert Lectures, 1883.) 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d
Cheap Edition, 3rd Edition, 3s 6d
- DAVIDS (T W. RHYS). LECTURES ON SOME POINTS IN THE HISTORY OF INDIAN BUDDHISM. (Hibb Lec., 1881.) 2nd Ed 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d Cheap Ed , 3s. 6d
- DRUMMOND (Dr) VIA, VERITAS, VITA. Lectures on Christianity in its most Simple and Intelligible Form. (The Hibbert Lectures, 1894.) 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d
- HATCH (Rev. Dr.). LECTURES ON THE INFLUENCE OF GREEK IDEAS AND USAGES UPON THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Edited by Dr Fairbairn. (Hibbert Lectures, 1888) 3rd Edition. 8vo, cloth 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s 6d.
- KUENEN (Dr. A.). LECTURES ON NATIONAL RELIGIONS AND UNIVERSAL RELIGION. (The Hibbert Lectures, 1882) 8vo, cloth. 10s 6d Cheap Edition, 3s 6d
- MONTEFIORE (C G) ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF RELIGION AS ILLUSTRATED BY THE RELIGION OF THE ANCIENT HEBREWS. (The Hibbert Lectures, 1892.) 2nd Edition. 8vo, cloth. 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d.
- PFLEIDERER (Dr O) LECTURES ON THE INFLUENCE OF THE APOSTLE PAUL ON THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHRISTIANITY. Translated by the Rev. J Frederick Smith (Hibbert Lectures, 1885) 2nd Edition 8vo, cloth 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s 6d.
- RENAN (E.) ON THE INFLUENCE OF THE INSTITUTIONS, THOUGHT, AND CULTURE OF ROME ON CHRISTIANITY AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. Translated by the Rev Charles Beard (Hibbert Lectures, 1880.) 8vo, cloth 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3rd Edition, 3s. 6d
- RENOUF (P LE PAGE) ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT EGYPT. (Hibbert Lectures, 1879.) 3rd Edition 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s 6d
- RHYS (Prof. J.). ON THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF RELIGION AS ILLUSTRATED BY CELTIC HEATHENDOM. (Hibbert Lectures, 1886) 8vo, cloth. 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s 6d.
- RÉVILLE (Dr. A.) ON THE NATIVE RELIGIONS OF MEXICO AND PERU. Translated by the Rev P. H Wicksteed. (Hibbert Lectures, 1884.) 8vo, cloth. 10s 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d.

THE HIBBERT LECTURES—Continued.

SAYCE (Prof. A. H.). ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT ASSYRIA AND BABYLONIA. 4th Edition (Hibbert Lectures, 1887.) 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d.

UPTON (Rev. C. B.). ON THE BASES OF RELIGIOUS BELIEF. (Hibbert Lectures, 1893) Demy 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d. Cheap Edition, 3s. 6d.

SYSTEMATICALLY ARRANGED.

Comparative Religions.

RENOUF (P. LE PAGE). ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT EGYPT.

RHYS DAVIDS (Prof. T. W.). ON INDIAN BUDDHISM.

RÉVILLE (Prof. A.). ON THE ANCIENT RELIGIONS OF MEXICO AND PERU.

RHYS (Prof. J.). CELTIC HEATHENDOM.

SAYCE (Prof. A. H.). ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT ASSYRIA AND BABYLONIA.

Philosophy of Religions.

KUENEN (Prof. A.). NATIONAL RELIGIONS AND UNIVERSAL RELIGION.

D'ALVIELLA (Count G.). ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF THE IDEA OF GOD.

History of Religions.

RENAN (E.). THE INFLUENCE OF THE INSTITUTIONS, THOUGHT, AND CULTURE OF ROME ON CHRISTIANITY, AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

BEARD (C.). THE REFORMATION IN ITS RELATION TO MODERN THOUGHT AND KNOWLEDGE.

PFLEIDERER (Prof. O.). THE INFLUENCE OF THE APOSTLE PAUL ON THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHRISTIANITY.

HATCH (Dr. E.). INFLUENCE OF GREEK IDEAS AND USAGES UPON THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

MONTEFIORE (C. G.). ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF RELIGION AS ILLUSTRATED BY THE RELIGION OF THE ANCIENT HEBREWS.

Christianity and Present-Day Problems.

UPTON (Prof. C. B.). THE BASES OF RELIGIOUS BELIEF.

DRUMMOND (Principal JAS.). VIA, VERITAS, VITA.

ALPHABETICAL LIST.

ALLIN (Rev. THOS.). UNIVERSALISM ASSERTED AS THE HOPE OF THE GOSPEL ON THE AUTHORITY OF REASON, THE FATHERS, AND HOLY SCRIPTURE. With a Preface by Edna Lyall, and a Letter from Canon Wilberforce. 8vo, cloth. Sewed, 1s. 6d net., cloth, 2s. 6d. net.

ALVIELLA (Count GOBLET D'). THE CONTEMPORARY EVOLUTION OF RELIGIOUS THOUGHT IN ENGLAND, AMERICA, AND INDIA. Translated from the French by the Rev J. Moden 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d.

— EVOLUTION OF THE IDEA OF GOD. See The Hibbert Lectures, p 12

ANNOTATED CATECHISM. A Manual of Natural Religion and Morality, with many practical details 2nd Edition Crown 8vo, cloth. 1s

BARNABAS' EPISTLE. In Greek, from the Sinaitic Manuscript of the Bible, with a Translation by S. Sharpe. Crown 8vo, cloth 2s. 6d.

BAUR (F. C.). CHURCH HISTORY OF THE FIRST THREE CENTURIES. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p 8.

— PAUL, THE APOSTLE OF JESUS CHRIST. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8

BEARD (Rev. Dr C.). THE UNIVERSAL CHRIST, AND OTHER SERMONS. Crown 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

— LECTURES ON THE REFORMATION OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY IN ITS RELATION TO MODERN THOUGHT AND KNOWLEDGE. See The Hibbert Lectures, p. 12.

BEEBY (Rev. C. E., B.D., Author of "Creed and Life"). DOCTRINE AND PRINCIPLES. Popular Lectures on Primary Questions. Demy 8vo, cloth. 4s. 6d.

BIBLE. Translated by Samuel Sharpe, being a Revision of the Authorised English Version. 6th Edition of the Old, 10th Edition of the New Testament. 8vo, roan. 5s See also Testament.

BLEEK (F.). LECTURES ON THE APOCALYPSE. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

BROADBENT (The late Rev. T. P., B.A.). THIRTEEN SERMONS, AN ESSAY, AND A FRAGMENT. With a Prefatory Note by Rev. Prof. J. Estlin Carpenter, M.A. Crown 8vo, cloth 4s net.

CAMPBELL (Rev. Canon COLIN). FIRST THREE GOSPELS IN GREEK. See Testament, New, p. 26

CHANNING'S COMPLETE WORKS. Including "The Perfect Life," with a Memoir. Centennial Edition. 4to Edition Cloth 7s 6d.

CHRISTIAN CREED (OUR). 2nd and greatly Revised Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth 3s. 6d.

CLARK (ARCHD. JAS.). DE SUCCESSIONE APOSTOLICA NEC NON MISSIONE ET JURISDICTIONE HIERARCHIÆ ANGLICANÆ ET CATHOLICÆ 8vo (Georgetown, Guiana) Cloth. 21s

— SEVEN AGES OF THE CHURGH ; or, Exposition of the Apocalypse. Sewed. 1s.

COMMON PRAYER FOR CHRISTIAN WORSHIP : in Ten Services for Morning and Evening. 32mo, cloth. 1s 6d
Also in 8vo, cloth. 3s

CONWAY (MONCURE D.). CENTENARY HISTORY OF THE SOUTH PLACE ETHICAL SOCIETY. With numerous Portraits, a facsimile of the original MS of the hymn, "Nearer, my God, to Thee," and Appendices Crown 8vo, half vellum, paper sides. 5s.

CRITICAL REVIEW OF THEOLOGICAL AND PHILOSOPHICAL LITERATURE. Edited by Principal S. D. F. Salmond, F.E.I.S. Published bi-monthly. 1s. 6d net ; 8s 6d. per annum, post free.

DAVIDS (T. W. RHYS). LECTURES ON SOME POINTS IN THE HISTORY OF INDIAN BUDDHISM. See The Hibbert Lectures, p. 12.

DELITZSCH (F.). BABEL AND BIBLE. Two Lectures delivered before the Deutsche Orient-Gesellschaft in the presence of the German Emperor. See Crown Theological Library, p. 10.
See also Harnack, A., "Letter to Preuss. Jahrbücher," p. 18.

DOBSCHÜTZ (E. VON). CHRISTIAN LIFE IN THE APOSTOLIC AGE. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 4.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

DRIVER (S. R.). See Mosheh ben Shesheth, p 22.

DRUMMOND (JAMES, M.A., LL.D., Hon. Litt.D., Principal of Manchester College, Oxford) AN INQUIRY INTO THE CHARACTER AND AUTHORSHIP OF THE FOURTH GOSPEL. Demy 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d.

"This is a valuable book, the work of a liberal theologian of distinction and great influence"—Rev R J CAMPBELL, in Christian Commonwealth

"The book is not only learned, but also reverent and spiritual in tone, and ought to find its way into the libraries of students of all shades of belief, as a very notable attempt to solve one of the most important of New Testament problems"—Christian World

"Of the spirit in which Dr. Drummond approaches the study of this work of a master mind, of the completeness and arrangement of the material, and of the temper in which the argument is conducted, it is impossible to speak too highly"—Scotsman

— VIA, VERITAS, VITA. See The Hibbert Lectures, p 13.

— PHILO JUDÆUS. See p. 29.

ECHOES OF HOLY THOUGHTS: Arranged as Private Meditations before a First Communion. 2nd Edition, with a Preface by Rev J Hamilton Thom. Printed with red lines. Fcap. 8vo, cloth 1s.

EWALD (H.). COMMENTARY ON THE PROPHETS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8.

— COMMENTARY ON THE PSALMS. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8

— COMMENTARY ON THE BOOK OF JOB. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8.

FIGG (E. G.). ANALYSIS OF THEOLOGY, NATURAL AND REVEALED. Crown 8vo, cloth. 6s.

FOUR GOSPELS (THE) AS HISTORICAL RECORDS. 8vo, cloth. 15s.

GILL (C.). THE EVOLUTION OF CHRISTIANITY. By Charles Gill. 2nd Edition. With Dissertations in answer to Criticism. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

— THE BOOK OF ENOCH THE PROPHET. Translated from an Ethiopic MS. in the Bodleian Library, by the late Richard Laurence, LL D., Archbishop of Cashel. The Text corrected from his latest Notes by Charles Gill Re-issue, 8vo, cloth. 5s.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

GOULD (Rev. S. BARING). LOST AND HOSTILE GOSPELS. An Account of the Toledoth Jeshu, two Hebrew Gospels circulating in the Middle Ages, and Extant Fragments of the Gospels of the first Three Centuries of Petrine and Pauline Origin. Crown 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

HARNACK (ADOLF). MONASTICISM: Its Ideals and History; and THE CONFESSIONS OF ST. AUGUSTINE. Two Lectures by Adolf Harnack. Translated into English by E. E. Kellett, M.A., and F. H. Marseille, Ph.D., M.A. Crown 8vo, cloth. 4s.

"The lectures impart to these old subjects a new and vivid interest which cannot but win this faithful version many admiring readers"—Scotsman

"One might read all the ponderous volumes of Montalembert without obtaining so clear a view or so rare a judgment of this immense subject as are offered in these luminous pages. The translation is excellent, and gives us Harnack in pure and vigorous English"—Christian World.

— LETTER to the "Preussische Jahrbucher" on the German Emperor's Criticism of Prof. Delitzsch's Lectures on "Babel and Bible." Translated into English by Thomas Bailey Saunders. 6d. net.

— HISTORY OF DOGMA. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 5

— WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY? See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 6. Also Crown Theological Library, p. 11. See Saunders (T. B.), "Professor Harnack and his Oxford Critics," p. 25.

— EXPANSION OF CHRISTIANITY IN THE FIRST THREE CENTURIES. See Theological Translation Library, p. 5.

HATCH (Rev. Dr.). LECTURES ON THE INFLUENCE OF GREEK IDEAS AND USAGES UPON THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH. See The Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.

HAUSRATH (Prof. A.). HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT TIMES. The Time of the Apostles. Translated by Leonard Huxley. With a Preface by Mrs Humphry Ward. 4 vols. 8vo, cloth. 42s. (Uniform with the Theological Translation Library, Old Series)

— NEW TESTAMENT TIMES. The Times of Jesus. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 8.

HEBREW TEXTS, in large type for Classes :

Genesis. 2nd Edition. 16mo, cloth. 1s. 6d.

Psalms. 16mo, cloth. 1s.

Isaiah. 16mo, cloth. 1s.

Job. 16mo, cloth. 1s.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

HENSLOW (Rev. G.). THE ARGUMENT OF ADAPTATION; or, Natural Theology reconsidered. 8vo, cloth. 1s.

— SPIRITUAL TEACHINGS OF BIBLE PLANTS; or, The Garden of God. 8vo, cloth. 1s

— THE AT-ONE-MENT; or, The Gospel of Reconciliation. 8vo, cloth. 1s

— CHRIST NO PRODUCT OF EVOLUTION. 8vo, cloth. 1s.

HERFORD (R. TRAVERS, B.A.). CHRISTIANITY IN TALMUD AND MIDRASH. Demy 8vo, cloth. 18s. net.

CONTENTS:—Introduction. Division I. Passages from the Rabbinical Literature A. Passages relating to Jesus. B. Passages relating to Minim, Minuth. Division II. General Results. Appendix containing the Original Texts of the Passages translated. Indices.

"His book (if he is right in his identification of the Minim) is a history of Judaising Christianity—the first independent and competent history written in English"—Expository Times

"It must become at once the standard authority on its subject."—Manchester Guardian

"It is no exaggeration to say that it will prove indispensable not only to scholars interested in Talmudic literature, but to all who study the subject of the evangelical tradition. It will introduce the reader into a new world—that of Jewish thought in the centuries after Christ"—Cambridge Review

HERRMANN (W.). THE COMMUNION OF THE CHRISTIAN WITH GOD. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 6

— FAITH AND MORALS. See Crown Theological Library, p. 12

HIBBERT JOURNAL: A Quarterly Review of Religion, Theology, and Philosophy. Edited by L. P. Jacks and G. Dawes Hicks. Vol. I. Royal 8vo, 856 pp. Vol. II. 864 pp. Cloth. Each 12s. 6d. net. Annual Subscription, 10s. post free.

HOERNING (Dr. R.). THE KARAITE MSS., BRITISH MUSEUM. The Karaite Exodus (1 to viii. 5) in Forty-two Autotype Facsimiles, with a Transcription in ordinary Arabic type. Together with Descriptions and Collation of that and five other MSS of portions of the Hebrew Bible in Arabic characters in the same Collection. Royal 4to, cloth, gilt top. 20s.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

HOPPS (Rev. J. PAGE). PILGRIM SONGS. With two Portraits. 3s

— SERMONS OF SYMPATHY. Crown 8vo, cloth. 2s 6d.

— TWENTY SERMONS FOR OUR DAY. 8vo, cloth 2s.

— THE BIBLE FOR BEGINNERS. Vol I The Old Testament. Crown 8vo, cloth 2s.

— BIBLE READINGS FOR PUBLIC WORSHIP AND THE HOME (106). 1s 6d.

— DEATH A DELUSION: with an Account of some Personal Experiences on the Border-land between Sense and Soul. Crown 8vo, cloth. 1s. net.

— PERSONAL PRAYERS. Twenty in number. Bound in grey and gold. 1s.

— THE LIFE OF JESUS. Re-written for Young Disciples. 5th Edition. Richly bound as a gift-book. 1s.

— SPIRIT-LIFE IN GOD THE SPIRIT: A Meditation on God and Immortality. 1s.

— FIRST PRINCIPLES OF RELIGION AND MORALITY. Twenty Lectures, mainly for the Young. 1s.

— SERMONS OF LIFE AND LOVE. Oblong 8vo, cloth gilt. 2s. net

HORTON (J.). MY SEARCH FOR TRUTH, AND WHAT I FOUND. Crown 8vo, cloth 2s 6d.

JOHNSON (EDWIN, M.A.). THE RISE OF CHRISTENDOM. Demy 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

— ANTIQUA MATER: A Study of Christian Origins. Crown 8vo, cloth. 2s. 6d.

— THE RISE OF ENGLISH CULTURE. Demy 8vo, cloth. 15s. net.

JONES (Rev. R. CROMPTON). HYMNS OF DUTY AND FAITH. Selected and Arranged. 247 pp. Fcap. 8vo, cloth. 2nd Edition. 3s 6d.

— CHANTS, PSALMS, AND CANTICLES. Selected and Pointed for Chanting. 18mo, cloth 1s 6d.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

JONES (Rev. R. CROMPTON) ANTHEMS. With Indexes and References to the Music 18mo, cloth 1s 3d

— THE CHANTS AND ANTHEMS. Together in 1 vol, cloth. 2s.

— A BOOK OF PRAYER. In Thirty Orders of Worship, with Additional Prayers and Thanksgivings. 18mo, cloth. 2s 6d
With Chants, in 1 vol 18mo, cloth. 3s.

KAUTZSCH (E.). AN OUTLINE OF THE HISTORY OF THE LITERATURE OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. With Chronological Tables for the History of the Israelites, and other Aids to the Explanation of the Old Testament. Reprinted from the "Supplement to the Translation of the Old Testament." By E Kautzsch, Professor of Theology at the University of Halle Edited by the Author. Translated by John Taylor, D Lit, M A., etc Demy 8vo, cloth 6s 6d.

"This English translation is likely to prove very acceptable to all those students who desire to see for themselves the view taken by the 'higher critics' of the growth of the Old Testament"—The Guardian

"Dr Taylor has rendered a great service to the English readers by his excellent translation of this important work"—British Weekly

"As to matter, it is the work of a scholar who is not afraid of results suggested by fair research, but who never grasps at novelties merely for the sake of originality In style and language, the book reads more like an original than a translation, an original, too, which in its terseness of expression has escaped the prolix obscurity so commonly complained of in the writings of the author's country"—Church Gazette

"A brief yet comprehensive statement of critical opinion respecting the order and origin of the Old Testament books"—Methodist Times

KEIM'S HISTORY OF JESUS OF NAZARA See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p 8.

KENNEDY (Rev. JAS.). BIBLICAL HEBREW. See p 35.

KIRK (R. S.). SIDE-LIGHTS ON GREAT PROBLEMS OF HUMAN INTEREST. Crown 8vo, cloth. 1s.

KITTEL (R.). HISTORY OF THE HEBREWS. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p 6.

KUENEN (Dr. A) LECTURES ON NATIONAL AND UNIVERSAL RELIGIONS. See The Hibbert Lectures, p 13.

— THE RELIGION OF ISRAEL TO THE FALL OF THE JEWISH STATE. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

LOBSTEIN (P.). THE DOGMA OF THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF CHRIST. See Crown Theological Library, p. 10

MACAN (R. W.). THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST. An Essay in Three Chapters 8vo, cloth. 5s.

MACKAY (R. W.). SKETCH OF THE RISE AND PROGRESS OF CHRISTIANITY. 8vo, cloth 6s.

MALAN (Rev. Dr. S. C.). ORIGINAL NOTES ON THE BOOK OF PROVERBS. According to the Authorised Version Vol I., Chaps. 1. to x. 8vo, cloth 12s. Vol II., Chaps. xi. to xx. 8vo, cloth. 12s. Vol III., Chaps. xxi. to xxxi. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

— See also p. 36.

MARCHANT (JAMES). THEORIES OF THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST. Crown 8vo, stiff covers, 2s. net, superior cloth binding, 3s

MARTINEAU (Rev. Dr. JAMES). THE RELATION BETWEEN ETHICS AND RELIGION. An Address 8vo, sewed. 1s.

— MODERN MATERIALISM: ITS ATTITUDE TOWARDS THEOLOGY. A Critique and Defence 8vo, sewed 2s. 6d

MARTINEAU (Prof. RUSSELL). THE ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY IN MOSAISM. 8vo, sewed. 1s.

MARTYN (Rev. H. J.). FOR CHRIST AND THE TRUTH. 8vo, cloth. 5s. Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d

MONTEFIORE (C. G.). ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF RELIGION AS ILLUSTRATED BY THE RELIGION OF THE ANCIENT HEBREWS. See The Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.

MOSHEH BEN SHESHETH'S COMMENTARY ON JEREMIAH AND EZEKIEL. Edited from a Bodleian MS., with a Translation and Notes, by S. R. Driver. 8vo, sewed 3s

NESTLE (E.). INTRODUCTION TO THE TEXTUAL CRITICISM OF THE GREEK NEW TESTAMENT. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 7.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

- PERRIN (R. S.). RELIGION OF PHILOSOPHY (THE);
or, The Unification of Knowledge: A Comparison of the Chief Philosophical and Religious Systems of the World.
8vo, cloth. 16s.
- PERSONAL AND FAMILY PRAYERS. 8vo, buckram.
1s net.
- PETERS (JOHN P.). EARLY HEBREW STORY A Study of the Origin, the Value, and the Historical Background of the Legends of Israel. See Crown Theological Library,
p. 12
- PFLEIDERER (Dr. O.). LECTURES ON THE IN-FLUENCE OF THE APOSTLE PAUL ON THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHRISTIANITY. See The Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.
- PAULINISM: A Contribution to the History of Primitive Christianity. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series,
p. 9.
- PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION ON THE BASIS OF ITS HISTORY. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9.
- PLAIN COMMENTARY ON THE FIRST GOSPEL By an Agnostic 8vo, cloth. 14s.
- POOLE (REG. LANE) ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE HISTORY OF MEDIÆVAL THOUGHT IN THE DEPARTMENTS OF THEOLOGY AND ECCLESIA-STICAL POLITICS. 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d.
- PRINCE (J. DYNELEY, Ph.D., Professor of Semitic Languages in the New York University) A CRITICAL COMMENTARY ON THE BOOK OF DANIEL.
Designed especially for Students of the English Bible. Demy 8vo, cloth. 9s. net.
- PROTESTANT COMMENTARY ON THE NEW TES-TAMENT. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series,
p. 9.
- RENAN (E.). ON THE INFLUENCE OF THE INSTI-TUTIONS, THOUGHT, AND CULTURE OF ROME
ON CHRISTIANITY AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. See Hibbert Lectures,
p. 13.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

RENOUF (P. LE PAGE). ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT EGYPT. See Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.

RÉVILLE (A.). THE SONG OF SONGS, Commonly called the Song of Solomon, or the Canticle. Translated from the French Crown 8vo, cloth. 1s. 6d.

— ON NATIVE RELIGIONS OF MEXICO AND PERU. See Hibbert Lectures, p. 13

— PROLEGOMENA OF THE HISTORY OF RELIGIONS. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9.

RÉVILLE (JEAN). LIBERAL CHRISTIANITY. See Crown Theological Library p. 11.

— See also Sabatier's "Religions of Authority and Religion of the Spirit," p. 4

RHYS (J.). ON THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF RELIGION AS ILLUSTRATED BY CELTIC HEATHENDOM. See Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.

RIX (HERBERT). A DAWNING FAITH; or, The World as a Spiritual Organism. Crown 8vo, cloth. 5s.

ROBINSON (ALEX., M.A., B.D.). A STUDY OF THE SAVIOUR IN THE NEWER LIGHT. 2nd Edition. Revised and partly re-written. Demy 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

— OLD AND NEW CERTAINTY OF THE GOSPEL: A Sketch. Crown 8vo, cloth. 2s. 6d.

SABATIER (AUGUSTE). THE RELIGIONS OF AUTHORITY AND THE RELIGION OF THE SPIRIT. With a Memoir by Professor J Réville See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 4

SADLER (Rev Dr.) PRAYERS FOR CHRISTIAN WORSHIP. Crown 8vo, cloth. 3s. 6d.

CLOSET PRAYERS, Original and Compiled. 18mo, cloth. 1s. 6d.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

SAUNDERS (T. BAILEY) PROFESSOR HARNACK AND HIS OXFORD CRITICS. Crown 8vo, cloth 1s 6d net.

"It gives thoughtful and acutely reasoned support to the great historical student of Christianity who represents Berlin in theology against the pig-tailed opposition which Oxford has offered to his learning. A spirited piece of controversial writing, it cannot but prove stimulating to readers interested in modern divinity, no matter to which side of the debate their private prepossessions incline them"—Scotsman

"Mr Saunders writes with sobriety and with a knowledge of the points at issue. Readers of 'Harnack and his Critics' will do well to read his comments"—Sheffield Daily Telegraph

SAVAGE (M. J). BELIEFS ABOUT THE BIBLE. 8vo, cloth 7s. 6d

SAYCE (A. H.) ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT ASSYRIA AND BABYLONIA See Hibbert Lectures, p 13.

SCHRADER (E). CUNEIFORM INSCRIPTIONS AND THE OLD TESTAMENT. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9.

SEVERUS (Patriarch of Antioch). THE SIXTH BOOK OF THE SELECTED LETTERS OF SEVERUS, PATRIARCH OF ANTIOCH, in the Syriac Version of Athanasius of Nisibis Edited and translated by E. W. Brooks. Vol I. (Text), Part 1, and Vol. II. (Translation), Part 1. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth 42s net. Vol. I (Text), Part 2, and Vol II. (Translation), Part 2 2 vols 8vo, cloth. 42s. net. See Text and Translation Society, p. 38

SHARPE (SAMUEL). HISTORY OF THE HEBREW NATION AND ITS LITERATURE. With an Appendix on the Hebrew Chronology. 5th Edition Crown 8vo, cloth. 4s. 6d

— CRITICAL NOTES ON THE AUTHORISED ENGLISH VERSION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. 2nd Edition 12mo, cloth. 1s. 6d

— SHORT NOTES TO ACCOMPANY A REVISED TRANSLATION OF THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES. 12mo, cloth 1s. 6d.

SMITH (H. W., Compiled by). MODERN THOUGHTS ON RELIGION AND CULTURE A Collection of the Recorded Beliefs and Aspirations of Leaders of Thought in the Nineteenth Century, especially Illustrating the Transforming Influence of Science on Religion and Morals 340 pages. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt. 6s See also p. 30

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

SMITH (MARTIN R.). WHAT I HAVE TAUGHT MY CHILDREN. 2nd Edition, Revised Crown 8vo, cloth. 3s 6d.

THE STATUTES OF THE APOSTLES. The hitherto unedited Ethiopic and Arabic Texts Edited, with an Introduction and Translations of the Ethiopic, Arabic, and Coptic Texts, by Rev. G. Horner, M.A. With an Appendix—a recently discovered variant of the Coptic Text.

TAYLER (Rev JOHN JAMES). AN ATTEMPT TO ASCERTAIN THE CHARACTER OF THE FOURTH GOSPEL, especially in its Relation to the First Three. 2nd Edition. 8vo, cloth. 5s.

TAYLOR (Rev. C.). THE DIRGE OF COHELETH IN ECCLES. XII. DISCUSSED AND LITERALLY INTERPRETED. 8vo, cloth. 3s

TAYLOR (Rev Dr J.). THE MASSORETIC TEXT AND THE ANCIENT VERSIONS ON THE BOOK OF MICAH. Crown 8vo, cloth. 5s.

— See also Kautzsch, "Outline," p. 21.

TEN SERVICES OF PUBLIC PRAYER, with Special Collects. 8vo, cloth, 3s., or 32mo, cloth, 1s 6d — PSALMS AND CANTICLES. 8vo, cloth. 1s. 6d.

— PSALMS AND CANTICLES, with Anthems. 8vo, cloth 2s.

TEN SERVICES OF PUBLIC PRAYER, taken in Substance from the Common Prayer for Christian Worship, with a few additional Prayers for particular Days. 8vo, cloth, 2s. 6d.; or 32mo, cloth, 1s.

TESTAMENT, THE NEW. TISCHENDORF (C.). NOVUM TESTAMENTUM GRÆCE. 3 vols 8vo. 70s. net.

— CAMPBELL (Rev. Canon COLIN, M.A., D D). THE FIRST THREE GOSPELS IN GREEK. Arranged in parallel columns. 2nd Edition, Revised. Crown 8vo, cloth. 5s. net.

UPTON (C. B.). ON THE BASES OF RELIGIOUS BELIEF. See Hibbert Lectures, p. 13.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued.

- VICKERS (J.). THE REAL JESUS: a Review of his Life, Character, and Death, from a Jewish Standpoint. Crown 8vo 6s.
- THE CRUCIFIXION MYSTERY. Crown 8vo, cloth. 3s 6d
- VIZARD (P. E.). PRAYERS, NEW AND OLD. New Edition Printed at the Chiswick Press. Crown 8vo, buckram. 1s. net.
- VOYSEY (Rev. C.). THE TESTIMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS CONCERNING JESUS CHRIST. Crown 8vo, cloth 3s. 6d.
- THE SLING AND THE STONE. Vol. VII. On Prophecy. 8vo, cloth 5s. Vol. VIII On the Lord's Prayer. 8vo, cloth 3s. 6d. Vol. IX The Fatherhood of God Sermon on the Mount, etc. 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d. Vol. X. Revelation tested on Moral Grounds, etc. 8vo, cloth. 10s 6d.
- THEISM : or, The Religion of Common Sense. 8vo, cloth. 2s. 6d.
- THEISM AS A SCIENCE OF NATURAL THEOLOGY AND NATURAL RELIGION. 8vo, cloth. 2s. 6d.
- FAMILY PRAYERS. 8vo, cloth. 1s.
- THEISTIC PRAYER BOOK. 3rd Edition. 12mo, cloth. 3s. 6d.
- WEIR (T. H., B.D.). A SHORT HISTORY OF THE HEBREW TEXT OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. By Thomas H Weir, Assistant to the Professor of Oriental Languages in the University of Glasgow. Crown 8vo, sewed, 5s ; cloth, 6s.
- WEIZSÄCKER (C. von) THE APOSTOLIC AGE 2 vols. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 7.
- WERNLE (Paul). THE BEGINNINGS OF CHRISTIANITY. 2 vols. 8vo. See Theological Translation Library, New Series, p. 3.

ALPHABETICAL LIST—Continued

WICKSTEED (Rev. P. H.). THE ECCLESIASTICAL INSTITUTIONS OF HOLLAND, treated with Special Reference to the Position and Prospects of the Modern School of Theology. A Report presented to the Hibbert Trustees, and published by their direction. 8vo, sewed. 1s

WIMMER (R.). MY STRUGGLE FOR LIGHT, CONFESSIONS OF A PREACHER. See Crown Theological Library, p. 11.

WRIGHT (Rev. C. H. H.). BOOK OF GENESIS IN HEBREW TEXT. With a critically revised Text, various Readings, and Grammatical and Critical Notes. Demy 8vo. 3s. 6d.

— BOOK OF RUTH IN HEBREW TEXT. With a critically revised Text, various Readings, including a new Collation of Twenty-eight Hebrew MSS., and a Grammatical and Critical Commentary; to which is appended the Chaldee Targum. Demy 8vo. 7s. 6d.

WRIGHT (G. H. BATESON). THE BOOK OF JOB. A new critically revised Translation, with Essays on Scansion, Date, etc. 8vo, cloth. 6s — WAS ISRAEL EVER IN EGYPT? or, a Lost Tradition. By G. H. Bateson Wright, D D., Queen's College, Oxford; Headmaster Queen's College, Hong-Kong; Author of "A Critical Revised Translation of the Book of Job" 8vo, art linen. 7s 6d

ZELLER (E.). CONTENTS AND ORIGIN OF THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9

II. Philosophy, Psychology.

BACON (ROGER), THE "OPUS MAJUS" OF. Edited, with Introduction and Analytical Table, by John Henry Bridges, Fellow of Royal College of Physicians, sometime Fellow of Oriel College. Complete in 3 vols, 31s 6d.; Vol III. sold separately, 7s. 6d.

BREWSTER (H. B.). THE THEORIES OF ANARCHY AND OF LAW. A Midnight Debate. Crown 8vo, parchment. 5s

— THE PRISON. A Dialogue. Crown 8vo, parchment 5s.

— THE STATUETTE AND THE BACKGROUND. Crown 8vo, parchment. 4s

COLLINS (F. H.). AN EPITOME OF THE SYNTHETIC PHILOSOPHY. By F. Howard Collins. With a Preface by Herbert Spencer 4th Edition. The Synthetic Philosophy Completed. 8vo, cloth. 21s

DENNYS (EDWARD N.). THE ALPHA, or, The First Mental Principle and Truth-Guide to General Well-Being and Progress: A Revelation but no Mystery. 6th Edition With a Portrait of the Author. Crown 8vo, cloth. 3s 6d.

DRUMMOND (Dr.). PHILO JUDÆUS; or, The Jewish Alexandrian Philosophy in its Development and Completion. By James Drummond, LL.D, Principal of Manchester New College, Oxford. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth 21s.

HALL (LEONARD, M.A.). MAN, THE MICROCOSM. Part I The Nature of Man Stiff wrapper. 2s. 6d.

— THE EVOLUTION OF CONSCIOUSNESS. Demy 8vo, cloth 3s net

HODGSON (S. H.). PHILOSOPHY AND EXPERIENCE. An Address delivered before the Aristotelian Society. 8vo, sewed. 2s.

— THE REORGANISATION OF PHILOSOPHY. Address. 8vo, sewed. 1s.

LAURIE (Professor SIMON). ETHICA: or, The Ethics of Reason. By Scotus Novanticus 2nd Edition. 8vo, cloth. 6s

— METAPHYSICA NOVA ET VETUSTA: A Return to Dualism. 2nd Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth 6s.

MACKENZIE (MALCOLM). SOCIAL AND POLITICAL DYNAMICS. An Exposition of the Function of Money as the measure of Contract, Trade, and Government, viewed from the Principles of Natural Philosophy and Jurisprudence, in refutation of Economic Dogmas. Demy 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d

MIND: A Quarterly Review of Psychology and Philosophy. Nos 1-64. 1876-90. 8vo, each 3s. Vols III-XVI in cloth, each 13s. New Series, Nos. 1-32, each 3s.; 33 and after, 4s. Vols. I-VIII., each 13s. Vols. IX-XII, each 17s. Annual Subscription, post free, 12s.

PIKLER (JUL.). THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE BELIEF IN OBJECTIVE EXISTENCE. Part I 8vo, cloth. 4s. 6d.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE ARISTOTELIAN SOCIETY FOR THE SYSTEMATIC STUDY OF PHILOSOPHY. Proceedings. Vol. I., 4 Nos., 1890-91 8vo, 12s. Discontinued after Vol. III. Part 2. Or each Part separately. Vol. I. No. 1, 2s. 6d.; No 2, 2s. 6d.; No 3, Part 1, 1s. 6d.; Part 2, 2s.; No. 4, Part 1, 1s. 6d.; Part 2, 2s. Vol. II. No. 1, Part 1, 1s. 6d.; Part 2, 2s.; No 2, Part 1, 1s. 6d.; Part 2, 2s.; No. 3, Part 1, 2s.; Part 2, 2s. Vol. III. Part 1, 2s. 6d.; Part 2, 2s. NEW SERIES, Vols. I.-III. Demy 8vo, bound in buckram, each 10s. 6d. net.

ROBERTSON (G. C.). PHILOSOPHICAL REMAINS OF GEORGE CROOM ROBERTSON, Grote Professor of Mind and Logic, University College, London. With a Memoir. Edited by Alexander Bain, LL.D., Emeritus Professor of Logic, Aberdeen, and T. Whittaker, B.A. (Oxon.) With Portrait Med 8vo, cloth. 9s. net.

SCHURMAN (J. GOULD). KANTIAN ETHICS AND THE ETHICS OF EVOLUTION. 8vo, cloth 5s

— THE ETHICAL IMPORT OF DARWINISM. Crown 8vo, cloth. 5s.

SCRIPTURE (EDWARD W., Ph.D.). STUDIES FROM THE YALE PSYCHOLOGICAL LABORATORY. Vols. I.-VI., each 4s. 2d. net

SMITH (H. W.). MODERN THOUGHTS ON LIFE AND CONDUCT. A Collection of above 400 Extracts, designed to bring into prominence the permanent elements which go to make and improve our social life. Selected and compiled by H. W. Smith. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt. 6s. An Edition, extra gilt, printed on antique paper 7s. 6d.

SMITH (H. W.). THE GARDEN OF LIFE. Flowers of Thought on Culture, Conduct, and Character for every day in the year, gathered and arranged by H. W. Smith. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt. 5s. net.

SPENCER (HERBERT). AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY. 2 vols. demy 8vo. With Portraits. Green buckram, gilt top. 28s. net.

"It is not too much to say that we close this book, the most interesting, and certainly one of the most important we have ever opened, feeling better, wiser, and humbler for having thus hastily read it"—Academy

"It is a book for all men and for all time. In its pages the thinker may trace, step by step, the synthesis of synthetic philosophy. Here the poet will find not only a worthy inspiration, but a possibly surprising vein of sympathy. The statesman, the inventor, the litterateur, the man of theory, and the man of practice will find alike, within the covers of these two massive volumes, an almost inexhaustible treasury of interest and constructive thought. There is suggestion and instruction for all the world, and an almost indefinable fascination—whether it be due to the mere intrinsic beauty of the picture itself, or to the dignity of its execution, or to the sense of its almost laborious faithfulness, or to the combined attraction of all three"—St. James's Gazette

— A SYSTEM OF SYNTHETIC PHILOSOPHY—

Vol. I. First Principles. With an Appendix and a Portrait. Finally revised. New Edition, large crown 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

Vols. II and III. The Principles of Biology. 6th Thousand. 8vo, cloth. Revised and greatly enlarged. Vols. I. and II. 18s. each

Vols. IV. and V. The Principles of Psychology. 5th Thousand. 2 vols. 8vo, cloth. 36s.

Vol. VI. The Principles of Sociology. Vol. I. Part 1, The Data of Sociology; Part 2, The Inductions of Sociology; Part 3, Domestic Institutions. 4th Thousand, revised and enlarged. 8vo, cloth. 21s

Vol. VII. The Principles of Sociology. Vol. II. Part 4, Ceremonial Institutions; Part 5, Political Institutions. 3rd Thousand. 8vo, cloth. 18s.

Vol. VIII. The Principles of Sociology. Vol. III. Part 6, Ecclesiastical Institutions; Part 7, Professional Institutions; Part 8, Industrial Institutions. 2nd Thousand. 8vo, cloth. 16s

Vol. IX. The Principles of Ethics. Vol. I. Part 1, The Data of Ethics; Part 2, The Inductions of Ethics; Part 3, The Ethics of Individual Life. 2nd Thousand. 8vo, cloth. 15s.

Vol. X. The Principles of Ethics. Vol. II. Part 4, Justice; Part 5, Negative Beneficence; Part 6, Positive Beneficence, Appendices. Demy 8vo, cloth. 12s. 6d.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

Also to be had separately

SPENCER (HERBERT). JUSTICE. Being Part 4 of the Principles of Ethics. 2nd Thousand 8vo, cloth. 6s.

Other Works

- THE STUDY OF SOCIOLOGY. Library Edition (21st Thousand), with a Postscript. 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d.
- EDUCATION: Intellectual, Moral, and Physical. 7th Thousand. 8vo, cloth. 6s. The same, cheaper Edition. 41st Thousand 12mo, cloth. 2s. 6d.
- ESSAYS: Scientific, Political, and Speculative. A new Edition, rearranged, with additional Essays. 3 vols 8vo, cloth. (Each 10s.) 30s.
- SOCIAL STATICS. Abridged and revised, together with "The Man v. The State." 8vo, cloth. 10s
- VARIOUS FRAGMENTS. Uniform in Library binding. Demy 8vo, cloth. Enlarged Edition. 6s
- FACTS AND COMMENTS. Demy 8vo, cloth. 6s.
- THE MAN versus THE STATE. 14th Thousand. Sewed. 1s
- A REJOINDER TO PROFESSOR WEISMANN. Sewed. 6d
- REASONS FOR DISSENTING FROM THE PHILOSOPHY OF M. COMTE. Sewed 6d
- THE INADEQUACY OF NATURAL SELECTION. Sewed. 6d.
- DESCRIPTIVE SOCIOLOGY; or, Groups of Sociological Facts. Compiled and abstracted by Professor D Duncan of Madras, Dr. Richard Scheppig, and James Collier. Folio, boards.
  - No 1 English. 18s.
  - No. 2. Ancient American Races. 16s.
  - No 3. Lowest Races, Negritto Races, Polynesians. 18s.
  - No 4. African Races. 16s
  - No. 5. Asiatic Races. 18s.
  - No. 6. American Races. 18s.
  - No. 7 Hebrews and Phœnicians. 21s
  - No. 8 The French Civilisation. 30s.

New volumes in preparation.

SPENCER (HERBERT). COLLINS (F. H.). AN EPITOME OF THE SYNTHETIC PHILOSOPHY. By F Howard Collins. Being a Digest of Mr Herbert Spencer's Works. 4th Edition, the Synthetic Philosophy Completed. With a Preface by Herbert Spencer 8vo, cloth. 21s.

— DREY (S.). HERBERT SPENCER'S THEORY OF RELIGION AND MORALITY. By Sylvan Drey. 8vo, sewed. 1s.

— A THEORY OF LIFE DEDUCED FROM THE EVOLUTION PHILOSOPHY. Demy 8vo, sewed 1s.

— THOMPSON (D. G.). HERBERT SPENCER: His Life, Writings, and Philosophy. By Daniel Greenleaf Thompson, Author of "A System of Psychology," "The Problem of Evil," "The Religious Sentiments of the Human Mind," etc. 1s.

SPINOZA: Four Essays. By Professors Land, Van Vloten, and Kuno Fischer, and by E. Renan Edited by Professor Knight, of St Andrews Crown 8vo, cloth 5s.

STUDIES FROM THE YALE PSYCHOLOGICAL LABORATORY. Edited by Professor E. W. Scripture With many Illustrations. 8vo, sewed. 4s. 2d. each net. Vol. I. 1892-93, 100 pages. Vol II 1894, 124 pages Vol III. 1895, 110 pages Vol IV 1896, 141 pages. Vol. V. 1897, 105 pages Vol. VI. 1898, 105 pages.

WUNDT (WILHELM) OUTLINES OF PSYCHOLOGY. Translated, with the co-operation of the Author, by Charles Hubbard Judd, Ph D., Instructor in the Wesleyan University. 2nd Enlarged Edition Demy 8vo, cloth. 8s. net.

III. Oriental Languages, Literature, and History.

ABHIDHANARATNAMALA (THE) OF HALÂYUDHA.

A Sanskrit Vocabulary (120 pp.) Edited, with a Sanskrit-English Glossary (180 pp.), by Dr. T. Aufrecht. 8vo, cloth. (Published at 18s) 10s

BERNSTEIN and KIRSCH. SYRIAC CHRESTOMATHY AND LEXICON (Chrestomathia Syriaca cum Lexico).

2 vols in 1. 8vo, cloth boards. 7s 6d. I Chrestomathia, separately Sewed 3s

BRÜNNOW CHRESTOMATHY OF ARABIC PROSE PIECES.

Compiled for use with Socin's Grammar. Crown 8vo, cloth 8s 6d

DAVIDS (T. W. RHYS). LECTURES ON SOME POINTS IN THE HISTORY OF INDIAN BUDDHISM. See

The Hibbert Lectures, p. 12.

DELITZSCH (Prof. F.). ASSYRIAN GRAMMAR. With

Paradigms, Exercises, Glossary, and Bibliography Translated by the Rev Prof. A. R. S. Kennedy Crown 8vo, cloth. 15s

— THE HEBREW LANGUAGE VIEWED IN THE LIGHT OF ASSYRIAN RESEARCH. Demy 8vo, cloth. 4s.

— BABEL AND BIBLE. See Crown Theological Library, p. 10

DIETTRICH (GUSTAV). DIE MASSORAH DER ÖSTLICHEN UND WESTLICHEN SYRER IN IHREN ANGABEN ZUM PROPHETEN JESAIA nach fünf Handschriften des British Museum in Verbindung mit zwei Tractaten über Accente. Sewed. 8s. 6d. net.

DĪPAVAMSA (THE): A Buddhist Historical Record in the Pali Language. Edited, with an English Translation, by Dr. H. Oldenberg 8vo, cloth. 21s.

The "Dīpavamsa" is the most ancient historical work of the Ceylonese; it contains an account of the ecclesiastical history of the Buddhist Church, of the conversion of the Ceylonese to the Buddhist faith, and of the ancient history of Ceylon.

ERMAN'S EGYPTIAN GRAMMAR. Translated, under Professor Erman's supervision, by J. H. Breasted, Professor of Egyptology in the University of Chicago Crown 8vo, cloth. 18s.

EVANS (GEORGE). AN ESSAY ON ASSYRIOLOGY. With 4to Tables of Assyrian Inscriptions 8vo, cloth 5s

FAIZULLAH-BHAI (Shaikh, B.D.). A MOSLEM PRESENT. Part I, containing the famous poem of Al-Busae'e With an English Version and Notes. 8vo, cloth. 4s.

— AN ESSAY ON THE PRE-ISLAMITIC ARABIC POETRY, with special reference to the Seven Suspended Poems. 8vo, sewed 4d.

FLINDERS PETRIE PAPYRI. See Cunningham Memoirs, vols. 8 and 9, p 48

FRANKFURTER (Dr. O). HANDBOOK OF PALI: Being an Elementary Grammar, a Chrestomathy, and a Glossary. 8vo, cloth 16s.

FUERST (Dr. JUL.). HEBREW AND CHALDEE LEXICON TO THE OLD TESTAMENT. 5th Edition, improved and enlarged. Translated by Rev Dr Samuel Davidson Royal 8vo, cloth. 21s

HARDY (R. SPENCE). MANUAL OF BUDDHISM IN ITS MODERN DEVELOPMENT. Translated from Singhalese MSS 2nd Edition, with a complete Index and Glossary 8vo, cloth 21s.

HEBREW TEXTS. Large type. 16mo, cloth.

Genesis. (2nd Edition Baei and Delitzsch's Text.) 1s. 6d.

Psalms. 1s.

Job. 1s

Isaiah. 1s

INGLIS (Rev. JOHN). ANEITYUMESE AND ENGLISH DICTIONARY. In 2 parts. Also Outlines of Grammar. Crown 8vo, cloth. 6s.

KENNEDY (Rev. JAS.). INTRODUCTION TO BIBLICAL HEBREW, presenting Graduated Instruction in the Language of the Old Testament. By James Kennedy, B D, Acting Librarian in the New College, and one of the additional Examiners in Divinity at the University, Edinburgh. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

— STUDIES IN HEBREW SYNONYMS. Demy 8vo, cloth. 5s

KORAN. THE QORAN : with the Commentary of the Iman Aboo Al-Qasin Mahmood Bin O'mar Al-Zamakhshari, entitled "The Kashshaf 'an Haqaiq al-Tanzil." Edited by W. Nassau Lees and Khadim Hosain and Abd al-Hay. Complete in 6 parts or 2 vols Royal 4to, sewed Calcutta £3 net.

LYALL (C. J., M.A., K.C.I.E.). ANCIENT ARABIAN POETRY, CHIEFLY PRÆ-ISLAMIC. Translations, with an Introduction and Notes. Fcap. 4to, cloth. 10s 6d

MACHBEROTH ITHIEL. By Yehuda ben Shelomoh Alcharizi Edited from the MS. in the Bodleian Library, by Thomas Chenery, M.A. 8vo, cloth 3s.

MALAN (Rev. Dr. S. C.). THE BOOK OF ADAM AND EVE, also called The Conflict of Adam and Eve with Satan. A Book of the early Eastern Church. Translated from the Ethiopic, with Notes from the Kufale, Talmud, Midrashim, and other Eastern Works. 8vo, cloth 7s 6d.

— NOTES ON THE BOOK OF PROVERBS. See p. 22.

MILANDA PANHO, THE : Being Dialogues between King Milanda and the Buddhist Sage Nāgasena. The Pali Text, edited by V Trenckner. 440 pp 8vo, sewed. 21s See also "Pali Miscellany."

MOSHEH BEN SHESHETH'S COMMENTARY ON JEREMIAH AND EZEKIEL See p. 22.

MUSS-ARNOLT (W.). A CONCISE DICTIONARY OF THE ASSYRIAN LANGUAGE (Assyrian—English—German). By W Muss-Arnolt. To be completed in about 15 parts. Parts I. to XIV., each 5s. net.

NOELDEKE (THEODOR, Professor of Semitic Languages in the University of Strassburg). SYRIAC GRAMMAR. Translated from the German by Rev. James A. Crichton, D.D. 18s. net

— DELECTUS VETERUM CARMINUM ARABICORUM GLOSSARIUM CONFECIT A. MULLER. Crown 8vo, cloth. 7s 6d

NORRIS (E.). ASSYRIAN DICTIONARY. Intended to further the Study of the Cuneiform Inscriptions of Assyria and Babylonia Vols. I. to III. 4to, cloth. Each 28s.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

OLDENBERG (Prof. H.). BUDDHA: His Life, his Doctrine, his Order By Dr Hermann Oldenberg, Professor at the University of Berlin. Translated by W. Hoey, M.A. 8vo, cloth gilt 18s.

PALI MISCELLANY. By V Tienckner. Part I. The Introductory Part of the Milanda Panho, with an English Translation and Notes. 8vo, sewed 4s.

PLATTS (J. T.). A GRAMMAR OF THE PERSIAN LANGUAGE. By John T Platts, Hon M A (Oxon), Teacher of Persian in the University of Oxford, late Inspector of Schools in the Central Provinces of India. Part I Accidence Broad crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

RENOUF (P. LE PAGE). LECTURES ON THE RELIGION OF ANCIENT EGYPT. See Hibbert Lectures, p 13

SADI. THE GULISTAN (ROSE GARDEN) OF SHAIK SADI OF SHIRAZ. A new Edition of the Persian Text, with a Vocabulary, by F Johnson Square royal 8vo, cloth. 15s

SAYCE (Prof. A. H.). LECTURES ON THE RELIGIONS OF ANCIENT BABYLONIA AND SYRIA. See the Hibbert Lectures, p 13

SCHRADER (E.). THE CUNEIFORM INSCRIPTIONS AND THE OLD TESTAMENT. See Theological Translation Library, Old Series, p. 9.

SHARPE (SAMUEL). EGYPTIAN ANTIQUITIES IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM DESCRIBED. 8vo, cloth. 2s 6d.

SHIHĀB AL DIN. FUTŪH AL-HABASHAH; or, The Conquest of Abyssinia. By Shihāb al Dīn Ahmad B 'Abd al Kādir B. Sālim B 'Uthman. Edited, from an Arabic MS, by S. Arthur Strong Part I 8vo, sewed 3s net

SMITH (G.). THE PHONETIC VALUES OF THE CUNEIFORM CHARACTERS. Imperial 8vo, sewed 2s 6d.

SOCIN (Dr. A.). ARABIC GRAMMAR. Paradigms, Literature, Exercises, and Glossary 2nd Edition Translated from the 3rd German Edition by the Rev. Prof. A R S Kennedy, D.D. Crown 8vo, cloth 8s 6d

— KEY FOR TRANSLATING THE GERMAN EXERCISES IN ABOVE GRAMMAR. Sewed 1s. 6d.

SORENSEN (S., Ph.D.), Compiled by. AN INDEX TO THE NAMES IN THE MAHABHARATA. With short explanations Royal 4to, in twelve parts, which are not sold separately, at 7s. 6d per part net Part I. just ready.

STATUTES, THE, OF THE APOSTLES. The hitherto unedited Ethiopic and Arabic Texts, with translations of Ethiopic, Arabic, and Coptic Texts, by G Horner, M.A. See p 26

TEXT AND TRANSLATION SOCIETY. Established for the purpose of editing and translating Oriental Texts chiefly preserved in the British Museum

Volumes already issued—

THE SIXTH BOOK OF THE SELECT LETTERS OF SEVERUS, PATRIARCH OF ANTIOCH, in the Select Version of Athanasius of Nisibis. Edited and translated by E W. Brooks, M A. Vol I. Text, Parts I. and II. Vol. II. Translation, Parts I. and II. 84s net.

In the Press—

THE CANONS OF ATHANASIUS OF ALEXANDRIA, in Arabic, Ethiopic, and Coptic. Edited and Translated by Prof. W. Riedel (Griefswald) and W. E. Crum.

A RABBINIC COMMENTARY ON THE BOOK OF JOB, contained in a unique MS. at Cambridge. Edited, with Translation and Commentary, by W. Aldis Wright, LL.D.

TURPIE (Dr. D. McC.). MANUAL OF THE CHALDEE LANGUAGE Containing Grammar of the Biblical Chaldee and of the Targums, and a Chrestomathy, with a Vocabulary. Square 8vo, cloth. 7s.

VINAYA PITAKAM: One of the Principal Buddhist Holy Scriptures. Edited in Pali by Dr. H Oldenberg 5 vols. 8vo, cloth. Each 21s.

WALLIS (H. W.). THE COSMOLOGY OF THE RIG-VEDA: An Essay. 8vo, cloth. 5s.

IV. Modern Languages & Literature.

A complete list of Messrs. Williams & Norgate's Educational Publications on Modern Languages may be had on application

ABBOTSFORD SERIES OF THE SCOTTISH POETS.

Edited by George Eyre-Todd. I. Early Scottish Poetry; II. Mediæval Scottish Poetry; III. Scottish Poetry of the Sixteenth Century. Price of each vol., 3s 6d.; large paper, 5s net IV. Scottish Ballad Poetry. 5s; large paper, half-morocco, Roxburghe, 7s. 6d. net V. Scottish Poetry of the Seventeenth Century. 5s; large paper, half-morocco, Roxburghe, 7s. 6d. net. Vol. VI. Scottish Poetry of the Eighteenth Century. Vol. I. 3s. 6d.; large paper, half-morocco, Roxburghe, 5s net Vol. II. cloth, 5s.; large paper, half-morocco, 7s 6d. net.

ARMY SERIES OF FRENCH AND GERMAN NOVELS.

Edited, with short Notes, by J. T. W. Perowne, M.A.

This series is equally well adapted for general reading, and for those preparing for the Army, Oxford and Cambridge Certificates, and other Examinations—in fact, for all who wish to keep up or improve their French and German. The notes are as concise as possible, with an occasional etymology or illustration to assist the memory. The books selected being by recent or living authors, are adapted for the study of most modern French and German

LE COUP DE PISTOLET, etc. Prosper Mérimée. 2s. 6d.

"A book more admirably suited to its purpose could not be desired. The Editors deserve to be congratulated"—National Observer.

"The first two volumes are an excellent choice, and we advise any one, whether candidate or lay, to purchase the volume of Mérimée."—Journal of Education.

VAILLANTE. Jacques Vincent. 2s. 6d

"The books are well got up, and in Vaillante an excellent choice has been made"—Guardian

"The notes are few and brief, but all are helpful. The story itself is a delightful one"—Scotsman

AUF VERLORNEM POSTEN AND NAZZARENA DANTI. Johannes v. Dewall 3s.

"The two stories by Johannes v. Dewall are well suited for their purpose, the style and diction are not too difficult for those whose acquaintance with German is not extensive, and ample explanatory annotation is provided."—Saturday Review.

"Well printed, well bound, and annotated just sufficiently to make the reading of them sure as well as easy."—Educational Times

ARMY SERIES—Continued

CONTES MILITAIRES. A Daudet 2s 6d

"These stories are mainly culled from a series called Contes du Lundi, originally contributed by their author to the Figaro. Written at fever heat immediately after the great 1870 war, they show Daudet's power in many ways at its highest. We therefore do more than recommend—we urge all readers of French to get the stories in some form, and the present one is both good and cheap. The paper is excellent, and the type clear and bold. A neat map of Paris will assist the reader in following the movement of the stories."—The Schoolmaster.

"The choice is an exceptionally good one, and the notes are excellent"—Guardian.

ERZÄHLUNGEN. E. Hofei. 3s.

"The series has brought fascinating examples of fiction under the eyes of English readers in a neat and handy form. Besides having the military flavour, they are models of style."—Scotsman.

ATKINSON (ROBERT, M.A., LL.D.). THE PASSIONS AND HOMILIES FROM LEABHAR BREAC. With an Introductory Lecture on Irish Lexicography 958 pp. Todd Lecture Series, Vol. II. 8vo, sewed. Pages 1-34 out of print; pages 35-958, 6s.

BAYLDON (Rev. G.). ICELANDIC GRAMMAR. An Elementary Grammar of the Old Norse or Icelandic Language 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

BOÏELLE (JAS.). FRENCH COMPOSITION THROUGH LORD MACAULAY'S ENGLISH. Edited, with Notes, Hints, and Introduction, by the late James Boïelle, B.A. (Univ. Gall.), Officier d'Académie, Senior French Master, Dulwich College, etc., etc. Crown 8vo, cloth. Vol. I. Frederick the Great. 3s. Vol. II. Warren Hastings 3s. Vol. III. Lord Clive. 3s.

— See Victor Hugo, "Les Misérables" and "Notre Dame."

BOOK OF BALLYMOTE (THE). A Collection of Pieces in the Irish Language, dating from the end of the Fourteenth Century. Now published in Photo-Lithography from the Original Manuscript in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy. With Introduction, Analysis of Contents, and Index, by Robert Atkinson, M.A., LL.D., Professor of Sanskrit and Comparative Philology in the University of Dublin; Secretary of Council, Royal Irish Academy.

The book of Ballymote contains numerous articles of interest to the scholar and to the antiquary. The original portion consists of—Genealogical Lists; Histories and Legends, a fragment of the Brehon Laws, a copy of the Dindsenchas, Treatise on Grammatical Topics, etc. The other portion contains translations from Latin originals: the Destruction of Troy, the Wandering of Ulysses, the Story of the Æneid, and the life of Alexander the Great.

In imperial folio, reproduced by Photo-Lithography. Half-morocco, Roxburghe, cloth sides. £5, 5s. (200 copies only printed.)

BOOK OF LEINSTER (THE), sometime called The Book of Glendalough. A Collection of Pieces in the Irish Language, compiled in part about the middle of the Twelfth Century. From the original MS in Trinity College, Dublin. With Introduction, Analysis of Contents, and Index, by Robert Atkinson, M.A., LL.D., Professor of Sanskrit and Comparative Philology in the University of Dublin; Secretary of Council, Royal Irish Academy. In imperial folio, on toned paper, with a Photograph of a page of the Original. Half-roan, Roxburghe, cloth sides. £6, 6s. (200 copies only printed)

DELBOS (L.). NAUTICAL TERMS IN ENGLISH AND FRENCH AND FRENCH AND ENGLISH. With Notes and Tables. For the use of Naval Officers and Naval Cadets. By Leon Delbos, M.A., of H.M.S. Britannia, Dartmouth. 4th Edition, thoroughly revised and considerably enlarged, with additional Plates. Crown 8vo, cloth. 7s 6d. net.

EUGENE'S STUDENT'S COMPARATIVE GRAMMAR OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE, with an Historical Sketch of the Formation of French. For the use of Public Schools. With Exercises. By G. Eugène-Fasnacht, late French Master, Westminster School. 23rd Edition, thoroughly revised. Square crown 8vo, cloth, 5s; or separately, Grammar, 3s.; Exercises, 2s 6d

GOETHE (W. v.). ANNOTATED TEXTS. See Educational Catalogue

HOGAN (E.). CATH RUIS NA RIG FOR BOINN. With Preface, Translation, and Indices, also a Treatise on Irish Neuter Substantives, and a Supplement to the Index Vocabulorum of Zeuss's "Grammatica Celica." Todd Lecture Series, Vol. IV 8vo, sewed. 3s. 6d

— THE LATIN LIVES OF THE SAINTS AS AIDS TOWARDS THE TRANSLATION OF IRISH TEXTS AND THE PRODUCTION OF AN IRISH DICTIONARY. By Edmund Hogan, S.J., F.R.U.I., M.R.I.A., Royal Irish Academy's Todd Professor of Celtic Languages. Todd Lecture Series, Vol. V. 2s. 6d

— THE IRISH NENNIUS FROM L. NA HUIDRE, AND HOMILIES AND LEGENDS FROM L. BREAC. Alphabetical Index of Irish Neuter Substantives. Todd Lecture Series, Vol. VI. 2s 6d

HUGO (VICTOR). LES MISÉRABLES: Les Principaux Episodes. Edited, with Life and Notes, by the late J. Boiello. 2 vols. 6th Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth. Each 3s. 6d

HUGO (VICTOR). NOTRE DAME DE PARIS Adapted for the use of Schools and Colleges. By the late J Boielle 2 vols. 2nd Edition Crown 8vo, cloth Each 3s.

LARSEN (A.). DANISH, NORWEGIAN, AND ENGLISH DICTIONARY Third Revised and Enlarged Edition 688 pp. Large 8vo, strongly bound, half-roan 12s 6d.

LEABHAR BREAC. The "Speckled Book," otherwise styled, "The Great Book of Dun Doighre": a Collection of Pieces in Irish and Latin, transcribed towards the close of the Fourteenth Century "The oldest and best Irish MS relating to Church History now preserved" (G Petrie). Now first published, from the original MS. in the Royal Irish Academy's Library In imperial folio, on toned paper In one vol., half-calf, £4, 4s. (200 copies only printed)

LEABHAR NA H-UIDHRI. A Collection of Pieces in Prose and Verse, in the Irish Language, transcribed about A.D 1100, the oldest volume now known entirely in the Irish language, and one of the chief surviving native literary monuments—not ecclesiastical—of ancient Ireland, now for the first time published, from the original in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy, with account of the Manuscript, description of its contents, index, and facsimiles in colours In folio, on toned paper, half-calf £3, 3s (200 copies only printed)

LILJA (The Lily). An Icelandic Religious Poem. By Eysteinn Asgrimson Edited, with Translation, Notes, and Glossary, by E. Magnusson Crown 8vo, cloth extra 10s. 6d

MAORI. NEW AND COMPLETE MANUAL OF MAORI CONVERSATIONS. Containing Phrases and Dialogues on a variety of Topics, together with a few general rules of Grammar, and a comprehensive Vocabulary. 4s. net. See also Williams.

NIBELUNGENLIED. "The Fall of the Nibelungens," otherwise "The Book of Kriemhild" An English Translation by W. N. Lettsom 4th Edition 8vo, cloth. 5s.

O'GRADY (STANDISH H.). SILVA GADELICA (I.-XXXI). A Collection of Tales in Irish, with Extracts illustrating Persons and Places Edited from MSS and translated 2 vols. royal 8vo, cloth. 42s. Or separately, Vol. I, Irish Text; and Vol. II, Translation and Notes. Each vol. 21s

OORDT (J. F. VAN, B A.). CAPE DUTCH. Phrases and Dialogues, with Translations, preceded by short Grammatical Notes. Crown 8vo, cloth 2s 6d. net

PHILLIPPS (V., B.A.). A SHORT SKETCH OF GERMAN LITERATURE, for Schools. By Vivian Philipps, B.A., Assistant Master at Fettes College, Edinburgh. 2nd Edition, revised Pott 8vo, cloth. 1s

ROGET (F. F.). AN INTRODUCTION TO OLD FRENCH. History, Grammar, Chrestomathy, and Glossary. 2nd Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth 6s

— FIRST STEPS IN FRENCH HISTORY, LITERATURE, AND PHILOLOGY For Candidates for the Scotch Leaving Certificate Examinations, the various Universities Local Examinations, and the Army Examinations 4th Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth 5s

— See also Voltaire.

ROSEING (S.). ENGLISH-DANISH DICTIONARY. New Edition Large 8vo, strongly bound, half-10an 11s 6d

SCHILLER (F. VON). THE BALLADS AND SHORTER POEMS. Translated into English Verse by Gilbert Clark. Fcap. 8vo, cloth 5s

— ANNOTATED TEXTS. See Educational Catalogue

STOKES (WHITLEY). OLD IRISH GLOSSARIES. Cormac's Glossary. O'Davaran's Glossary A Glossary to the Calendar of Oingus the Culdee. Edited, with an Introduction and Index. 8vo, cloth 10s. 6d.

— MIDDLE-BRETON HOURS. Edited, with a Translation and Glossary 8vo, boards 8s. 6d.

— THE CREATION OF THE WORLD. A Mystery in Ancient Cornish Edited, with Translations and Notes. 8vo, cloth. 6s

— ON THE FELIRE OF CENGUS. Vol. I., Part 1. Trans. R.I.A.'s Irish MSS Series 4to, sewed. 6s.

— THE LIFE OF ST. MERIASEK. A Cornish Drama. Edited, with Translation and Notes. Royal 8vo. One 8vo facsimile Cloth 5s.

— BRETON GLOSSES AT ORLEANS. Edited by W. Stokes 8vo, sewed 1s

— SALT AIR NA RAUN. A Collection of Middle Irish Poems. Edited by W. Stokes 4to. 4s 6d.

— OLD IRISH GLOSSES AT WUERZBURG AND CARLSRUHE. Edited by W. Stokes. 8vo, sewed. 3s. 6d.

SULLIVAN (W. K.) CELTIC STUDIES FROM THE GERMAN OF EBEL With an Introduction on the Roots, Stems, and Derivatives, and on Case-endings of Nouns in the Indo-European Languages. 8vo, cloth. 10s

TODD LECTURE SERIES (Royal Irish Academy)—

Vol I Part 1. Mesca Ulad; or, The Intoxications of the Ultonians. Irish Text, with Translation and Notes, by W. M. Hennessy. 8vo, sewed. 1s 6d.

Vol II. Leabhar Breac, Passions and Homilies from. Irish Text, Translation, and Glossary, with Lecture on Irish Lexicography, by Dr. R. Atkinson. 8vo, cloth. Part 1, pages 1-34, out of print. Part 2, pages 35-958, 6s

Vol. III. The Codex Palatino-Vaticanus. No. 830. Texts, Translations, and Indices, by B. MacCarthy, D.D. 8vo, sewed. 2s. 6d.

Vol. IV. Cath Ruis na Ríg for Boinn. With Preface, Translation, Indices, a Treatise on Irish Neuter Substantives, and a Supplement to the Index Vocabulorum of Zeuss's "Grammatica Celtica" By E. Hogan. 8vo, sewed. 3s 6d

Vol. V. The Latin Lives of the Saints as aids towards the Translation of Irish Texts and the Production of an Irish Dictionary. By Edmund Hogan, S.J., F.R.U.I., M.R.I.A., Royal Irish Academy's Todd Professor of the Celtic Languages. 2s. 6d.

Vol VI The Irish Nennius from L. Na Huidre, and Homilies and Legends from L. Breac. Alphabetical Index of Irish Neuter Substantives. By Edmund Hogan, S.J., F.R.U.I., M.R.I.A., Royal Irish Academy's Todd Professor of the Celtic Languages. 2s. 6d

VELASQUEZ. LARGER SPANISH DICTIONARY.

Composed from the Dictionaries of the Spanish Academy, Terreros and Salva. Spanish-English and English-Spanish. 1279 pp., triple columns. 2 vols. in 1 Imp. 8vo, cloth. 24s.

VIGA GLUMS SAGA Translated from the Icelandic, with Notes and an Introduction, by Sir Edmund Head, Bart. Fcap. 8vo, cloth. 5s.

WEISSE (T. H.). COMPLETE PRACTICAL GERMAN GRAMMAR, with Exercises, constituting a Method and Reader. 4th Edition, almost entirely rewritten. Crown 8vo, cloth. 6s.

"We have no hesitation in pronouncing this the fullest and most satisfactory German Grammar yet published in England"—Journal of Education

— SYSTEMATIC CONVERSATIONAL EXERCISES FOR TRANSLATING INTO GERMAN, adapted to his Grammar. New Edition. Crown 8vo, cloth. (Key, 5s.) 3s 6d.

WEISSE (T. H.). A SHORT GUIDE TO GERMAN IDIOMS: being a Collection of the Idioms most in use. With Examination Papers 3rd Edition. Cloth. 2s

WERNER'S ELEMENTARY LESSONS IN CAPE DUTCH (AFRIKANDER TAAL). By A. Werner and G. Hunt. 16mo, cloth 1s. 6d.

"We most cordially recommend this book to anyone going out to settle in South Africa. The dialogues and exercises are admirably planned"—Reformer

"To those outward bound such a book is sure to be useful"—Practical Teacher

WILLIAMS (The Right Rev. W. L., D.C.L.). A DICTIONARY OF THE NEW ZEALAND LANGUAGE. 4th Edition. Edited by the Right Rev. Bishop W. L. Williams, with numerous additions and corrections. Demy 8vo, cloth. 12s. 6d.

— LESSONS IN MAORI. 3rd Edition. Fcap. 8vo, cloth. 3s

WYLD (HENRY CECIL, B.Litt.). THE NEGLECT OF THE STUDY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. 8vo. 6d

YELLOW BOOK OF LECAN. A Collection of Pieces (Prose and Verse) in the Irish Language, in part compiled at the end of the Fourteenth Century; now for the first time published from the original Manuscript in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, by the Royal Irish Academy. With Introduction, Analysis of Contents, and Index, by Robert Atkinson. 30 and 468 pp. (Royal Irish Academy's Irish facsimiles) Large post folio, 1896, half-roan, Roxburghe, cloth sides. £4, 4s

ZOEGA (G. T.) ENGLISH-ICELANDIC DICTIONARY. 8vo, cloth 6s net.

ZOMPOLIDES (Dr. D.). A COURSE OF MODERN GREEK; or, The Greek Language of the Present Day. I The Elementary Method Crown 8vo, cloth 5s.

V. Science.

MEDICINE—CHEMISTRY—BOTANY—ZOOLOGY—MATHEMATICS.

- ABRAHAM (P. S.). LEPROSY: A Review of some Facts and Figures. 8vo 1s.
- ANNETT (H. E., M.D., D.P.H.), J. EVERETT DUTTON, M.B., B.Ch., and J. H. ELLIOTT, MD., Toronto. REPORT OF THE MALARIA EXPEDITION TO NIGERIA (1900). Part I. Malarial Fever, etc (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir III.) 10s. 6d. Part II. Filariasis (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir IV) Out of print separately, but is contained in the Thompson-Yates Laboratory Reports, Vol. IV, Part I. Price 20s.
- BASTIAN (H. CHARLTON, M.A., M.D., F.R.S.). STUDIES IN HETEROGENESIS. With 825 Illustrations from Photomicrographs. Royal 8vo, cloth. 31s. 6d.
- BENTHAM and HOOKER. GENERA PLANTARUM AD EXEMPLARIA IMPRIMIS IN HERBARIIS KEWENSIBUS SERVATA DEFINITA. Auctoribus G. Bentham et J. D. Hooker. 3 vols., £8, 2s. Vol. I (not sold separately). Vol. II., 56s. Vol. III. (Parts 1 and 2), 56s., or separately, Part 1, 24s., Part 2, 32s.
- BERZELIUS (JONS JAKOB) and SCHÖENBEIN (CHRISTIAN FREDERICK). LETTERS, 1836-1847. Edited by George W. A. Kahlbaum Translated by Francis V. Darbishire and N. V. Sidgwick Crown 8vo, cloth 3s.
- BOGHURST (W.). LOIMOGRAPHIA. An Account of the Great Plague of London in the year 1665. By William Boghurst, Apothecary. Now first printed from the B.M. Sloane MS. 349, and edited by Joseph Frank Payne, M.D. 8vo, cloth 5s. net.
- BOYCE (RUPERT, M.B., F.R.S.). THE ANTI-MALARIA MEASURES AT ISMAILIA. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir XII.) Price 1s.
- BRUCE (ALEX., M.A., M.D., F.R.C.P.E., F.R.S.E.). A TOPOGRAPHICAL ATLAS OF THE SPINAL CORD. Fcap. folio, half-leather. £2, 2s. net

BRUHNS. A NEW MANUAL OF LOGARITHMS TO SEVEN PLACES OF DECIMALS. Royal 8vo. Stereotyped Cloth. 5s 6d.

CAVERHILL (T. F. S., M.B., F.R.C.P.Ed., Surgeon-Major, The Lothians and Berwickshire Yeomanry Cavalry). SELF-AID IN WAR. With Practical Hints for Cavalry Wounded. With Illustrations and Diagrams. Small 8vo. 1s. net.

CHAPMAN (E. J., Ph.D.). MINERAL SYSTEMS. With Outline of an attempted Classification of Minerals in Natural Groups. Crown 8vo, cloth. 2s 6d.

CHURCH (A. H.). ON THE RELATION OF PHYLLOTAXIS TO MECHANICAL LAWS. Part I. Construction by Orthogonal Trajectories, illustrated with 35 Figures. Large 8vo. 3s 6d. Part II. Assymetry and Symmetry, with 60 Illustrations. Large 8vo. 5s.

CLELAND, MACKAY, YOUNG (Professors). MEMOIRS AND MEMORANDA OF ANATOMY. Vol I. 16 Plates. 8vo, cloth. 7s 6d

COOKE (M. C.). MYCOGRAPHIA SEU ICONES FUNGORUM. Figures of Fungi from all parts of the World. Vol I. (in 6 Parts, each 12s. 6d.). 406 coloured Plates. Royal 8vo, cloth. 80s.

— CONTRIBUTIONS TO MYCOLOGIA BRITANICA. The Myxomycetes of Great Britain. 24 Plates. 8vo, sewed. 5s. net.

— ILLUSTRATIONS OF BRITISH FUNGI (HYMENOMYCETES). 76 Parts. 1198 coloured Plates. Royal 8vo. Each Part, sewed, 8s. Or in 8 vols. 1198 coloured Plates. Royal 8vo, cloth gilt. £30, 5s. 6d — BRITISH FRESH-WATER ALGÆ, exclusive of Desmidiæ and Diatomaceæ. With 130 coloured Plates. Parts 2 to 10 [Part 1 out of print.] 8vo, sewed. 78s.

— BRITISH DESMIDS. A Supplement to "British Fresh-water Algæ." 66 coloured Plates. 8vo, cloth. 52s. 6d.

— HANDBOOK OF AUSTRALIAN FUNGI. With 36 Plates. 8vo, cloth. £2.

— See also "Grevillea."

CUNNINGHAM MEMOIRS—

1. Cubic Transformations. By John Casey, LL.D. 4to, sewed. 2s. 6d

2. On the Lumbar Curve in Man and the Apes. By D. J. Cunningham, M.D. 13 Plates 4to, sewed 5s

3. New Researches on Sun-heat, Terrestrial Radiation, etc. By Rev Samuel Haughton, M.A., M.D. 9 Plates. 4to, sewed. 1s. 6d

4. Dynamics and Modern Geometry. A New Chapter in the Theory of Screws. By Sir Robert S. Ball, LL.D. 4to, sewed. 2s.

5. The Red Stars. Observations and Catalogue. New Edition. Edited by Rev T. Espin, M.A. 4to, sewed. 3s. 6d.

6. On the Morphology of the Duck Tribe and the Auk Tribe. By W. K. Parker, F.R.S. 9 Plates. 4to, sewed. 3s. 6d

7. Contribution to the Surface Anatomy of the Cerebral Hemispheres. By D. J. Cunningham, M.D. With a Chapter upon Cranio-Cerebral Topography by Victor Horsley, M.B., F.R.S. 4to, sewed. 8s. 6d

8. On the Flinders Petrie Papyri. Part I. With Transcriptions, Commentaries, and Index. With 30 Autotypes. 4to, sewed. 42s. net

9. On the Flinders Petrie Papyri. Part II. With 18 Autotypes. 4to, sewed. 42s. net. Appendix to 8 and 9. 5s. net.

10. The Decorative Art of British New Guinea. A Study in Papuan Ethnography. By Alfred C. Haddon, M.A. With 12 Plates, and numerous other Illustrations. 4to, sewed. 14s. net

DITTMAR (Prof. W.). CHEMICAL ARITHMETIC. Part I. A Collection of Tables, Mathematical, Chemical, and Physical, for the use of Chemists, etc. 8vo, cloth 6s. net.

— EXERCISES IN QUANTITATIVE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS, with a short Treatise on Gas Analysis. 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d.

DURHAM (H. E., M.A., M.B., F.R.C.S.), and the late WALTER MYERS, M.B. REPORT OF THE YELLOW FEVER EXPEDITION TO PARA (1900). (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir VII.) 4to, 7s. 6d.

DUTTON (J. E., M.B., Ch.B.) REPORT OF THE MALARIA EXPEDITION TO THE GAMBIA. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir X) 4to. 10s. 6d. net

— and JOHN L. TODD, B.A., M.D., C.M., M'Gill. FIRST REPORT OF THE TRYPANOSOMIASIS EXPEDITION TO SENEGAMBIA (1902). (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir XI) 4to. 10s. 6d. net.

FARADAY and SCHÖENBEIN, LETTERS OF, 1836-1862.

With Notes, Comments, and References to Contemporary Letters.
 Edited by George W. A. Kahlbaum and Francis V. Darbishire, with Portraits of Faraday and Schöenbein in Photogravure. Demy 8vo, cloth. 13s. net.

FASCICULI MALAYENSES. Anthropological and Zoological results of an Expedition to Perak and the Siamese Malay States, 1901-1902, undertaken by Nelson Annandale and Herbert C. Robinson 4to Now ready. Anthropology, Part I., 15s. Zoology, Vol I., Parts I., II., and Appendix. 50s. Supplement (Itinerary), 5s.GREVILLEA: A Record of Cryptogamic Botany and its Literature. Edited by M. C Cooke. Parts. 8vo Each 1s. 6d. Plates. Vols. I-XVIII. In 9 vols. Cloth (each 14s.). £6, 6s.GREVILLEA ATLAS. 37 Coloured Plates of Hymenocetal Fungi. Re-issued from "Grevillea." 8vo, sewed 5s. netHANDBOOK OF THE MUSEUM OF HYGIENE, UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, LIVERPOOL. 8vo 1s.HARNACK (AXEL). INTRODUCTION TO THE ELEMENTS OF THE DIFFERENTIAL AND INTEGRAL CALCULUS. From the German. Royal 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.HERBERT (AUBERON) and HAROLD WAGER. BAD AIR AND BAD HEALTH. Crown 8vo, sewed, 1s. ; cloth, 1s. 6d.HOFF (J. H. VAN'T). STUDIES IN CHEMICAL DYNAMICS. Revised and enlarged by Dr. Ernst Cohen, Assistant in the Chemical Laboratory of the University of Amsterdam. Translated by Thomas Ewan, M.Sc., Ph.D., Demonstrator of Chemistry in the Yorkshire College, Leeds Royal 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.JAEGER (GUSTAV, M.D.). PROBLEMS OF NATURE. Selected, edited, and translated by H. G. Schlichter, D.Sc., with a Facsimile of a Letter from Charles Darwin to the Author. Demy 8vo, cloth 4s.JOURNAL OF THE LINNEAN SOCIETY. Botany. At various prices Index to Journal (Botany), 20s. Zoology. At various prices. General Index to the first 20 vols. of the Journal (Zoology) and the Zoological portion of the Proceedings, 20s.JOURNAL OF THE ROYAL MICROSCOPICAL SOCIETY, containing its transactions and Proceedings, with other Microscopical information. Bi-monthly Previous to 1893 at various prices; after that date bi-monthly, each 6s. net.

JOURNAL OF THE QUEKETT MICROSCOPICAL CLUB. Nos. 1-26, 1s. net; Nos 27-31, 2s. 6d. net. 1893, No. 32, and following Nos, half-yearly, 3s. 6d. net.

LIVERPOOL MARINE BIOLOGY COMMITTEE. MEMOIRS ON TYPICAL BRITISH MARINE PLANTS AND ANIMALS. Edited by W. A. Herdman, D.Sc., F.R.S. All demy 8vo, stiff boards.

1. Ascidia. By W. A. Herdman With 5 Plates Price 2s. net
2. Cardium. By J. Johnstone, Fisheries Assistant, University College, Liverpool. With 7 Plates Price 2s 6d. net.
3. Echinus. By Herbert Clifton Chadwick, Curator of the Port Erin Biological Station. With 5 Plates. Price 2s. net.
4. Codium. By R. J. Harvey Gibson, M.A., F.L.S., Professor of Botany in University College, Liverpool, and Helen P. Auld, B.Sc., With 3 Plates. Price 1s 6d. net.
5. Alcyonium. By Sydney J. Hickson, M.A., D.Sc., F.R.S., Beyer Professor of Zoology in Owens College, Manchester. With 3 Plates. Price 1s. 6d. net
6. Lepeophtheirus and Lernea. By Andrew Scott, Resident Fisheries Assistant at the Peel Hatchery With 5 Plates 2s net.
7. Lineus. By R. C. Punnett, B.A., with 4 Plates. 2s net.
8. Pleuronectes. By Frank J. Cole, Jesus College, Oxford, Lecturer in the Victoria University, Demonstrator of Zoology, University, Liverpool, and James Johnstone, B.Sc. Lond., Fisheries Assistant, University, Liverpool. With 11 Plates. 7s net.
9. Chondrus. By Otto V. Darbishire, Owens College, Manchester. With 7 Plates. 2s. 6d. net.
10. Patella (the Common Limpet). By J. R. Ainsworth Davis, M.A., Professor of Zoology in the University College of Wales, Aberystwyth, and H. J. Fleure, B.Sc., Fellow of the University of Wales With 4 Plates. 2s 6d. net.
11. Arenicola (the Lug-Worm). By J. H. Ashworth, D.Sc., Lecturer in Invertebrate Zoology in the University of Edinburgh. With 8 Plates Price 4s 6d. net.

LIVERPOOL MARINE BIOLOGY COMMITTEE. FIFTH REPORT UPON THE FAUNA OF LIVERPOOL BAY AND THE NEIGHBOURING SEAS. Written by the Members of the Liverpool Marine Biology Committee and other Naturalists; and edited by W. A. Herdman, D.Sc., F.R.S., Professor of Natural History, the University, Liverpool. Demy 8vo, cloth. 12 Plates. 8s 6d. net.

MEMOIRS OF THE LIVERPOOL SCHOOL OF TROPICAL MEDICINE.

I. Ross (R.) Malarial Fever. Its Cause, Prevention, and Treatment. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

II. Ross (R.), H. E. Annett, and E. E. Austen. Report of the Malaria Expedition to Sierra Leone (1899). 4to. 21s.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

MEMOIRS OF THE LIVERPOOL SCHOOL OF TROPICAL MEDICINE—Continued

III. Annett (H. E.), J. E. Dutton, and J. H. Elliott. Report of the Malaria Expedition to Nigeria (1900). I. Malarial Fever. 4to. 10s. 6d.

IV. Annett (H. E.), J. E. Dutton, and J. H. Elliott. Report of the Malaria Expedition to Nigeria (1900). II. Filariasis. 4to. [This is out of print separately, but is also contained in the Report of the Thompson-Yates Laboratories, Vol. IV Part I Price 20s.]

V. Ross (R.) and M. L. Taylor. Progress Reports of the Campaign against Mosquitoes in Sierra Leone. Part I 1901. With a Letter from Dr. Daniels regarding the results arrived at to date 8vo. 1s. Part II. 1902. 8vo. 1s.

VI. [Not issued yet.]

VII. Durham (H. E.) and W. Myers. Report of the Yellow Fever Expedition to Para (1900). 4to. 7s. 6d.

VIII. Taylor (M. L.). Report on the Sanitary Conditions of Cape Coast Town. 8vo 1s.

IX. Ross (R.). Report on Malaria at Ismaïha and Suez. 8vo. 1s.

X. Dutton (J. E.). Report of the Malaria Expedition to the Gambia. 4to 10s 6d net.

XI. Dutton (J. E.) and J. L. Todd. First Report of the Trypanosomiasis Expedition to Senegambia (1902). 4to. 10s. 6d net. [Also contained in Thompson-Yates Laboratories Reports, V. 2.]

XII. Boyce (R.). The Anti-Malaria Measures at Ismaïha. 8vo. 1s.

LOCKWOOD (Prof. C. B.). HUNTERIAN LECTURES ON THE DEVELOPMENT AND TRANSITION OF THE TESTIS, NORMAL AND ABNORMAL. Three 4to Plates 8vo, cloth. 5s

MIERS (J.). ON THE APOCYNACEÆ OF SOUTH AMERICA. With some preliminary Remarks on the whole family. 35 Plates. 4to, cloth. 30s

MOORE (T.). INDEX FILICUM: A Synopsis of the Genera of Ferns. 20 Parts 84 Plates. 12mo, sewed. 20s.

MURRAY (ANDREW). LIST OF COLEOPTERA FROM OLD CALABAR, ON THE WEST COAST OF AFRICA, RECEIVED AND DESCRIBED. 8vo, sewed. 8s.

— MONOGRAPH OF THE FAMILY OF NITIDULARIÆ. 5 coloured Plates. 4to, cloth. 10s

NOTES ON SANITARY CONDITIONS OBTAINING IN PARA. By the Members of the Yellow Fever Expedition. (Published by the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine.) 1s.

PATERSON (ANDREW MELVILLE, M.D., Derby Professor of Anatomy in the University of Liverpool, Hunterian Professor at the Royal College of Surgeons of England). THE HUMAN STERNUM. Three Lectures delivered at the Royal College of Surgeons, England, November 1903. With 10 Plates Crown 4to 10s. net

PIDDINGTON (HENRY). THE SAILORS' HORN-BOOK FOR THE LAW OF STORMS. Being a Practical Exposition of the Theory of the Law of Storms, and its uses to Mariners of all Classes in all Parts of the World Shown by transparent Storm Cards and useful Lessons. 7th Edition Demy 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d.

PRAY (Dr.). ASTIGMATIC LETTERS. Printed on Mill-board, size 22 by 14 inches 1s.

PRIOR. ON THE POPULAR NAMES OF BRITISH PLANTS. Being an Explanation of the Origin and Meaning of the names of our indigenous and most commonly cultivated species. 3rd Edition Post 8vo. 7s. 6d.

RAY (PRAPHULLA CHANDRA, D.Sc., Professor of Chemistry, Presidency College, Calcutta) A HISTORY OF HINDU CHEMISTRY FROM THE EARLIEST TIMES TO THE MIDDLE OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY, A.D. With Sanscrit Texts, Variants, Translation, and Illustrations Vol. I. Royal 8vo, cloth 12s. 6d. net.

REPORTS OF THE THOMPSON-YATES AND JOHNSTON LABORATORIES. Demy 4to, with Illustrations. Vol. I. 1898-9. 10s. 6d. Vol II 1898-9. 25s. Vol III. Part I. 1900. 7s. 6d. Vol. III Part 2. 1901. 12s. 6d. Vol IV. Part I. 1901. 20s. Vol. IV. Part 2 1902 21s. New Series. Vol V. Part 1 1903 Limp, 20s ; cloth, 21s Vol. V. Part 2. 1903. Limp, 12s. 6d. ; cloth, 13s. 6d.

ROSS (RONALD, C.B., F.R.S., etc., Major I.M.S. (retired) ). MALARIAL FEVER: Its Cause, Prevention, and Treatment. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir I.) 8vo, cloth. 2s. 6d.

ROSS (RONALD, C.B., F.R.S., etc., Major I.M.S. (retired) ), H. E. ANNETT, M.D., D.P.H., and E. E. AUSTEN.
REPORT OF THE MALARIA EXPEDITION TO SIERRA LEONE (1899). (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir II.) 4to. 21s

— FIRST PROGRESS REPORT OF THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST MOSQUITOES IN SIERRA LEONE (1901).
With a Letter from Dr Daniels regarding the results arrived at to date. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir V 1 ) 1s.

— SECOND PROGRESS REPORT OF THE CAM-PAIGN AGAINST MOSQUITOES IN SIERRA LEONE (1902) By M Logan Taylor, M.B. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir V. 2.) 1s.

— REPORT ON MALARIA AT ISMAILIA AND SUEZ. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir IX.)
1s.

SANDERS (A., M.R.C.S., F.L.S.). RESEARCHES IN THE NERVOUS SYSTEM OF MYXINE GLUTIN-
OSA 4to, sewed. 8 Plates. 10s 6d.

SANG'S LOGARITHMS A new Table of Seven-place Logarithms of all Numbers continuously up to 200,000 2nd Edition
Royal 8vo, cloth 21s.

SCHÖENBEIN. CORRESPONDENCE WITH FARA-DAY. See Faraday.

— CORRESPONDENCE WITH BERZELIUS. See Berzelius.

SCHREBER (D. G. M.). MEDICAL INDOOR GYMNAS-TICS, or a System of Hygienic Exercises for Home Use, to be practised anywhere, without apparatus or assistance, by young and old of either sex, for the preservation of health and general activity.
Revised and Supplemented by Rudolf Graefe, M.D. With a large plate and 45 illustrations in the text Royal 8vo, cloth.
3s. net.

"The exercises described, when efficiently used, will undoubtedly be of value in strengthening and developing the muscular system. The descriptions of the exercises and the figures in the text are excellent"—Physician and Surgeon

"Well worthy of the attention of those who go in for regular physical training as a means for the preservation of health"—Scotsman.

"A very sensible little treatise"—Glasgow Herald

SCHROEN (L.). SEVEN-FIGURE LOGARITHMS OF NUMBERS from 1 to 108,000, and of Sines, Cosines, Tangents, Cotangents to every 10 Seconds of the Quadrant. With a Table of Proportional Parts By Dr. Ludwig Schroen, Director of the Observatory of Gena, etc., etc. 5th Edition, corrected and stereotyped With a description of the Tables by A. De Morgan, Professor of Mathematics in University College, London. Imp. 8vo, cloth, printed on light green paper 9s

SNELLEN'S OPHTHALMIC TEST TYPES. Best Types for the Determination of the Acuteness of Vision 14th Edition, considerably augmented and improved 8vo, sewed 4s Single Sheets: E T B, M O V, B D E, W W W, and Large Clock Sheet. 8d each. Small Clock Sheet and R T V Z. 4d. each.

— ASTIGMATIC TEST CHART. Long folio, varnished, mounted on rollers. 2s. net.

SONNTAG (C. O.) A POCKET FLORA OF EDINBURGH AND THE SURROUNDING DISTRICT. A Collection and full Description of all Phanerogamic and the principal Cryptogamic Plants, classified after the Natural System, with an artificial Key and a Glossary of Botanical Terms. By the late C. O. Sonntag, the Royal High School, Edinburgh, formerly Secretary of the Microscopical Society of Glasgow, etc. Fcap. 8vo, limp cloth, round corners, with Map of the Environs of Edinburgh. 3s 6d. net.

SPALTEHOLZ (WERNER, Extraordinary Professor of Anatomy in the University, and Custodian of the Anatomical Museum at Leipzig, with the Advice of Wilhelm His, Professor of Anatomy in the University of Leipzig). HAND-ATLAS OF HUMAN ANATOMY. Translated from the 3rd German Edition by Lewellys F. Barker, Professor of Anatomy in the University of Chicago; with a Preface by Franklin P. Mall, Professor of Anatomy in the Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore With 935 Illustrations, mostly in colour Vol. I Bones, Joints, Ligaments, 14s. 6d. net, Vol. II Regions, Muscles, Fasciæ, Heart, Blood-vessels, 14s. 6d. net, Vol. III Viscera, Brain, Nerves, Sense-Organ, 22s 6d. net.

SPENCER (H.). THE INADEQUACY OF NATURAL SELECTION See p 32.

SPENCER (W. G.). INVENTIONAL GEOMETRY. With a Preface by Herbert Spencer. 8vo, cloth. 1s.

SPENCER (W. G.). A SYSTEM OF LUCID SHORTHAND. With a Prefatory Note by Herbert Spencer. Cloth. 1s.

STEPHENS (J. W. W., M.D. Cantab., D.P.H.) and S. R. CHRISTOPHERS, M.B. Vict., I.M.S. THE PRACTICAL STUDY OF MALARIA AND OTHER BLOOD PARASITES. (Published by the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine). 8vo, cloth. 10s. net.

TAYLOR (M. LOGAN, M.B., Ch.B.). REPORT ON THE SANITARY CONDITIONS OF CAPE COAST TOWN. (Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, Memoir VIII.) 8vo. 1s.

— REPORT OF THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE MOSQUITOES IN SIERRA LEONE. See Ross and Taylor.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE EPIDEMIOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON. New Series. Vol. XXII. Session 1902-1903. Demy 8vo, cloth 6s. net. The earlier volumes of the New Series, I-XXI, are still obtainable. Price 6s. net each. Commemoration Volume, containing an account of the Foundation of the Society and of the Commemoration Dinner, together with an Index of the papers read at its meetings between 1855 and 1900. 8vo, cloth. 5s. net.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH. Vol. XXXVIII. Part 1, 40s. Part 2, 25s. Part 3, 30s. Part 4, 7s. 6d. Vol. XXXIX. Part 1, 30s. Part 2, 19s. Part 3, 43s. Part 4, 9s. Vol. XL. Part 1, 25s. General Index to First Thirty-four Volumes (1783-1888), with History of the Institution. 4to, cloth. 21s.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY, DUBLIN. Vols. I.-XX. 4to £22, 5s. 6d. Vols. XXI.-XXXI. Various prices.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY. Various volumes at various prices.

VEGA. LOGARITHMIC TABLES OF NUMBERS AND TRIGONOMETRICAL FUNCTIONS. Translated from the 40th, or Dr. Bremiker's Edition, thoroughly revised and enlarged, by W. L. F. Fischer, M.A., F.R.S., Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge, Professor of Natural Philosophy in the University of St. Andrews. 75th Stereotyped Edition. Royal 8vo, cloth. 7s.

VI. Miscellaneous.

ANTHROPOLOGY—SOCIOLOGY—MYTHOLOGY—
BIOGRAPHY, ETC.

AVEBURY (Lord, D.C.L., F.R.S., etc.) (Sir John Lubbock). PREHISTORIC TIMES, as Illustrated by Ancient Remains and the Manners and Customs of Modern Savages. 6th Edition, revised, with 239 Illustrations, a large number of which are specially prepared for this Edition Demy 8vo cloth, gilt tops 18s.

"To anyone who wishes to obtain a succinct conspectus of the present state of knowledge on the subject of early man, we recommend the perusal of this comprehensive volume"—Four Brit Archaeolog. Assoc

"The fact that this well-known standard work has reached a sixth edition is evidence of its value to ethnologists and archæologists. The many and beautiful illustrations are most helpful in better understanding the plain but accurate letterpress. Lord Avebury is to be congratulated on the new edition, which is sure to further popularise a fascinating subject for investigation by cultured people"—Science Gossip

"It is necessary to compare the present volume with the fifth edition in order to see how much it has been improved. The illustrations to this sixth edition are immeasurably superior to the fifth"—Knowledge

AINSWORTH (Rev. W. M.), MEMORIAL OF. With Portrait. Crown 8vo, cloth. 6s.

BLACKBURN (HELEN). WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE. A Record of the Women's Suffrage Movement in the British Isles with a Biographical Sketch of Miss Becker. Portraits. Crown 8vo, cloth. 6s.

— See also Vynne, Nora, and Blackburn, "Women under the Factory Acts"

BROWN (ROBERT, Jun., F.S.A). SEMITIC INFLUENCE IN HELLENIC MYTHOLOGY. With special reference to the recent mythological works of the Right Hon. Prof Max Muller and Mr Andrew Lang Demy 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

— RESEARCHES INTO THE ORIGIN OF THE PRIMITIVE CONSTELLATIONS OF THE GREEKS, PHENICIANS, AND BABYLONIANS. With a large map of the Northern Hemisphere as viewed at Phœnicia 1200 B.C., and other maps. 2 vols. demy 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d. each

— MR. GLADSTONE AS I KNEW HIM, and other Essays. Demy 8vo, cloth. 7s. 6d.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

CATALOGUE OF THE LONDON LIBRARY, St James's Square By C. T. Hagberg Wright, L.L.D., etc. xiv + 1626 pp. 4to, cloth 42s net. Supplement I., 1902-3. Buckram, 1 vol., 196 pp. 5s. net

"The present catalogue is essentially a working catalogue The general level of accuracy in the printing and editing of the work appears to us to be an unusually high one We heartily applaud the work, both as a landmark in library land, and as a monument standing upon a firm foundation of its own"
—The Times

CURTIN (JEREMIAH). CREATION MYTHS OF PRIMITIVE AMERICA IN RELATION TO THE RELIGIOUS HISTORY AND MENTAL DEVELOPMENT OF MANKIND. Contains twenty long myths taken down word for word by Mr. Curtin from Indians who knew no religion or language but their own, and many of whom had not seen a white man until they had attained years of maturity With an elaborate Introduction and Notes. Demy 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d. net.

ELTON (OLIVER, M.A.). TENNYSON. 4to 1s.

ENGELHARDT (C.). DENMARK IN THE EARLY IRON AGE. Illustrated by recent Discoveries in the Peat-Mosses of Slesvig. 33 Plates (giving representations of upwards of a thousand objects), Maps, and numerous other Illustrations on wood. 1866 4to, cloth 31s 6d.

ENGLISHWOMAN'S REVIEW (THE) OF SOCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL QUESTIONS. Edited by Antoinette M. Mackenzie Issued quarterly, sewed. 1s

GOLDAMMER (H.). THE KINDERGARTEN. A Guide to Frobel's Method of Education 2 vols. in 1 120 pp. of Illustrations 8vo, cloth. 10s. 6d.

HARRISON (A., D.Sc.). WOMEN'S INDUSTRIES IN LIVERPOOL. An Inquiry into the Economic Effects of Legislation regulating the Labour of Women. 8vo 3s.

HENRY (JAMES) ÆNEIDEA; or, Critical, Exegetical and Æsthetical Remarks on the Æneis. With a personal collation of all the first-class MSS., and upwards of 100 second-class MSS., and all the principal editions. Vol I. (3 Parts), Vol II (3 Parts), Vol III. (3 Parts), Vol IV. (1 Part) Royal 8vo, sewed. £2, 2s net.

HERBERT (Hon A.) THE RIGHT AND WRONG OF COMPULSION BY THE STATE. A Statement of the Moral Principles of the Party of Individual Liberty, and the Political Measures founded upon them. Crown 8vo, sewed. 1s 6d.

HERBERT (Hon. A.). THE SACRIFICE OF EDUCATION TO EXAMINATION. Letters from "All Sorts and Conditions of Men." Edited by Auberon Herbert. Half-cloth boards. 2s.

— WINDFALL AND WATERDRIFT. Verse Miniatures. Square 12mo, cloth limp, gilt tops. 2s.

— and WAGER (HAROLD). BAD AIR AND BAD HEALTH. Dedicated to Professor Clifford Allbutt. Reprinted from the "Contemporary Review" 8vo, cloth, 1s. 6d., sewed, 1s.

JOHNSON (E.). THE RISE OF ENGLISH CULTURE. With a brief account of the Author's life and writings. Demy 8vo, cloth 15s. net.

JOHNSON (Major T. G.). SAPPHO, THE LESBIAN. A Monograph 73 pp. Fcap. 4to, bound in art linen, etc 4s. 6d. net

KERMODE (P. M. C., F.S.A. Scot.). CATALOGUE OF THE MANKS CROSSES, with the Runic Inscriptions and various Readings and Renderings compared. 2nd Edition. 8vo, cloth. 3s 6d.

KIEPERT'S NEW ATLAS ANTIQUUS. Twelve Maps of the Ancient World, for Schools and Colleges. Third hundred thousand 12th Edition, with a complete Geographical Index. Folio, boards. 6s. Strongly bound in cloth. 7s 6d.

— WALL-MAPS OF THE ANCIENT WORLD—

Wall-map of Ancient Italy. Italia antiqua. For the study of Livy, Sallust, Cicero, Dionysius, etc. Scale 1 : 800,000. Mounted on rollers, varnished. 20s.

General Wall-map of the Old World. Tabula orbis terrarum antiqui ad illustrandam potissimum antiquissimi ævi usque ad Alexandrum M. historiam. For the study of ancient history, especially the history of the Oriental peoples. the Indians, Medes, Persians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Egyptians, Phœnicians, etc. Scale 1 : 5,400,000 Mounted on rollers, varnished, 20s.

General Wall-map of the Roman Empire. Imperii Romani tabula geographica. For the study of the development of the Roman Empire. Scale 1 : 300,000 Mounted on rollers, varnished. 24s.

Wall-map of Ancient Latium. Latii Veteris et finitimarum regionum tabula. For the study of Livy, Dionysius, etc. Scale 1 : 125,000 With supplement Environs of Rome. Scale 1 : 25,000. Mounted on rollers, varnished. 18s.

Wall-map of Ancient Greece. Græciæ Antiquæ tabula. For the study of Herodotus, Thucydides, Xenophon, Strabo, Cornelius Nepos, etc. Scale 1 : 500,000. Mounted on rollers, varnished. 24s.

KIEPERT'S WALL-MAPS OF THE ANCIENT WORLD—Contd

Wall-Map of the Empires of the Persians and of Alexander the Great. Imperia Persarum et Macedonum. For the study of Herodotus, Xenophon, Justinian, Arian, Curtius. Scale 1 : 300,000 Mounted on rollers and varnished 20s.

Wall-Map of Gaul, with portions of Ancient Britain and Ancient Germany. Galliæ Cisalpinæ et Transalpinæ cum partibus Britannicæ et Germanicæ tabula. For the study of Cæsar, Justinian, Livy, Tacitus, etc. Scale 1 : 1,000,000 Mounted on rollers and varnished, 24s.

Wall-Map of Ancient Asia Minor. Asiæ Minoris Antiquæ Tabula. For the study of Herodotus, Xenophon, Justinian, Arian, Curtius, etc. Scale 1 : 800,000. Mounted on rollers and varnished, 20s

LAING and HUXLEY. PREHISTORIC REMAINS OF CAITHNESS. By Samuel Laing, Esq, with Notes on the Human Remains by Th H. Huxley, F.R.S. 150 Engravings. 8vo, cloth. 4s. 6d.

MACCUNN (JOHN, M.A.). LOCAL PATRIOTISM IN EDUCATION. 4to. 1s.

MARCKS (ERICH, Professor of Modern History at the University of Leipzig) ENGLAND AND GERMANY: Their Relations in the Great Crises of European History, 1500-1900. Demy 8vo, stiff wrapper. 1s.

OTIA MERSEIANA. The Publication of the Arts Faculty of the University of Liverpool, Vols. I-III. 8vo 1899-1903. Each 10s 6d

RALEIGH (WALTER, M.A.). THE STUDY OF ARTS IN A MODERN UNIVERSITY. 4to 1s

RELIQUIÆ AQUITANICÆ: The Caves and Cave-Dwellers of Central France, with their Implements of Stone and Bone. By E. Lartet and H. Christy Edited by T Rupert Jones, F.R.S. Comprising 27 Memoirs, contributed by E. Lartet and H Christy and others 506 pp., 87 Plates, 3 Maps, and 132 Wood Engravings. 4to, cloth Reduced to 30s. net.

ST. CLAIR (GEORGE, Author of 'Creation Records,' 'Buried Cities and Bible Countries,' etc.). MYTHS OF GREECE EXPLAINED AND DATED. An Embalmed History from Uranus to Perseus, including the Eleusian Mysteries and the Olympic Games Demy 8vo. 2 vols. 16s

SCHLOSS (DAVID F.). METHODS OF INDUSTRIAL REMUNERATION. 3rd Edition, revised and enlarged. Crown 8vo, cloth 7s. 6d.

"In its new as in its old form the book is well nigh indispensable to the student who desires to get some insight into the actual facts about the various methods of industrial remuneration, and the degree of success with which they have been applied in the various trades."—Manchester Guardian

"More useful than ever to the students of the labour problem."—Political Science Quarterly.

SPENCER (HERBERT). AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY. See
p. 31

— PRINCIPLES OF SOCIOLOGY. See p. 31.

— STUDY OF SOCIOLOGY. See p. 32.

— DESCRIPTIVE SOCIOLOGY. See p. 32.

STEPHENS (GEORGE). PROFESSOR BUGGE'S
STUDIES ON NORTHERN MYTHOLOGY EX-AMINED. Illustrations. 8vo, cloth. 8s.

— THE RUNES, WHENCE CAME THEY? 4to, sewed.
6s.

— OLD NORTHERN, RUNIC MONUMENTS. Vol.
IV. Folio. 20s. net.

THOMPSON-YATES (Rev. S. A., M.A.). SOCIAL DREAMS. 4to. 1s.

VEILED FIGURE (THE), and Other Poems. Large post 8vo, buckram, gilt, cover designed by Mr T. Blake Wirgman.
2s. 6d.

VYNNE (NORA) and HELEN BLACKBURN, and with the Assistance of H W. ALLASON. WOMEN UNDER THE FACTORY ACTS. Part 1. Position of the Employer Part 2. Position of the Employed. Crown 8vo, cloth. 1s. net.

WELD (A. G.). GLIMPSES OF TENNYSON AND OF
SOME OF HIS FRIENDS. With an Appendix by the late Bertram Tennyson. Illustrated with Portraits in photogravure and colour, and with a facsimile of a MS poem. Fcap. 8vo, art linen. 4s 6d. net.

"This is a delightful little book, written by one who has all the qualifications for the task—the opportunities of observation, the interest of relationship, and the sympathetic and appreciative temper. We do not attempt to criticise, but only to give such a description as will send our readers to it."—Spectator

"Everyone who reads the book will understand Tennyson a little better, and many will view him in a new aspect for the first time."—Daily Chronicle

"It is quite worthy of a place side by side with the larger 'Life'"—Glasgow Herald

LIST OF PERIODICALS, REVIEWS, AND TRANSACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS OF LEARNED SOCIETIES

PUBLISHED BY WILLIAMS & NORGATE.

---

THE HIBBERT JOURNAL: A Quarterly Review of Religion, Theology, and Philosophy Single numbers, 2s. 6d.
net. Subscription, 10s per annum, post free

"There is, for English readers at least, no existing medium for expression of free-thought in this best sense, and should anything but success await the venture of publishing 'The Hibbert Journal,' we shall confess painful surprise. It will be a reflection on our theological and philosophical students if they do not show full appreciation of a journal so admirably planned and so strongly commenced. For the form of the journal we have nothing but praise, the print being large and the margins ample. We have never with more sincerity wished well to a new undertaking, and should it fulfil its undoubted possibilities, 'The Hibbert Journal' must be of immense service to all serious and progressive students of the subjects with which it deals"—Christian World

THE CRITICAL REVIEW OF THEOLOGICAL AND PHILOSOPHICAL LITERATURE Edited by Principal
S. D. F. Salmond, D D, F.E.I.S. Published bi-monthly, 1s. 6d
net. Per annum, 8s 6d, post free.

"Indispensable to every theological student"—Spectator

MIND: A Quarterly Review of Psychology and Philosophy.
Edited by Dr G F. Stout. Published in the first week of January, April, July, and October. 4s. Per annum, 12s., post free

THE COMING DAY. Edited by John Page Hopps. Issued monthly. Price 3d.

THE ENGLISHWOMAN'S REVIEW OF SOCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL QUESTIONS. Edited by Antoinette M
Mackenzie. Issued quarterly on 15th January, April, July, and October. Price 1s. Per annum, 4s. 6d., post free.

---

14 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

LIST OF PERIODICALS, Etc.—Continued

- JOURNAL OF THE ROYAL MICROSCOPICAL SOCIETY, containing its Transactions and Proceedings, with other Microscopical Information. Bi-monthly 6s. net. Yearly subscriptions, 37s. 6d., post free.
- JOURNAL OF THE QUEKETT MICROSCOPICAL CLUB. Issued half-yearly, April and November. Price 3s. 6d. net. 8s. per annum, post free.
- LINNEAN SOCIETY OF LONDON. Journal of Botany and Journal of Zoology. Published irregularly at various prices.
- ROYAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH. Transactions. Issued irregularly at various prices.
- LIVERPOOL MARINE BIOLOGY COMMITTEE. Memoirs. I.–XI. already published at various prices. Fauna of Liverpool Bay. Fifth Report written by Members of the Committee and other Naturalists. Cloth. 8s. 6d. net. See p. 50.
- MEMOIRS OF THE LIVERPOOL SCHOOL OF TROPICAL MEDICINE See p. 51.
- ROYAL ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY. Memoirs and Monthly Notices. Yearly volumes at various prices.
- ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY. Transactions and Proceedings issued irregularly; prices vary. Cunningham Memoirs. Vols. I.–X. already issued at various prices.
- ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY. Transactions and Proceedings. Issued irregularly at various prices.
- REPORTS OF THE THOMPSON-YATES LABORATORIES. See p. 52.
- TRANSACTIONS OF THE EPIDEMIOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON. See p. 55.

